SMITH REAPPOINTED SENATOR AFTER HE GIVES UP HIS SEAT

Is to Enter New Primary to Be Held in April at Governor's Call.

WILL TEST SENATE'S VETO POWER, HE SAYS

Man, Denied Oath of Office, Declares He Will Not See State Robbed.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, whose seat was declared vacant by the United States Senate, late today handed his resignation to Gov. Len Small, the governor immediately reappointing him to fill the unexpired term and issuing a proclamation for a special senatorial primary and election.

The governor's proclamation said the special senatorial primary would be held on April 10, the date for the regular April primary, and that the special senatorial election would be held in November in connection with the regular election.

Smith issued a 1,400-word statement in connection with his resignation, declaring he would enter the special primary to test the will of the people of Illinois against the action of the United States Senate, which debarred him.

Mr. Smith condemned the Senate for not seating him and said he "does not intend that Illinois be robbed of its just representation." He said he had no intentions of abandoning the "cause of the State" and would enter the special primary for renomination and reelection to give Illinois an opportunity to express its desires on "whether the Senate has the veto power to reject senators."

Referred to the People.

"If the people of Illinois desire to admit that they must elect their senators subject to the veto power of the Senate," Mr. Smith said, "they ought to have an opportunity to express their desires. My candidacy will give them that opportunity which they could get in no other way at this time.

"As the issue raised by my exclusion from the Senate is one between the Senate and the people of Illinois, I refer it to the people for settlement," Smith's statement continued. "I am confident that they are aware of the gravity of the issue and that they still adhere to the ideals of liberty which inspired the fathers of the Nation when they founded our Government, and that they will not surrender their time-honored rights as citizens of a sovereign State to an oligarchy made up of a shifting majority of the Senate."

Mrs. Coolidge Is Ill; Absent From Dinner

Mrs. Coolidge was stricken with a slight cold last night and was unable to attend the dinner of President Coolidge for Speaker and Mrs. Longworth.

Her illness was described at the White House as not serious, but the cold was thought by her physician to be such that she had better remain in her room.

FIVE MEN SHOT DEAD OVER FANCIED WRONG

Packing House Employe Kills 4 and Wounds 2; Is Slain by Policemen.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Five persons, two of them policemen, were shot and killed today and two others wounded when a negro with a fancied grudge against a packing house employe set out with a pistol to seek revenge. The negro, Ralph Elliott, died the victim of a bullet fired by a mortally wounded policeman.

Elliott, a former employe of the Omaha Packing Co., waited at the gate of the plant for James Ellis, another negro. When Ellis appeared, Elliott fired, killing Ellis and wounding Donald McNeilly, white, another employe.

As Elliott dashed from the packing company gates he ran into Charles Miller, 63, employe of a chemical company, whom he killed.

Elliott then rushed to a South Side rooming house. Two policemen, Lieut. Edward Murphy and Sergt. James Keegan, went through the front door and three others went to the rear entrance.

There were half a dozen shots and when other policemen arrived Keegan lay dead at the entrance to Elliott's apartment, Elliott, dead, lay under the bed, and in the kitchen was Murphy, a wound near his heart. Nearby lay a second negro, badly wounded. Murphy died within ten minutes.

Three Women in Fight For Parliament Seat

London, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Political circles in England are much interested in the possibility that a triangular fight among women candidates is impending in the coming parliamentary by-election in St. Ives.

The candidates have not yet been chosen, but there is reason to believe that each party will run a woman, and with no men competing, this would be a complete novelty in English elections.

KANSAS CITY TO KEEP REPUBLICAN CONCLAVE

Convention Will Not Be Moved to Another City, Chairman Butler Announces.

ROOMS ENOUGH, HE SAYS

(Associated Press.)

Widely circulated reports that the Republican national committee might take the national convention away from Kansas City evaporated yesterday when Chairman William M. Butler announced that such action is not and never was contemplated. He made this statement after a meeting of a part of the committee charged with perfecting arrangements for the June convention, and after there had been more or less speculation as to whether hotel facilities would accommodate the great crowd which the convention will draw to Kansas City.

The committee heard a report by a delegation from Kansas City, headed by Conrad H. Mann, chairman of the local convention organization, on the number of rooms available for the 5,200 delegates, alternates, newspaper men and convention officers. The report listed about 4,400 rooms, which impressed the arrangements committee as being adequate.

After the meeting, Chairman Butler issued the following statement:

"The national committee made its decision in December to hold the convention in Kansas City and that was final. There never has been any thought of t ing it away from Kansas City.

"This meeting was not called with any thought of undoing what the committee did last December.

"We are of the impression that there will be enough rooms for everybody. The meeting was concerned with details and perfecting of housing plans so that every one will know just where they are going to stay before the convention meets."

The chairman said that th would be another meeting of the committee March 9, at which a final report from Kansas City is expected.

SENATORS DEBATE THIRD-TERM ACTION

Fess Grilled by Democrats as He Opposes Resolution by La Follette.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Coolidge's possible renomination was held before the Senate for more than two hours yesterday as steps were taken in another of the big six States, Indiana, that tend to block the selection of Secretary Hoover.

Headed by Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, Indiana Republican members of the House got together and formally indorsed the candidacy of Senator Watson for President. It was made known that the senator's formal candidacy has already been filed in his State and M. Bert Thurman, collector of internal revenue there, named as his campaign manager.

The senator is just as serious a candidate as any of the rest of them, but he is entertaining no delusions about his chances. The first and most important practical result of the action taken in his behalf will be to close the State to the Secretary of Commerce unless he decides to do the same with regard to it as he did to the Ohio situation, determine to fight.

Fess Defends Another Term.

In the meantime Senator Fess, of Ohio, the colleague of Senator Willis an avowed presidential candidate, vigorously defended the President's right, "without the loss of honor," to take the nomination if it is tendered him, and at the end was withering under an onslaught from the Democrats. Senator Fess spoke against the La Follette anti-third term resolution, asserting that in the first place President Coolidge would not be serving three terms and giving it as his opinion that the "third-term idea did not enter" into the President's famous "choose" statement and its supplemental declaration.

He insisted, as he has insisted once before, that the President was absolutely sincere; that he wants to retire at the end of this term, but that there is nothing in any of his statements to "preclude him" from yielding to the draft.

For at least an hour of his two hours on the floor, and he had announced when he arose that because of a cold he would speak only briefly, the Democrats—Robinson, Harrison, Bruce, Reed, Heflin and Neely—pounded away at the professorial Ohioan. If the President

Young Sweethearts Found Slain in Auto

Bryn Mawr, Pa, Feb 9 (A.P.).—An apparent murder and suicide of the youthful principals in a love affair was discovered early today in the finding of the bodies of a young man and girl huddled together in an automobile in Haverford Township, near here.

The girl, Bella Alexander, 17, died from a bullet wound of the head and another of the abdomen. Her 21-year-old sweetheart, Louis Shapiro, is believed to have died instantly from a bullet which pierced his temple.

The pair had been sweethearts for three years, police learned, and were to have been married in two weeks. The girl postponed the wedding recently.

Gale Causes Heavy Losses In the Los Angeles Region

Dome of Mt. Lowe Observatory Torn Off and Telescope Cracked; Houses and Planes Wrecked; Fires Spread By the Storm.

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb 9 (A.P.).—A terrific windstorm mowed a swath of havoc in the Los Angeles region of southern California today and then departed almost as quickly as it came.

The gale tore off the dome of Mount Lowe Observatory, near Pasadena, and cracked its huge telescope in two. The wind at times reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour and wrecked houses, tore up trees, fanned into flames two fires that menaced many fine buildings and crushed several airplanes.

Chester Hammack, a 13-year-old boy, was killed when he grasped a 4,000-volt electric line which had blown down near his home near Pasadena. So far as known that was the only death in the storm.

One of the fires burned over several hundred acres of the Verdugo Hills, back of Glendale, near here. The other fire was in the Flint Ridge district, where it burned over a large area. Both fires were under control tonight after hundreds of fighters battled the flames most of the day. A patrol of about 300 men was left on duty to prevent a flare-up.

The Glendale fire reached within a half mile of the Oakmont Country Club and menaced many costly homes in the district. This fire was caused by the breaking of a high-tension electric line in the gale early this morning. The Flint Ridge fire was started from a small smoldering brush fire. It burned a Flint Ridge home valued at $10,000 and threatened the Flint Ridge Country Club and Riding Academy.

In Glendale, the gale smashed a hangar and wrecked the airplanes in it. At Burbank the wind partly unroofed a schoolhouse and razed a church under construction. It tore down electric light poles and put 400 private telephones out of commission. Many plate glass windows were broken. At Altadena one house was toppled over and many trees and poles were broken and uprooted.

Three airplanes were crushed at Brea, southeast of here, when the hangar of the Tremaine Aircraft Co. collapsed. Several oil derricks were destroyed.

ARGENTINA WRECKS NEW PAN-AMERICAN CONVENTION HOPES

Havana, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The categorical demand of Argentina, unshaken after five hours of debate today, for inclusion in the preamble of the proposed new Pan-American Union convention of a statement of purpose to abolish excessive tariff barriers and other trade restraints has wrecked beyond all hope of attainment one of the chief objects of the conference.

Since unanimous action is necessary to make a resolution effective, it will be impossible for the conference to conclude any convention or regulation for the union. It was emphasized, however, that this will not close the institution, since special provisions have been provided to maintain it in its present state in event of just such a situation as arose today.

For five consecutive hours delegates in subcommittee debated whether the preamble should contain references of the kind demanded by Ambassador Pueyrredon, of Argentina. Finally it was announced that a report would be made tomorrow to the full Pan-American committee that no agreement is possible among delegates regarding a convention.

Wants Economic Union.

The Argentine Ambassador took the same stand today which yesterday brought him into conflict with Chairman Hughes, of the American delegation. He maintained single-handed his thesis that Pan-Americanism should tend toward economic union of the countries it comprised, against the remonstrances of Salvador, Nicaragua, Peru, Cuba and Mexico, which were also represented on the subcommittee.

It was understood that his opponents offered many compromises without success. It was suggested at one time that the preamble be omitted altogether. Ambassador Pueyrredon announced that in tha case he would insist on the in-

Naval Plane Lands In Maryland Field

Lieut. Comdr. Arthur C Davis, of the Bureau of Aeronautics, made a forced landing in a field in Maryland, near Chesapeake Junction, yesterday afternoon, while flying a U-0 plane from Mitchel Field to the Naval Air Station at Anacostia. The plane ran out of gasoline due to a leaking valve.

The plane was not damaged and the officer was not injured. A supply of fuel was sent him from the station here and he continued his flight. About two months ago Davis made a forced landing on the race track at Bowie, when engine trouble developed.

WHIPPED AT SCHOOL, BOY IS GIVEN $1,500

Kansas City, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A verdict of $1,500 damages was returned today by a jury which heard 10-year-old Edwin Christman's complaint against his former teacher, Miss Mary Hickman, for whipping him when he failed to solve an arithmetic problem.

Edwin was whipped on May 19, 1926, when he was a boy of 9 in the third grade. His parents brought suit for $15,000.

The boy testified he could not answer when Miss Hickman asked him how many times 4 goes into 32. Miss Hickman, however, testified that Edwin knew the answer, but was too stubborn to give it.

The most important question raised in the trial was whether the boy's left leg was broken by blows from the stick Miss Hickman used. Physicians for the plaintiff said it was. Those for the defendant said it was not.

5 Men to Be Executed Same Day by State

Oklahoma City, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The Daily Oklahoman says it has learned that five of eight men in "death row" at the State Penitentiary at Macalester have been found sane and that they may be electrocuted on the same day.

Gov. Henry S. Johnston recently ordered all executions delayed until a sanity committee he appointed had examined the condemned men. The Oklahoman says the committee reported three of the men insane and five sane, and that unless the governor intercedes the five will be executed on the same day.

Poincare Is Upheld On Finance Policy

Paris, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Premier Poincare's government received a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies today at the end of the long debate on the financial program. The vote was 370 to 131.

He defended the policy of his government, saying that while there had been economic stringency, the financial situation was improved.

Dirigibles to Span Ocean In 90 Days, Asserts Hoover

Government to Cooperate With British in Carrying Out Plan For Regular Mail and Passenger Service, He Says—Lakehurst to Be Port.

(Associated Press.)

Regular transatlantic mail and passenger service by dirigible airships will be instituted within three months with the cooperation and approval of the American Government, Secretary Hoover said yesterday in announcing the conclusion of conferences with representatives of the British interests who are responsible for the enterprises.

The dirigible R-100, now under construction in England, designed to carry 100 passengers and ten tons of mail, is to start the air service on a tentative schedule that will consume 48 hours on the westward voyages and 38 hours on the eastward return.

The American Government will loan the R-100 the use of the naval air station mooring mast and equipment at Lakehurst, N. J. Negotiations are now under way with the Postoffice Department by which the air liner will be given a special mail contract at a premium rate of postage, as the land airplane mail services now receive.

The aeronautic section of the Commerce Department will apply to the vessel only the treatment given foreign ships in American harbors, which means the acceptance of English regulations and supervision with reference to the vessel's safety and design.

In case the trial trips with the R-100 justify the outlay, Hoover said, Americans will be invited to associate themselves with the British enterprise in the construction of several additional dirigibles for the service. C. Dennis Burney, a member of the English parliament, has dealt with Hoover and other American officials in the negotiations for the installation of the new air service.

VERDICT IS RETURNED AFTER 45 MINUTES

"State Wins by a Neck," He Comments; "Predestined," Is His Conclusion.

Los Angeles, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Eight men and four women, some elderly, some middle-aged, the jury holding the fate of William Edward Hickman, confessed slayer of Marian Parker, today stripped his cloak of asserted insanity from him and branded him a murderer.

Two verdicts were rendered in forty-five minutes in the sanity trial, one that Hickman was sane on the murder charge and the other that he was sane on the kidnaping charge.

Judge J. J. Trabucco announced that he would pass sentence on the prisoner Saturday. Jerome Walsh, Hickman's chief attorney, said that he would give notice of appeal from the verdict at that time.

Death or Life Imprisonment.

Under the law either the death penalty by hanging or life imprisonment for the convicted man may be imposed.

Hickman, alias "the Fox," continued to be the indifferent, unmoved, calloused criminal, even to laughingly joking about his probable hanging when visited by newspaper men in the county jailer's office today a half hour after the verdict.

"The die is cast and the State wins by a neck," was his joking reaction to the verdict which means death or life imprisonment for him. Clad in the jail blue denim, he sparred and joked entirely unconcernedly about the thirteen steps to the noose, which he expects awaits him.

"Predestined," He Holds.

"That's all right," he had said to his attorneys as they expressed their sorrow to him at the verdict. "This all has been planned beforehand." "Predestination" was his terse explanation of the assertion.

"Yes, I'll stand by my claim to guidance by Providence, unless some one convinces me of a deity.

"I don't know yet why I killed the Parker girl, but I did and I'll take my punishment."

Informed by Jailer Frank Dewar that a request had come from the University of Chicago that, in event he hangs, he first will his body to the university for the benefit of science, Hickman's answer was he'd have to consult his attorney.

Unperturbed in Court.

The trial was the first under the new California law on Hickman's plea that he was not guilty on both charges "by reason of insanity."

Hickman, having confessed his crimes, and pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, and been found sane by the jury, the Court assumed that the next step was to pass sentence, which will be done Saturday.

The convicted man sat bolt upright looking straight ahead as the jury foreman read his findings. He seemed unperturbed. Maintaining his pose, Hickman, with his guard at his side, walked from the courtroom with a firm step back to his cell in the county jail.

The closing scenes of the trial, which started January 25, moved rapidly. Hickman heard the thunderous denunciation by District Attorney Asa A. Keyes, and Judge Trabucco took less than twenty minutes to instruct the jurors. The keynote of the Court's address was that the sole issue to be decided was whether or not the defendant was sane or insane at the time of the crime.

Lucid Moments Are Issue.

Judge Trabucco pointed out that the law refuses to recognize a plea of "uncontrollable impulse." Further the jury was required to find Hickman sane if it had been shown he had or has lucid moments.

To be adjudged insane, said Judge Trabucco, his mind must have been affected to the extent that he did not know the difference between right and wrong.

Turning to defense evidence, the Court instructed the jurors that a slight preponderance of evidence would be sufficient to warrant a verdict of insane.

Finally the eight men and four women in the box were told that they should reach their verdict uninfluenced by pity or sympathy for Hickman and unswayed by prejudice against him.

District Attorney Keyes, a veteran in prosecution, heaped contempt and scorn on the prisoner, pictured him a calculating, cold-blooded killer, actuated by greed for money, and "rotten to the core, but sane."

Would Have Wanted Lynching.

The prosecuting attorney declared that "it was only owing to the fact that we are civilized that a mob did not

M'MULLIN TESTIMONY ATTACKED BY WRIGHT

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

Presentation of defense testimony in the contempt trial of Harry F. Sinclair, W. J. Burns and three other respondents was begun yesterday after Justice Frederick L. Siddons had granted the separate motion for the discharge of the rule and the dismissal of the petition in so far as it involved Sheldon Clark, of Chicago, vice president of the Sinclair Refining Co.

The court ruled, despite its decision on Wednesday against the discharge of all the respondents, that the Government had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Clark had been guilty of contempt, but it suggested that similar motions which Charles A. Douglas, of the Burns agency, proposed to make be deferred until defense evidence had been submitted.

The presence of a witness on the stand, on this occasion S. M. Current, an official of the Ohio State Penitentiary, had the effect of throwing the proceedings back into the involved legal status which has presented itself so often before. Counsel for the respondents sought through the witness to impeach the testimony of William J. McMullin, demonstrate his lack of credibility and establish his bias, and Maj. Peyton Gordon, United States district attorney, fought with equal force to prevent widening of the case into what he termed collateral matters.

Finger Prints Start Argument.

As a result, Mr. Current was not allowed to answer more than half a dozen questions and more than two hours was consumed in argument for and against the right of the witness to compare alleged finger prints of McMullin and testify whether or not he considered them to have been made by the same person.

Mr. Douglas contended that he had a right to obtain such evidence from the witness on the ground that it would tend to impeach McMullin's testimony and throw light upon his credibility. Judge Daniel Thew Wright, counsel for Henry Mason Day, in an argument, referred to McMullin as a "foul-hearted fiend," and was admonished by the Court. He insisted that the evidence was admissible because one of the papers was McMullin's alleged application for employment with the Burns agency in 1925 on which he had been refused work, and that this refusal had created a state of bias which inspired McMullin in his testimony in the present case.

Justice Siddons, although he indicated that he thought such an inquiry would be going far afield ar that it was best to stop at the present stage, reserved his decision on this particular point until this morning at the request of Mr Douglas, who said that he wished to have time to consult further authorities.

Refuses to Withhold Ruling.

The motion for dismissal of Mr. Clark was preceded when court opened by an effort on the part of Judge Wright to have the Court hold up its ruling of the previous day refusing the motion to dismiss as far as all of the respondents were concerned. The attorney for Mr. Day argued that he wished to have further opportunity to present the Court his views on the matter of indirect tendency to obstruct justice which Justice Siddons indicated in his ruling was as pertinent as the direct tendency which counsel for the respondents had emphasized. Justice Siddons ruled, however, that the matter had been disposed of by his decision of the previous day.

The successful argument for the discharge of Mr. Clark was made by E. C. Brandenburg and Morgan Beach, his counsel in the case. Mr. Brandenburg insisted that the Government's evidence showed that the part of Mr. Clark in the case had been that of either a friend of Mr. Day or a messenger boy and that he had had nothing to do with the employment of the Burns agency. There were, Mr. Brandenburg insisted, only three occasions when Mr. Clark had been brought into the case at all and that the evidence in no one of those instances demonstrated that Mr. Clark had part or knowledge in the shadowing of the jury. He insisted that it was not possible to show beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Clark had anything to do with the enterprise, and emphasized the fact that Government representatives themselves had referred to the fact that the evidence was "not comparable" or "slim" in Clark's case.

Oppose Clearing of Clark.

Neil Burkinshaw, assistant United States district attorney, in answer to Mr. Brandenburg, said that what either he or James J. O'Leary had said as to evidence against Mr. Clark was not evidence in the case, and that the only question was whether there was enough proof to show a definite and active part by Mr. Clark in the shadowing of the jury.

"I submit that there is," said Mr. Burkinshaw, "on the facts as the Government has shown them there can be drawn no reasonable conclusion but that Mr. Clark knew what was being done, knew that the surveillance of the jury was being carried on and was cognizant just as much as Harry F. Sinclair and Henry Mason Day of what was being done. The Government has shown that this was a general enterprise and that Mr. Clark knew of it and participated in it."

Mr. Beach pictured Mr. Clark as a mere errand boy and friend of Mr. Day. "To hold anything else," he said, "would be to strain the doctrine of criminal responsibility to the breaking point. It is a rather large order to connect Mr. Clark with this case. Your Honor would hardly be justified to restrict his liberty on such a flimsy ground as this."

Siddons Rules on Motion.

"Of course," said Justice Siddons in making his ruling, "the expressions of counsel may be disregarded by the court, but when Government counsel says that the evidence against one of these respondents is not comparable or slim it ought to be considered in the final determination; to ignore it would be almost to scorn it.

"The respondent Clark was charged with the others named in this petition in the employment of these detectives. The burden is upon the Government to establish his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. The evidence submitted, although it shows some participation on his part, falls very far short of the measure of proof required in a case of this nature. His connection with the undertaking appears to me to have been casual and accidental. This is not to be taken as meaning that he may not have known of it, but whether he may beyond a reasonable doubt be found guilty of criminal contempt is another thing.

"It happens that in this instance I find myself in accord with Mr. O'Leary and Mr. Burkinshaw when they said that the evidence against Mr. Clark was not comparable to that against the other respondents and that it was slim. I think they were both right, and because I think that, I feel called upon to say to this man that I don't think I could convict him beyond a reasonable doubt. I therefore grant the motion to dismiss made in his behalf."

"I am very much gratified, of course," said Mr. Clark after his dismissal, "and feel that the ultimate result as to the others will be the same."

Douglas Defers Motions.

Mr. Douglas arose to make a separate motion as to Charles L. Vietsch and W. J. Burns but, at the suggestion of the court, deferred it until after the presentation of all evidence. The first step of the defense was to offer a certified copy of the conviction of McMullin for forgery in Ohio, which was admitted in evidence after a sharp legal tilt.

Mr. Current, identification officer and compiler of records at the Ohio State penitentiary, was the first defense witness. He testified that he knew McMullin and said that he had been an inmate of the penitentiary for eight months and worked at a prison brickyard for five months before being paroled. McMullin, on the stand, had testified to two months in prison and ten or eleven months at the brickyard.

Mr. Douglas made an effort to submit all of the record dealing with McMullin, brought from the prison files, as evidence, but was blocked by Maj. Gordon. It was then he made the effort, after establishing that Mr. Current was a fingerprint expert, to have the witness compare the fingerprints of McMullin, taken as a prisoner, with those on an application alleged to be the one McMullin filed with the Burns agency in 1925, but which McMullin, in his testimony, had never acknowledged as being in his handwriting.

Rockefeller Is to Testify In Senate Oil Inquiry Here

Walsh Subpenas Millionaire to Obtain Information Refused by Stewart. Denies He Knows Anything About Deals in Bonds. On Stand Tomorrow.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate inquiry into the operations of the Continental Trading Co. of Canada will be reopened tomorrow with John D. Rockefeller, jr., recognized head of the Standard Oil interests, as the chief witness.

Rockefeller accepted a telegraphic subpena yesterday from the Teapot Dome committee, but at the same time advised Senator Walsh, of Montana the prosecutor of the investigation, that he still was "without information which has not already been submitted to the committee."

The subpena for Rockefeller was issued after the committee had made public correspondence between him and Senator Walsh with respect to the appearance of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the bord of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, before the investigating body.

The chairman of the board of trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation is to be questioned as to whether Stewart gave to him information which he withheld from the committee—what knowledge, if any, he had of persons who received liberty bonds from the Continental and whether he had discussed the disposition of those bonds with Harry F. Sinclair, central figure in the whole oil inquiry.

In his telegram to Senator Walsh, Rockefeller said he had personally expressed his regret to Stewart that the latter had not answered all the questions put to him, and had been informed that nothing could change the decision of the Standard of Indiana official against whom the Senate has asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court to start contempt proceedings.

Informing Senator Walsh that Stewart had stated that the stockholders of his company could have his resignation whenever they desired it, Rockefeller said "this is a question which the stockholders should, of course, and will, naturally, consider as the matter develops."

Other Witnesses Called.

Besides Rockefeller, the committee also has subpenaed A. W. Rice, manager of the New York branch of the Dominion Bank of Canada and C. S. Howard, now of Toronto, but formerly connected with the New York agency of the Dominion Bank. They are also to be questioned Saturday.

Subpenas also have been sent to a number of clerks of the Dominion agency. They are to be asked about notations on the margins of the ledger accounts of the Continental Co. and H. S. Osler, jr., of Toronto, who headed the corporation which made $3,000,000 in profits in dealing in American oil.

Chairman Nye said photostatic copies of these ledger sheets had been obtained by the committee and that some of the notations were of "peculiar" character.

"I have seen Col. Stewart and have told him in person what I have said to him in my letter of January 24, of which you have a copy, namely, that in my judgment the public interest demands that the fullest possible light be thrown upon the matter now under investigation by the Senate committee.

"I also told him that I greatly regretted he had not answered the questions put to him. Col. Stewart confirmed the position which he had taken before the committee and said nothing could change his decision. He further stated that he did not wish to embarrass in any way the stockholders of his company and that they could have his resignation whenever they desired it. This is a question which the stockholders should of course and will naturally consider as the matter develops.

"While greatly regretting the present situation and frankly at a loss to know what more I can do, I stand ready, as heretofore, to render any service in my power to help the committee in its efotrs to expose wrong doing.

"In my talk with Col. Stewart he refused positively to discuss the case except as above stated. I, therefore, am still without any information which has not already been submitted to the committee. I have wired the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate that I would accept his night letter as service of the subpena the Senate committee has issued and appear before the committee on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock as directed.

SELF-STYLED EX-NUN GUARDED BY POLICE IN CLARENDON TALK

CATHOLIC CONVENT ALSO UNDER GUARD

Released on bond earlier in the day when arraigned on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, Mrs. Neva Miller Moss, self-styled "ex-nun," again last night delivered her lecture on conditions in Catholic convents at a gathering of women in the Odd Fellows Hall, Clarendon, Va.

More than 900 women flocked to the hall last night to hear the lecture which was "for women only," and scores of men, barred from the meeting, stood around the outside until the lecture was over. Many women who arrived late were unable to gain admittance, while several took their own chairs into the hall.

Last night's lecture and the one the preceding night, at which Mrs. Moss was arrested, dominated the day's activities in the little Virginia town, and so high did feeling run that precautions were taken to protect the Catholic convent which is only a short distance from the hall in which Mrs. Moss spoke. Guards stood vigil over the convent during the lecture and through the night.

A squad of eight county policemen under Sheriff Howard Fields was on duty at the hall last night, and they closed the doors when the hall was filled about 8 o'clock. When Mrs. Moss left the hall four of the officers formed a guard around her in order to get her through the crowd to her automobile.

Scores of automobiles bearing Washington licenses were among those parked around the hall, and many women from the Capital attended the lecture.

Mrs. Moss was arraigned before Police Court Judge Harry Thomas yesterday morning on a warrant sworn out by Thomas F. Dolan, jr. The false pretense charge grew out of her describing herself as an ex-nun, Catholics of the county, headed by Dolan, contending that she never had been a nun. The case was continued until tomorrow upon motion of William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney, who said that he wished to have witnesses present from out of town. Bond was set at $100 for Mrs. Moss' appearance

Dolan said last night that it is his intention to have warrants sworn out charging all those who aided Mrs. Moss in her meetings with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Mrs. Moss plans to speak tonight at a meeting in the hall of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics in Ballston.

Hundreds of empty bottles were destroyed by the raiders, who also seized paraphernalia which they said was designed for the manufacture of synthetic beverages.

Hundreds of homegoing office employes lined the sidewalks in front of the establishment as the raiding party proceeded with the task of loading the First Precinct patrol wagon with the confiscated "wet goods," and prisoners. Those held were Karl Frederick De Rooy, 34 years old, 1109 Fourteenth street, charged with manufacture and possession of liquor; Allen Atkinson, colored, 26 years old, charged with sale, manufacture and possession and William Whitlock, who said he was counterman at the sea food restaurant, charged with manufacturing and possession of liquor.

Restrictions Placed On the Sale of Iodine

Wholesale conversion of pharmaceutical iodine into the manufacture of bootleg liquor prompted Prohibition Commissioner James A. Doran yesterday to issue a restrictive regulation against the sale and delivery of iodine in large consignments.

The order provides that all orders in excess of 50 gallons a month must be submitted to the prohibition administrator in charge in the particular district before the order may be filled by the manufacturer. The order was submitted to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who formally approved it. Commissioner Doran declared yesterday that the regulation met with the approval of the legitimate iodine trade.

HEALING COMMISSION PROPOSED BY COPELAND

SENATOR DRAFTS BILL

Creation of a commission to regulate the various healing professions in the District of Columbia is proposed in a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

The commission would be composed of the president of the Board of Commissioners of the District, the United States Commissioner of Education, the United States attorney for the District, the superintendent of schools and the District health officer.

This commission, in turn, would set up a number of boards, the duties of which would be to examine applicants who wished to practice medicine or to practice the various "drugless" arts, such as osteopathy, chiropracty or naturopathy.

However, there would be one board before which the applicants would have to go before appearing before the others, a board on basic sciences. This board would determine the applicant's knowledge of the human body.

There are now pending in Congress bills which would crate separate boards to regulate chiropracty, osteopathy and naturopathy. If the Copeland bill were approved by all those concerned, the others probably would be sidetracked.

A bill was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Oliver (Democrat), of New York, providing that women in the Government service shall be eligible for retirement as soon as they reach the age of 60, if they have served fifteen years

The bill further provides that women shall have the option of retiring after 25 years' service regardless of age.

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE SOLARIUM DEDICATED

Sunlight Filters Through Glass Preparation Without Losing Ultra-Violet Rays.

A scientifically constructed solarium, paneled with glass so prepared that sunlight filters through it without losing any of the ultra-violet rays necessary to the health of the tots who gather there, was dedicated yesterday at Neighborhood House, 470 N street southwest, by the board of trustees of the institution.

Yesterday's dedication followed an extensive experiment with the new glass preparation, during which health records of preschool classes at the settlement house were observed to improve by a third over past records. Further research at the house by Dr. Hazel L. Munsell, of the Public Health Service, with white rats showed the glass of curative value in cases of rickets.

A luncheon preceding the dedication was addressed by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who discussed the contribution of ultra-violet rays and food vitamines to medical science. Other speakers included Miss Nell Body Taylor, Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, president of Neighborhood House, and Miss Olive M. Gardner, of the Vita Glass Co., which donated the panels used to complete the solarium.

COURT, POLICE AND DRY OFFICIALS HONOR FORD

Doran Praises the Work of Deputy in Charge of Capital Prohibition.

M'BRIDE GIVES ADDRESS

High prohibition, police and court officials last night honored Robert D. Ford, for the last year deputy administrator in charge of the local prohibition office, at a testimonial dinner in the Arlington Hotel. Ford has been promoted to be assistant prohibition administrator at Baltimore, and will begin work Monday.

Prohibition Commissioner James A. Doran praised the work of Ford, who, he pointed out, had held the local office longer than any other man. Doran also praised the Police Department, which he declared to be the best in the United States. The local police have shown a splendid spirit of cooperation in aiding Federal agents, Doran said, and in no city in the country are the satisfactory results of complete harmony and mutual respect between police and Federal agents more happily illustrated than in Washington.

Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of the Police Court, the toastmaster, indorsed Doran's views in regard to the Police Department and declared that no matter what personal opinions officials entertain in regard to prohibition, nor how difficult enforcement may be, the law must be upheld so long as it is on the statute books. Judge Isaac R. Hitt gave it as his opinion that the eighteenth amendment would never be repealed and that the present law should be vigorously enforced.

Dr. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, congratulated Ford upon his promotion and praised him for his enforcement work. The "good" people of the country are backing law enforcement officers, he said, and are testing whether orderly government shall prevail in the United States.

Ford has had a varied and extensive experience in prohibition enforcement, for seven years previous to his Washington assignment being continuously employed in the enforcement of the prohibition and internal revenue laws in New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia.

Other speakers were Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Alf Oftedal, United States Commissioner Needham Turnage, Inspector Albert J. Headley, Albert E. Shoemaker and Col. Woodcock, United States attorney at Baltimore, who welcomed Ford to his new post.

CITIZENS WIN FIGHT FOR GAS RATE CUT

Hyattsville Company Announces Elimination of 50-Cent Service Charge.

The Washington Suburban Gas Co., of Hyattsville, Md., announced to a group of citizens at a banquet last night in the Masonic Hall, Hyattsville, that the 50 cents a month service charge, the butt of much opposition, had been eliminated, and a sliding scale of rates installed, which would bring a reduction.

The citizens, representing all the towns served by the company, were first taken on an inspection of the company's plant, in which extensive improvements have been made. The company serves virtually all the towns of Prince Georges County which would be incorporated in the proposed "Maryland City." The new rates will be put into effect February 15.

Mark Pendleton, president of the company, said that under the new rates the company's revenues would be reduced $4,200, as based on the business done last year. The reduction, he said, was not made because of a surplus, but in response to the demands of citizens and in an effort to increase the business.

Other speakers were H. L. Leonard, of the company; W. S. Strouss, valuation engineer of the Public Service Commission of Maryland, and Dr. H. T. Willis, Mayor of Hyattsville.

accompanied by her husband, greeted him and got into his automobile. Sale, according to witnesses to the shooting, immediately started firing a pistol. One of the bullets struck Davis in the head. Another fractured his right arm. Davis fell from his automobile to the sidewalk. Sale emptied the pistol, containing five bullets, at Davis as he lay on the ground, but none of the shots took effect.

Wife Made Appointment.

Mrs. Sale told Lieut. of Detectives Edward Kelly her husband, enraged by alleged attentions paid his wife by Davis, had forced her to make an appointment with Davis in front of the Mayflower Hotel.

Davis, from his bed at the Emergency Hospital, told detectives he received a telephone call from Mrs. Sale while he was at work at the Patent Office yesterday morning asking him to meet her in front of the Mayflower Hotel at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

When first questioned by detectives, Sale denied he had planned to shoot Davis, whom he had known for several months. Later, when confronted by his wife, Sale is alleged to have admitted urging his wife to "make a date with Davis."

H. T. Masters, a taxicab driver, gave detectives a graphic eye-witness story of the shooting. He told detectives he saw Sale and his wife sitting in a parked sedan across from the Mayflower Hotel shortly before Davis drove up in his roadster.

Detective Near Scene.

Mrs. Sale got out of the sedan, followed by her husband, when Davis parked his automobile, Masters said, and then Mrs. Sale got into Davis' machine.

"The next thing I knew Sale had started firing," Masters asserted. "I saw Davis either fall or pull himself from his automobile and then grabbed Sale as he emptied his gun at Davis who was lying on the sidewalk."

Detective Warfield, who was walking on Connecticut avenue when he heard the first shot fired, ran to the scene of the shooting and placed Sale under arrest. Mrs. Sale ran towards Connecticut avenue and M street when the shooting started, but later came back when her husband was arrested She was placed in custody also by Warfield and taken to detective headquarters for questioning.

Denies Ground for Jealousy.

Sale is locked up at the Sixth Precinct. His wife is being held at the House of Detention. Both are being held "for investigation."

Sale, a clerk at the Sunbeam Market on North Capitol street, told police he and his wife had lived at 114 Bryant street northwest, where Davis boarded, but had moved recently when he suspected Davis of paying attentions to his wife.

Mrs. Sale told police her husband's suspicions were groundless. She admitted Davis had taken her to the Magruder grocery store at Eighteenth and M streets northwest, where she is employed, several times in his automobile, but denied ever having kept a tryst with Davis.

When asked whether she was going to stick by her husband, Mrs. Sale replied:

"I'm going to stick to my story, but I hope he gets out of all this trouble."

Man Shot in Maryland In Critical Condition

While a police inquiry into the circumstances under which Frank Brady, 24 years old, of 604 H street northwest, was shot in the jaw, was thwarted yesterday, due to the man's condition, it was learned from physicians who attended him that he was fired upon by a negro, about 26 miles from Washington, in Maryland.

The man was taken to Sibley Hospital about 7 o'clock Thursday night and yesterday morning was given ether before police of the Second Precinct were able to question him. An operation to remove the bullet was performed by Dr. Edward Cafritz, 1513 Sixteenth street northwest. His condition is described as serious.

Civic and Federal Officials and Pan-American Envoys Are to Be Present.

Havana, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today visited the Columbia Flying Field, where he landed yesterday from Port-au-Prince, and made a careful inspection of his famous Spirit of St. Louis.

He found the plane in good condition for his return flight to the United States on Monday.

Lindbergh then returned to the embassy and later went to the Officers Club, at Camp Columbia, where he was given a luncheon by Cuban aviation officers. Among those at the luncheon were Vice President La Rosa, Secretary of State Ortiz, Secretary of War Iturralde and Ambassador Judah. After lunch the American flier returned to the embassy for a reception late this afternoon.

Crowds of spectators this morning lined the fences at the Camp Columbia aviation field in the hope of seeing Col. Lindbergh or his famous plane, but by noon, when he had not arrived, they left the field deserted but for the regular officials.

A close military guard was maintained today and no one was allowed to enter the field on any pretext. The hangar where the Spirit of St. Louis is sheltered was patrolled by soldiers, and police were on duty along the streets near the field.

A special grandstand is in the course of construction in the Central Park in Havana where a golden key will be presented to the American flier at noon tomorrow, all civic officials, as well as federal officers and delegates to the Pan-American Congress, will attend this function.

Will Fly Up Florida Coast.

Exact plans for his flight to St. Louis Monday have not yet been completed. "I plan, however, to go along the west coast of Florida," Lindbergh explained. "I expect to leave with a comparatively light load. In fact the Spirit of St. Louis has in it now enough gasoline to take it to St. Louis."

Col. Breckenridge, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's attorney, was detained several hours at military headquarters last night. He was charged with having violated orders issued yesterday by Gen. Alberto Herrera, chief of staff.

Shortly before the arrival of Col. Lindbergh at the Camp Columbia Flying Field yesterday afternoon, Breckenridge ascended in a plane, in violation of the orders prohibiting flights in the afternoon hours, and until Lindbergh had landed. Because of this he was held for the disposition of the chief of staff until 7 o'clock last evening, when through the personal appeal of Col. Lindbergh he was released.

Reception at U. S. Embassy.

After the festivities at Camp Columbia, the flying colonel today accompanied Ambassador Judah to the American Embassy. A reception there at 4 o'clock was attended by thousands of Americans and residents of Havana. Notwithstanding the various receptions and greetings, Col. Lindbergh appeared refreshed today, showing no effects of his recent flights.

Col. Lindbergh greeted all who formed the unending line at the reception with a smile, but only rarely did he break his rule to shake hands. Women outnumbered men by at least four to one in the stream of callers who passed from the terrace of the embassy through the reception room and out onto the tennis courts where their impressions were exchanged over the refreshments.

"Oh, if I could only kiss you," pleaded one white-haired woman. Another admirer exclaimed "I don't blame you for not shaking hands, but I'd give my right hand for a kiss."

Invited to U. S. Towns.

Many of the transient American population of Havana, who mingled with the Cubans at the reception, urged the aviator to continue his flights to their home towns. "Come to Utica, my boy; we'll give you a time of your life," invited a caller who appeared wearing a bright blue blazer. The visitors greatly exceeded in number the 3,000 invitations which had been issued.

The Cuban secretary of state, Martinez Ortiz, was the first official to call. Many other prominent figures appeared from time to time, but the doors of the embassy remained open to persons of whatever degree who wished to pay homage to the aviator.

Col. Lindbergh declined to attend the annual grand ball tonight at the Havana Yacht Club. Dinner at the embassy was followed by a conference with his legal adviser, Col. Henry Breckenridge, after which he intended to retire early.

State Schools Denied Right to Use the Bible

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Use of the Bible in public schools was prohibited today by Attorney General W. W. Potter in an opinion which necessitates discontinuance of religious courses in the various normal schools and at Michigan State College.

Potter explained that the constitution clearly prevents use of any religious textbooks. Although the State college and the normals are not public schools, under the law, authorities explained the constitutional provision affecting the lower institutions would have like effect upon them.

The University of Michigan is not concerned with the ruling. Religious training there is conducted in a separate building not maintained by the State.

The fact that Bible study is optional does not evade the provisions of the constitution, which holds that sectarian textbooks may not be used in the public schools, Potter ruled.

Lindbergh's Paris Flight "Luck," Admiral Asserts

Boston, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris was "95 to 98 per cent luck," in the opinion of Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the first naval district, expressed during an address here last night. He spoke on "The Navy and Naval Aviation."

"Admirable as Col. Lindbergh's flight to Paris was," he said, "95 to 98 per cent of it was luck, as I see it."

Admiral Andrews said that Lindbergh started his flight on one of the only two occasions when the weather for transatlantic flying was favorable and expressed the opinion that the aviator's sighting of the coast of Ireland at the place he expected was "a marvelous coincidence and nothing else."

MATRON'S ALLEGED ATTEMPTS TO GAIN LOVE ARE RELATED

CARD WEALTHY WOMAN GAVE CAUSES GIGGLES

Special to The Washington Post.

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 9.—A good-looking, pleasant-voiced young electrician, who is a live wire in his own way, was the "thrill" witness in the second day of the "poison pen" trial of Miss Sarah B. Mowell, 21-year-old bank clerk, in Hackensack Quarter Sessions Court today.

Walter J. Burnett, reported fiance of the girl who is on trial on a charge of blackmailing Mrs. Frank Von Moschzisker, wealthy matron of Ridgewood, N. J., blushed and stuttered over the self-flattering testimony he was required to give, but warmed to his story as he went on. Before the close of the afternoon session he had settled into his stride and adopted a negligent pose as he told of Mrs. Von Moschziker's alleged attempts to win his affections.

The somber-clad, tortoise-shell-spectacled suburban matron, who admits to 51 years, craned her neck to watch him step in and out of the witness box three times until he was finally allowed to remain there, to the intense gratification of the crowded courtroom.

Many Character Witnesses.

Several character witnesses for Miss Mowell, including Judge Cornelius Doremus, bank president, and Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey; John P. Nolton, vice president of the Ridgewood Trust Co., and two handsome young Ridgewood physicians were interposed between Burnett's first call and the administration of the oath.

Miss Mowell, flanked by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Mowell, whose all-day demeanor was one of righteous indignation, was poised and cool, even after A. D. Osborne and Elbert W. Stein, handwriting experts, called by the prosecution, had testified in the morning that they found the samples of her writing to be almost identical with the writing in the "poison pen" letters.

The reading of several of the anonymous letters, notably a snappy "gentlemen prefer blondes" epistle, left the spectators eager for more. But Burnett, from the moment he took the stand, a well-dressed, self-possessed young man, was the witness who furnished the big moments for which North Jersey society has turned out en masse these two days.

Card Brings Snickers.

Former Judge John Zabriskie, counsel for Miss Mowell, in his presentation, had told the jury that Miss Mowell did not write the anonymous letters, as he would show, and that it was the contention of the defense that Mrs. Von Moschzisker had written them to herself.

He drew snickers with his reading of a card which Burnett testified had been delivered to him by hand by Mrs. Von Moschzisker, who, he said, had told him she thought she had better not mail it. The card read:

"If a body like a body, awful, awful hard,
Could a body send a body just a little card?"

And giggles interrupted the reading of one of the anonymous notes, addressed to "The woman who thinks she is a heller with the boys," which said:

"Good luck to you and your boy-catching game. But don't try to separate more engaged couples, for it can't be done by a white-haired vamp."

Burnett's examination will be concluded tomorrow and Miss Mowell herself will take the stand.

Few Guests Present Owing to Illness of the Bridegroom's Mother.

New York, Feb. 9.—Simplicity marked the marriage of Miss Margaret Dorothy Kahn, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, to John Barry Ryan, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan, of this city, this afternoon at the home of her parents on Fifth avenue. It was a small and quiet wedding owing to the serious illness of the bridegroom's mother, who only a few days ago left the hospital for her home. Consequently invitations were restricted to relatives and a few close friends.

The Rev. Francis P. Duffy, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross in West Forty-second street, performed the ceremony.

Mr. Ryan and his bride will sail Saturday on the Leviathan for the south of France and northern Africa. They will be away several months and on their return will live in Long Island. The bride's father is a member of the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mr. Ryan is one of the many grandchildren of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, financier, and his first wife, the former Miss Ida M. Barry of Baltimore, who died in 1917.

Mrs. Waggoner, Oil Heiress, Asks Divorce

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The union of two of the greatest fortunes in Texas split on the matrimonial rocks here today when Ann Burnett Waggoner sued Guy L. Waggoner for divorce.

Mrs. Waggoner is the granddaughter and heir of Burk Burnett, multimillionaire oil man and rancher, and Waggoner is the son of W. T. Waggoner, one of the State's wealthiest cattlemen. They were married in September, 1922.

Immediately after filing, the divorce petition was withdrawn by attorneys for Mrs. Waggoner to prevent the allegations from becoming public. The suit, however, stands.

BAN ON BLOCKADES IN THE NEW WORLD URGED TO PILGRIMS

Dr. Butler Would Have U. S. Agree to Observe Those Imposed Elsewhere.

NEED FOR LARGE NAVY WOULD END, HE HOLDS

King George Sends Greetings on Twenty-fifth Anniversary of American Society.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—An agreement by the United States to respect blockades established by other countries as members of the League of Nations or signatories of the Locarno pact, with the proviso that no such blockade be effected against any nation on the Western Hemisphere, was proposed tonight by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

The president of Columbia University and of the Carnegie Foundation for international peace, speaking at a dinner on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Pilgrims of the United States, contended that "if this were done, the last support of the group who constantly urge large naval armaments, whether here or in Great Britain, would be removed."

"The nations of the earth," he continued, "ourselves and one or two more excepted, have organized in the League of Nations an association to carry on international business by discussion and calm consideration and to suppress and punish aggressive war should it occur.

Must Respect Treaties.

"This is a reason why no nation that is a member of the League of Nations can at the moment sign an agreement to renounce war as an instrument of public policy unless war be understood to mean aggressive war. * * * Therefore, in our formal treaty arrangements with Great Britain we can not ask that government, any more than we can ask the French government, to undertake an obligation which conflicts with an existing obligation of the highest importance and with which we, being outside the League of Nations, have nothing to do. * * *

"It ought to be of some interest to American public opinion that since the breakdown of the Geneva conference of last summer the British government has announced that it cut its naval building program in half, while our American orators and advocates announce that they desire to multiply our program nearly four times.

"Suppose that the Government of the United States were to say to Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Japan, 'If you find yourselves under obligation, either as members of the League of Nations or as signatories of the pact of Locarno, to establish a blockade against an aggressor nation, as defined, we shall accept your good faith and shall ourselves respect that blockade with the proviso that no such blockade shall be effected against any nation on the Western Hemisphere.'

Need for Large Navy Would End.

"If this were done, the last support of the group who constantly urge large naval armaments, whether here or in Great Britain, would be removed. We should then be ready to build navies of peace instead of navies of war. The battleship, the destroyer, the submarine, could not only be limited but wholly renounced by international agreement, and navies of peace consisting of as many cruisers of, say, 8,000 or 10,000 tons, as a nation might think it needed for its own police work, would carry the flags of peace loving and war renouncing nations to the uttermost parts of the earth as symbols of the new and happy order that had come to be established among men."

King Sends His Greetings.

King George of England and the Duke of Connaught sent greetings through Ambassador Howard tonight to the Pilgrims Society.

A message was read by Mr. Howard, in which the king expressed his "pleasure in congratulating" the organization and offered his "good wishes for the future."

The Duke of Connaught, who is president of the British Pilgrims, attributed to the societies on both sides of the ocean success in "the cause of promoting cordial friendship between our two great countries." He asked that his congratulations on the attainment of the anniversary be expressed by Ambassador Howard to the society and its "much loved chairman, Mr. Chauncey Depew."

Wiedemann, Turfman, To Prison at Atlanta

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Less than 24 hours after he pleaded guilty in Federal Court at Covington, Ky., to violating the prohibition act, Carl Wiedemann, former Newport, Ky., brewer and turfman, arrived here today to begin serving a two-year sentence in the United States Penitentiary.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Carl Wiedemann, who began a two-year sentence in the Atlanta Penitentiary today for violating the prohibition act, gave to horse racing one of the gamest colts that ever trod turf, In Memoriam, the sensation of the 1923 season.

Separation Pact Bars Divorce, Court Holds

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A husband and wife who agree to separate can never obtain a divorce in Illinois even though the separation continue for twelve years, the appellate court ruled today.

The decision was considered as a blow to "companionate marriage," as it is popularly understood. A couple who marries with an agreement to separate if matrimony brings unhappiness can not have the marital contract set aside under the Illinois statute, as explained by today's ruling, giving desertion as grounds for divorce.

The ruling reversed a decision by Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis, who granted a divorce last June to Osborne Scheuer, an electrician. They were married in 1910, and lived together for five years. Then they agreed to separate, each signing an agreement whereby Scheuer was to pay his wife a certain amount of money monthly. After this separation of more than ten years, the husband sued for a divorce on grounds of desertion. Mrs. Scheuer contested the divorce.

FRIENDSHIP FOR CANADA STRESSED BY KELLOGG

No Difficulties That Can Not Be Solved By Mutual Respect, He Says.

IS GUEST OF PREMIER

Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The rivalry of Canada and the United States is a rivalry without bitterness, raising no problems which can not be solved by acquaintance, respect, tolerance and patience, Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State of the United States, said at a dinner in his honor given by Premier King of Canada.

"We are rivals in all those accomplishments which make great nations," he said, "in economic, scientific and educational developments, but it is rivalry without bitterness.

"With no imperial designs, with no wish for the territory of any other country, with a common history, common hopes and aspirations, we have in the past and we will in the future adjust our difficulties by peaceful means

"If we have mutual acquaintance with each other's institutions, respect for each other's rights, tolerance and patience, there is no question which can not and will not be adjusted between us."

Secretary Kellogg extended to the government and people of Canada the "very best wishes and most sincere regards of President Coolidge and his thanks for the recent visit of Governor General Willingdon and Premier King to Washington.

The Secretary described the exchange of ministers between the two nations as among the outstanding events of his tenure as Secretary of State, and as "another link formed in our international relations making for more intimate acquaintance and facilitating the adjustment of the many questions arising between Canada and the United States."

Premier King, R. B. Bennett, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, and Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the senate, joined in tribute to Secretary Kellogg's distinguished career and to his friendly attitude toward Canada since he has held the portfolio of state. The premier praised the spirit in which William Phillips had approached his task as first American Minister to Canada.

52 REBELS ARE KILLED BY MEXICAN TROOPS

Mexico City, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The capture of 30 rebels near Salamanca are reported in press dispatches. The capture was made by federal troops in pursuit of the band of 200 which had attacked Salamanca early Sunday morning.

The rebels were driven off with a loss of 22 killed and the strengthening federal forces took up the pursuit of the scattered bands through the mountains. Daniel Perez, a Catholic priest, charged with provoking the uprising, who was captured after the attack, was shot and killed while attempting to rejoin the rebels.

The attack on Salamanca was believed to be in reprisal for the recent dynamiting the statue of Christ at El Sublete. The rebels took the field with shouts of "Long live Christ, the King."

Girl Pancake Flipper Wins A Contract With Ziegfeld

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 9.—The next time E. E. Kingman, manager of a Childs restaurant on Park Row, hires a pancake flipper she must have one qualification—homeliness.

"No more pretty girls," Manager Kingman said woefully today.

The cause for his lament was the sudden employment of his former dietitian, Miss Paula Pierce, by Florenz Ziegfeld as a member of the chorus of "Rosalie." Miss Pierce, who worked six weeks at Childs' under the name of Reeves, came here from Montreal to make her fortune.

Apparently her face was her fortune, for as she stood flipping pancakes in the window, she attracted the admiration of newspaper men from Park Row offices. One of them, Will Hayes, a former dramatic critic, was so smitten that he took her to see Ziegfeld, and Miss Pierce, although she doesn't sing or dance, was signed today for the chorus.

Miss Pierce said she had never been stage struck. Indeed, she had resigned herself, she said, to a prosaic handling of pancake batter. And she plans to keep word of her new line of endeavor from her parents back home, "for a while, at least."

"I always loved to cook at home in Montreal," she said. "Yes, I went to college, then I came to New York and got the job I had because I knew some girls who had done the same thing.

"Mr. Ziegfeld was wonderful to me. I had never before considered myself beautiful."

Word that a girl from the organization had gone into a Broadway chorus thrilled the other girl workers in the white tiled eating places all over town. They were carefully rouged and powdered and they eyed every male customer with a new interest.

TELEVISION DEVICE BALKS AT SENDING IMAGE OF INVENTOR

RESEARCH STILL NEEDED TO MAKE IT PRACTICAL

"Vision Sound" Transformed Into Sight After Secret Experiments.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Transoceanic television has been demonstrated successfully, but the newest radio development will require further research before it becomes a practical instrument of modern progress.

Television between the New World and the Old was established last night when a man and a woman in London, England, seated before a strange electrical eye, were seen by a group of persons in a New York suburb.

The machine that John L. Baird, of London, invented to send visions of moving people across the ocean, did what it was built to do, as far as other people went, at the first demonstration, but it balked at transporting the image of its creator.

Transatlantic television was demonstrated for the first time from a London laboratory to the home of R. M. Hart, in Hartsdale, N. Y., just outside New York City, and visions of a reporter and another reporter's wife, distorted though they were, were transported 3,000 miles through the ether.

Blamed on Interference.

When Baird himself sat before the electric eye of his televisor, however, only a blinding rain of dots appeared at this end. Benjamin Clapp, Baird's engineer in charge of the tests on this side of the ocean, attributed this partial failure of the demonstration to interference caused by the sending of a short-wave radio station in Mexico City.

To the lay observer, however, it seemed that the machine had turned against its maker and refused to do his bidding.

Another peculiar feature of the tests was the part played in them by Hart, who is operator of short wave radio station 2CVJ. For three months secret tests have been going on in his home and it has been he who played the important part of receiving on his set the "vision sound" to be transformed back into sight by the televisor.

Assisted By His Wife.

Although, however, he had done almost more than any one else to achieve success of the operation he has never seen the results of his work except for one momentary glimpse, for the televisor is installed in his cellar and his receiving set is on the second floor, needing constant attention during the tests.

His wife has stood, night after night, beside him in the dark as he worked the televisor's controls and listened with a headset to the vision sound, telling her husband when the sound was strong and when it faded away because of static or interference

The man and woman whose visions were transmitted at the demonstration were W. C. Fox, of the London Press Association, and Mrs. Mia Howe, wife of James Howe, of the London Bureau of the Associated Press.

HICKMAN HELD SANE; JOKES AT HIS FATE

take this man from the officers of the law, and if it were not that I was an officer of the law I should have wanted to be in the front ranks of such a mob to help put a rope around this man's neck.

"This defendant has committed the most atrocious crime on record, so far as I can find out."

In sharp contrast to the sonorous periods of the district attorney was the quiet, low-voiced plea of Attorney Richard Cantillon in his last argument for the defense. He condemned the prisoner's confessed crime, but urged the jury to consider him insane in its commission.

Cantillon recalled the evidence that he asserted tended to show the taint of insanity in the Hickman family and asked the jury to believe that the strain was continued in the son.

After the verdict the courtroom emptied rapidly, accompanied only by the hum of discussion, while the convicted murderer was marched quickly out and to his cell.

Courtroom Filled All Day.

All day the courtroom had been filled by the crowds of curious, drawn to the scene as by a magnet. Special bracings of planks and beams were raised overhead to reinforce the 6-foot board barriers in the corridors, against which a long double line pressed dangerously.

The final session of the trial found the doorway to the court chambers jammed with additional straining heads, whose owners stood upon chairs to see over each other and into the scene of the expected closing actions.

A hush of intense suspense pervaded the atmosphere when the case was given the jury. With the exit of the twelve the court was recessed for further call, and the crowd broke ranks into a confused babel of excited tongues

Buzzer Brings the Word.

About half the spectators remained, busily talkative, expectant groups. Thirty minutes and then 35. A buzzer sounded a warning, and court attaches and attorneys were electrified into action that was to follow. The buzzer told that the jury was ready to return to the courtroom, possibly for instructions, possibly to render its verdict.

The Court asked crisply, while the spectators and attorneys waited tensely, if the jury had reached a verdict. The foreman replied quietly that it had. The Court, seriously and sternly, warned that there should be no demonstration on the penalty of arrest and trial.

A brief moment of hushed suspense and the court clerk read the first verdict, finding "The Fox" sane on the indictment charging kidnaping.

The "sane" decision of the jury on the indictment charging murder followed in order, but the tenseness visibly had broken when the answer on the first was read.

Announcement that, if counsel agreed, Saturday next would be the day of sentencing, following in a businesslike speed from the bench. The notice of appeal to be filed was made. Court adjourned.

University Denies Offer.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The University of Chicago's School of Medicine has not placed a bid for the body of William Edward Hickman, kidnaper-slayer of Marian Parker, in case he should die for the slaying, its directors said tonight.

"We know absolutely nothing about such a bid and do not even care to discuss it beyond denying the report," they said. Reports from Los Angeles credited the jailer there as saying Hickman's body was wanted by the university.

END OF RESTRICTIONS ON RUBBER IS VISIONED

AMERICAN VICTORY SEEN

London, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A slump in rubber today cost the market more than £1,500,000, Sir William Mitchel asserted in the house of commons. The slump was caused by the announcement of an inquiry by the government into the effects and operation of the restrictions on rubber export. There was a decline of a penny or more a pound in the Mincing Lane market.

Rubber recovered three farthings per pound late in the afternoon.

New York, Feb. 4 (A.P.).—Contracts for the future delivery of rubber worth more than $5,000,000, changed hands today in the heaviest trading in the history of the New York Rubber Exchange as prices declined more than three cents a pound on unfavorable trade news from London.

Frenzied selling was based on the belief that the proposed investigation of the operation of the Stevenson restriction act, announced in London by Premier Baldwin, would result either in the elimination of restrictions upon rubber exports from British colonies or reduction of the pivotal price. Trading eased off late in the day and when the market closed, prices were 2¼ to 2¾ cents a pound below those of yesterday, buying for covering operations providing the support.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—America's effort to produce its own rubber supply "has gone far to break the British grip" and the appointment of a British committee "to continue, tighten, modify or do away with restriction of rubber production was a great moral victory for America," Harvey S. Firestone, tire manufacturer, said here today.

Mr. Firestone was here en route to Fort Myers, Fla., where Thomas A. Edison is experimenting with a vine from which he hopes to produce rubber in commercial quantities.

"American efforts to assure an independent supply have caused the British to change their attitude of waving aside protests and regulating matters to suit themselves," said Mr. Firestone. "Here in Florida Mr. Edison is trying to develop domestic rubber. If anybody can grow rubber in Florida it will be the inventor.

"In Liberia and the Philippines—possibly in Florida—we can grow all the rubber needed for some time to come. It looks like we have won the fight against the British monopoly."

Many Lives Lost In Norway Storm

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Violent storms which have swept western and southern Norway have taken several lives and done great damage. Several bridges were destroyed and railways were blocked by slides caused by the heavy snowfall.

Five persons lost their lives at Balestrand, on the Sogne Fjord, when a small river, diverted from its course by a landslide, overwhelmed three houses and other buildings. Three were drowned when a fishing boat foundered between Stavanger and Haugesund.

BRITISH WILL NOT QUIT THE RHINELAND ALONE

NO PRESSURE ON FRANCE

London, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Evacuation of the Rhineland came up in the house of commons today and the attitude of the British government was defined by Godfrey Locker-Lampson, undersecretary of the foreign office. It was in effect that there would be no advantage in the withdrawal of the British troops, but that an arrangemnet between the powers and Germany which would bring about evacuation would be welcomed.

The British position favoring an earlier evacuation of the Rhineland than stipulated in the Versailles treaty has been known ever since the Locarno pact. The British government, however, was reluctant to take any isolated action in withdrawing its troops, because this would bear the aspect of bringing pressure upon France.

The recent utterances of M. Briand, the French foreign minister, are interpreted in London as meaning that the question was not one for France alone and many members of the opposition in parliament favor Great Britain taking the initiative by recalling her own troops.

Neal Buxton put the question directly to the government in the house today—"whether the government will consider the question of evacuating the British troops from the Rhineland at an early date."

Mr. Locker-Lampson, in behalf of the government, replied that the effect of isolated British withdrawal would lead to no advantage in the present circumstances and that general evacuation could be brought about only by an arrangement between the allied powers on the one side and the German government on the other. He said that such an arrangement would be welcome to the government. This statement was interpreted generally as meaning that the British government was still opposed to isolated action.

Eddie Cantor Upheld In Ziegfeld Dispute

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Eddie Cantor's withdrawal because of illness from a road production of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Follies," which resulted in cancellation of the tour, was declared justified today by a committee of the Actors Equity Association.

The committee, headed by George Arliss, as chairman, held a hearing today on charges brought by Ziegfeld that Cantor's illness was not of sufficient severity to warrant his failure to appear in the show.

Cantor was examined by a physician retained by Ziegfeld and when the committee received the doctor's report it announced it found the comedian was in a "serious physical condition which could only be relieved by a protracted rest."

HOUSE VETOES PLAN TO RESTRICT TROOPS SENT ABROAD BY U.S.

Proposal of Democrats, Forbidding Use of Transportation Funds, Voted Down.

$5,000,000 MORE GIVEN FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS

Nicaraguan Policy Is Assailed as Rider Is Offered to Army Supply Measure.

(Associated Press.)

An unsuccessful move was made in the House yesterday by Democrats assisted by a handful of Republicans to prohibit the use of Army transportation appropriations for sending troops to any foreign country without specific authority from Congress.

The proposal, sponsored by Representative Collins (Democrat), Mississippi, was offered as a rider to the annual War Department supply bill. It was rejected on a standing vote, 103 to 71.

This action came after the House, 140 to 40, had adopted an amendment to increase from $50,000,000 to $55,000,000 the lump sum appropriation for river and harbor improvements, the increase to be applied mainly to development of the Missouri River. Representative Barbour (Republican), California, in charge of the bill, served notice, however, that he would demand a roll call vote today on this amendment.

Foreign Policy Discussed.

The Army transportation amendment served as a vehicle for a brief discussion of the administration's foreign policy, especially in regard to Nicaragua. This was attacked by Democrats and defended by Republicans.

The vote found 100 Republicans and 3 Democrats, Carew and Boylan, of New York, and O'Connor, of Louisiana, voting against the proposal, which was supported by 63 Democrats, 7 Republicans and the one Socialist member. The seven Republicans were Nelson, Beck, Schafer, Browne, Schneider and Peavy, of Wisconsin, and La Guardia, of New York.

Declaring that the "custom" of the President sending troops into foreign countries without authority of Congress was increasing, Representative Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama, argued that the chief executive, if this practice were continued, could create a state of war without the consent of Congress, which under the Constitution is necessary.

The Alabaman, who has repeatedly assailed the administration's Nicaraguan policy, was supported by Garrett, the Democratic leader, who said that the only objection he could see to the amendment was the development of an emergency during a recess of Congress, but that armed intervention was war and that if this became necessary the President should consult Congress.

Opposing the amendment, Barbour contended that it was a subject that should be considered carefully and not passed upon when brought up as a rider to an appropriation bill. He declared that the present was an ill-advised time to take up the subject in view of the Pan-American Conference now in session at Havana.

Opposed by Madden.

The amendment to increase the rivers and harbors appropriation was offered by Representative McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama, and was opposed by Chairman Madden and other members of the appropriations committee which drafted the bill of the proposed increase, $2,000,000 would be used for a survey of the Missouri River below Kansas City and $1,550,000 for the Mississippi River. The remainder would be allocated to different projects in various sections of the country.

In an amendment by Representative Sears (Democrat), Florida, $605,000 was allotted from the rivers and harbors appropriation to complete the payment of $1,105,000 by the Federal Government to the city of Miami, Fla., for funds advanced by that municipality for repair of its harbor from the 1926 hurricane damage.

A roll call vote on this proposal is expected to be asked today.

Day in Congress

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 4:50 to meet at noon today.

Received from President Coolidge the nomination of Brig. Gen. George Leroy Irwin to be a major general and the nomination of Col. Frank Crandall Bolles to be a brigadier general.

Passed the House bill authorizing the Secretary of War to loan tents and other supplies for the convention of the Confederate Veterans in Little Rock, Ark., next May.

Adopted a resolution condemning the rate regulation methods employed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and calling on the commission to submit a report as to whether it has favored certain States over others in making rates.

The Teapot Dome committee announced that it would resume its hearings tomorrow and that John D. Rockefeller, jr., recognized head of the Standard Oil interests, would be the chief witness.

Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, in a speech denouncing the La Follette antithird-term resolution, declared that President Coolidge "might" be drafted for another term, adding that it would not be "dishonorable" if the President agreed to run.

Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, announced that he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, addressed a questionnaire to Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Senator Willis, of Ohio, asking them to state their views on prohibition.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:35 to meet at noon today.

The right of Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, to retain his seat in the House was upheld by the elections committee by a vote of 6 to 3. It had been charged that Beck was not a legal resident of the district in Philadelphia which elected him. The majority and minority reports will not be submitted to the House for several days.

Rejected by a vote of 103 to 71 an amendment to the Army appropriation bill to prohibit the use of funds for sending troops to foreign countries without the specific authority of Congress.

Representatives McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, and Celler (Democrat), New York, assailed the Navy Department for failing to take precautions against the S-4 submarine disaster.

Representative White (Republican), Maine, chairman of the merchant marine committee, introduced a bill designed to encourage private operation of the merchant marine. It authorizes the Shipping Board to contract with American shippers for maintenance and operation of shipping services along essential trade routes.

Age of Sahara Relics Put at 100,000 Years

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—From the shifting sands of the Sahara desert, a University of Chicago Egyptology expedition has unearthed relics which it believes proves the existence of a barbaric civilization possibly 100,000 years old.

The location of the trail examined by the explorers lies along the terraces of the Nile, which they believe once was a dense jungle, traversed by many streams and thousands of barbaric humans.

"The terraces of the Nile which yielded this evidence date back thousands and thousands of years," reported Dr. Kenneth Sanford, a member of the expedition. "In these giant steps we found implements imbedded by which we were able to trace the slow development of man in pre-historic times."

The most primitive of these implements, the explorers believe, justify the belief that man originated in Africa and advance their discoveries as reason for that belief.

BECK'S RIGHT TO SEAT UPHELD BY COMMITTEE

House Must Yet Pass on Whether Representative Is Pennsylvania Resident.

MINORITY TO REPORT

(Associated Press.)

The position of James M. Beck as a Republican representative from Pennsylvania was upheld yesterday by a House elections committee, which voted 6 to 3 to permit him to retain his seat.

The Democrats had raised the qeustion whether Beck, a former solicitor general of the United States, had met the constitutional requirement that a representative at the time of his election be an inhabitant of the State from which he is chosen.

Some time yet must elapse before the uncertainty surrounding Beck's seat in the House will be entirely cleared away. Chairman Vincent, of the committee, said that the report would not be made to the House for several days, to permit the dissenting members to prepare their minority report.

While the contest was brought by Representative Garrett, Democratic floor leader, and the fight in the committee hearings was waged by Pennsylvania Democrats, the vote did not run strictly along party lines.

Representative Crail, a California Republican, opposed Beck's retention of the seat, and Representative Douglass, a Massachusetts Democrat, upheld it. With these exceptions, the committee's vote reflected its political apportionment.

Representative Kent (Democrat) Pennsylvania, who conducted the fight in the committee, declared that it yet remained to be seen whether the House would concur in the action of its committee. He charged that the qualification of Beck was a step toward the "rotten borough" system of England, and predicted that if the House set such a precedent, the future would see the Government conducted by lawyers residing in Washington whose sole claim to their seats were phantom voting places in their districts.

METHODISTS OPPOSE SMITH NOMINATION

"Wetness," Not Religion, Is Given as Cause of Action at Memphis.

Memphis, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The Educational Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in closing its annual convention here today, adopted a resolution expressing opposition to the nomination for President of Gov Smith of New York.

The brief resolution said:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this association that the nomination of Al Smith would be unfortunate and in our opinion would not enlist the support of the educational leaders of the South."

The resolution was adopted by viva voce vote and it was announced that two dissenting votes had been heard.

Dr. C. A. Rush, of Andalusia, Ala., conference education secretary for Alabama, said, "We must make it clear that we are opposing Smith because he is a wet and not because he is a Catholic." Other delegates declared they feared "the wrong impression would get out."

Dr. E. M. Glenn, of Cherokee, Ala., conference education secretary for northern Alabama, declared, however, "I think it's time some one sounded the cry of 'Down with Rum, Romanism and Rebellion.'"

G. O. P. CHIEFS SPLIT IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Committeeman's Foes Name Anti-Tolbert National Convention Delegates.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Prospects of a contest at the Republican national convention at Kansas City by opposing delegatitons from South Carolina claiming seats developed late today when a group of 96 opposed to the rule of National Committeeman Joe W. Tolbert nominated an "anti-Tolbert ticket" of delegates and alternates after the Republican State convention held here had elected a Tolbert slate.

The anti-Tolbert group, claiming that today's election in the convention was "railroaded," retained N. J. Frederick as attorney and nominated as delegates Dr. W. M. Porter, E. R. Reilly, Dr. R. J. Wilson and J. Y. Mayes. Alternates named were J. H. Jackson, R. M. Perrin, W. C. Johnson and E. S. Calhoun.

A victory for the Tolbert forces in convention was seen today before the convention selected Tolbert, S. J. Leaphart, J. H. Goodwin and W. F. Dickson as delegates. The delegates who were all elected as delegates at large will go uninstructed to the convention.

A delegate will be chosen from each of the congressional districts next month.

Two Officers Named For Raise in Rank

President Coolidge yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Brig Gen. George LeR. Irwin to be a major general on the retirement, on March 5 of Maj. Gen. Joseph D. Leitch.

The President also nominated Col. Frank C. Bolles, infantry, to be a brigadier general on the promotion of Gen. Irwin.

NEW SHIPPING BILL DRAFTED FOR HOUSE; BREACH IS WIDENED

WOULD LIBERALIZE LOAN FUND FOR CONSTRUCTION

(Associated Press.)

The breach between the two Houses of Congress over methods of strengthening and maintaining the American merchant marine widened perceptibly yesterday with the introduction in the House of a bill designed to promote private operation of the merchant fleet in contracts with the Jones bill, passed by the Senate, contemplating continued Government control.

The House measure, sponsored by Chairman White, of the merchant marine committee, which considers shipping legislation, proceeds upon the assumption, the chairman said, that the American people prefer private operation and are "willing to pay reasonable amounts" to bring it about and that the Government must offset "existing original cost and operating differentials against the American ship in foreign trade."

Maximum Rates for Speed.

White's measure proposed the liberalization of the construction loan funds and would empower the Shipping Board to contract for private maintenance of lines handling American agricultural and industrial products at a price equal to present operating losses. It would authorize the Postmaster General to contract for carrying the mail on a "graduated scale, based primarily upon speed." Vessels built to obtain maximum rates for speed would have to be approved by the Secretary of the Navy as possible auxiliary ships in war.

A fourth provision was designed to "meet higher wages and subsistence standards on American ships," and to build up a naval reserve. Men in the Naval Reserve in active merchant marine service would be paid by the Navy at a rate not exceeding six and one-half months base pay of corresponding ranks in the regular Navy. The measure also would establish an insurance fund to provide a lower rate for American vessels.

No Reference to Administration.

White, in a statement explaining the bill, made no reference to its having administration approval. He declared that while the measure was designed to foster private operation it also "expressly reaffirms" the authority of the board to maintain routes. The bill differs materially from the Jones measure passed by the Senate which would require unanimous approval by the board to sell any ship line. The Jones bill also contemplated reconditioning of the present merchant fleet compared with White's proposal to build fast ships as naval auxiliary reserves.

Lowden Is Favored By Carolina Leaders

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Majority sentiment among members of the State Republican committee, which met here yesterday, favors former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, as the party's candidate for President, it was indicated when a statement addressed to Mr. Lowden and signed by 23 of the 33 committee members present was made public. The statement did not represent any official act of the committee, it was said. The statement follows:

"We, the undersigned members of the Republican State executive committee for the State of North Carolina, constituting a majority of the actual membership in attendance upon the meeting now held, hereby assure you of our unqualified support for the Republican presidential nomination, and in so doing, we have every reason to believe are in accord with the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the Republicans of North Carolina."

7 BILLION GAIN NOTED IN CIGARETTE OUTPUT

Increase of Production to 97,000,000,000 in 1927 Laid to Women.

Associated Press.

All records for cigarette production in the United States were shattered last year when more than 97,000,000,000 were produced, representing an increase of approximately 7,000,000,000 over 1926. The steady increase during the last ten years as reported by the Internal Revenue Bureau is attributed by tobacco manufacturers partly to a spread of cigarette smoking among women.

While cigarette production showed an increase, cigars decreased by about 7,000,000, production last year totaling about 7,000,000,000. Smoking tobacco production slumped. On the other hand, snuff increased more than 2,000,000 pounds, and playing cards went up nearly 3,000,000 packs, to a 44,000,000-pack mark.

Despite prohibition, production of distilled spirits and wines increased 70,941 gallons, a total of 8,231,706 gallons being made last year.

LONG-DELAYED HONOR PAID ARMY OFFICERS

Indian Fighter of 1885 and Spanish War Veteran Get Silver Stars.

Brig. Gen. James Parker, whose address is Wardman Park Hotel, and Col. Robert R. Wallach, Warrenton, Va., both retired Army officers, have been awarded silver star citations for gallantry, the War Department announced yesterday.

Brig. Gen. Parker's award is for gallantry in action against Apache Indians at Devil's Creek, N. M., May 22, 1885. He was then a first lieutenant in the Fourth Cavalry.

Col. Wallach receives the citation for gallantry against Spanish forces at Guayama, P. R., August 5, 1898. He was then a lieutenant of the Seventh Artillery. He entered military service from the District of Columbia.

The awards, with others, were made under an act of Congress which provides for award of the distinguished Service medal, the distinguished service cross and the silver star citation, and also authorizes these decorations for services rendered prior to the World War where official records already on file support the award. Prior to this act such awards were unauthorized.

has not definitely "closed the door," then just what did he mean to do, they demanded. Did he mean to say that while he would not demand the nomination he would take it if offered to him?

Robinson and Bruce declared seriously, although much of the debate was in light vein, that they did not think that the President could "with honor" accept the nomination under any circumstances. And Reed, when he loosened his irony that made Fess squirm in his seat, declared he protested against Fess continually holding out the possibility of the President's nomination—he protested "in the name of that great English statesman, Mr. Hoover."

Reed Protests for Willis.

"I protest," he declared, drawing himself to his full statuesque proportion and shaking wtih indignation, "in the name of your colleague, Senator Willis.

"I protest in the name of your party leader.

"I protest in the name of that great English statesman, Mr. Hoover.

"The senator from Ohio is hugging to his breast another of the many delusions he habitually embraces," the Missouri senator said. "But I am wondering why he persistently keeps President Coolidge before the public. I am wondering if he is the duly appointed or only the self-annointed John the Baptist, the savior of the Republic."

And after the Ohio senator's interpretation of the President's statements, Reed declared, the question of the President's real intentions "demands a decisive answer." The Ohio senator's interpretation, according to Reed, is that while the President does not intend to "inject himself into the campaign * * * he is a receptive candidate, just the same as many others."

This Fess vigorously denied. "The President wants to retire. He was absolutely sincere. But there is no reason in the world why he can not with perfect honor accept the nomination if the convention overwhelmingly tenders it to him." The Ohioan shouted this over and over again, but the Democrats would not let him alone. They wanted to know why it would be necessary for the convention to turn to President Coolidge. Hasn't the party any other men?

Reed declared that if the President "really meant what he said," then the next time "he interviews the senator from Ohio at the White House there will be no doubt as to his face being flushed."

Fess had previously explained that he was not really reprimanded because of his "draft Coolidge" activities. The newspaper men got that impression, among other reasons, because his face was flushed when he came from the White House. What really happened was about like this, he said:

"I went to the White House on another matter. I said, incidentally, 'Mr. President, I hope I am not embarrassing you by saying that you will be renominated.' And he said, 'Well, yes you are. * * *'"

The Democrats pounced on him again—Robinson and Harrison. "Then the President wasn't displeased at all?" Harrison asked:

"Did he just take his gun and gently hit the senator on the wrist?"

Calls Democrats Afraid.

Senator Fess' frequent retore was that the "Democrats are deathly afraid that he will run again," which was always greeted with roars of laughter. But the Ohio senator was serious about this. The Democrats are so afraid that he will run again that they "are trying to put it on a plane of dishonor," he shouted.

Senator Bruce said he very frankly thought that for the President to accept the nomination would be an injustice to those who have taken him at his word and gone seeking the nomination themselves. "It would be a grave injustice to Secretary Hoover," he declared. "Secretary Hoover would have a bitter grievance."

"As I know the code of honor," the Maryland senator observed, "he can not under any circumstances accept the nomination." He recalled that at the Republican convention of 1880 McKinley was a delegate for John Sherman, but that the convention turned overwhelmingly to McKinley.

"McKinley arose and said he would consider himself dishonest to accept it," Bruce recalled.

Senator Fess countered with the recollection that at the same convention, Garfield, who placed Sherman in nomination, subsequently had the same opportunity that McKinley did and accepted it.

"Garfield did a good many things that McKinley would not have done and the senator knows why I say that; he knows history," Bruce replied. Fess insisted, though, that Sherman had withdrawn and declared that it was idle to argue that a delegate had to sit through endless balloting when there was no hope for his man.

Harrison interrupted to ask Fess:

"You are not doing your colleague an injustice, are you?" referring to Senator Willis' candidacy.

At one time when the Democrats were seeking to embarrass Fess by flaunting Willis' candidacy before him, he retorted:

"If Ohio were to nominate a candidate he would be an Ohio man"

Reed's Irony Turned on Fess.

"Who knows," he asked, "but that while he is loudly preclaiming the virtues and pulchritude of his illustrious colleague he is secretly working to other ends?" The Missouri senator declared he would not let the Ohio senator sit in on "my councils." He might go out the next day and "give my secrets" to the enemy camp.

It was a hard day for the argumentative Ohio senator. He particularly protested against the clause in the La Follette resolution "commending" the President for "observance" of the antithird term tradition. And when he did, the Wisconsin senator arose to say that after hearing Senator Fess' interpretation of the President's statements he agreed that the clause was wholly out of order.

The Ohio senator finally agreed that he was not among friends and gave it up. He made the point during his argument that there is no record showing Washington declined a third term because of his opposition to three terms as a matter of public policy.

He assured Heflin that if "you will investigate you will find that the third term idea" had not been entertained by President Coolidge.

The Alabama senator brought up the rear of the attack by asking that regardless of what the President meant by his "I do not choose" statement, the Senate should pass the La Follette resolution and say "We do not choose" for him to run.

The Indiana House delegation in launching Senator Watson's candidacy invited "the support of Republicans throughout the Union, calling attention to the brilliant and useful public services of Mr. Watson covering a period of 33 years, during which long period he has undeviatingly supported Republican principles and rendered conspicuous service to American business, agriculture and labor." The joint statement called attention to his fight against the League of Nations and the World Court.

"For a generation," it said, "he has been a powerful exponent of Republican principles and been unwavering and without the shadow of turning in his fidelity to the principles of government advocaed by the Republican party. No one has done more for the advancement of Republicanism than Mr. Watson. For 40 years he has, throughout the length and breadth of the Nation, been an advocate of the gospel of Republican ideals in government. There is no locality in which his voice has not been lifted in the cause of the party. He has spoken for his party in every Northern State from ocean to ocean, and everywhere he has been and is being sought to advance the party standard on political, economic, financial and legislative problems.

"He has been and is a keen student of all public questions, a devoted and fearless servant of the people, trained in public legislation and patriotic and honest in the best sense of the terms. He stands high in his fitness and qualifications for the high office of President of the United States."

Borah Asks Dry Views Of Hoover and Willis

Senator Borah yesterday sent to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Senator Willis, of Ohio, his questionnaire on prohibition. The questions propounded to the two were the same as he recently submitted to Senator Curtis, of Kansas, announced a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

In introducing his questions to Secretary Hoover and Senator Willis, Senator Borah said that he was asking their views on the prohibition question in view of the fact that "your friends have placed you in line for nomination for the Presidency."

It is not expected that either Secretary Hoover or Senator Willis will have any trouble answering the Idaho senator's questions as they both are regarded as strong supporters of the dry cause.

COLORED BOY SCOUT GIVEN GOLD MEDAL OF HEROISM

SAVED FOUR AT TORNADO

Cyprian Haithman, 16, of 234 Thirteenth street southeast, a member of Sea Scout Troop 500, was presented last night at the Dunbar High School auditorium with the Boy Scouts of America Gold Medal of Heroism, the highest scout honor, awarded by the National Court of Honor of New York, as a citation of "being prepared to render service to others in any emergency." The occasion was the public service celebration in the anniversary week program of the Sixth Division of Boy Scouts

During the recent tornado, which destroyed a part of the Southeast section, Haithman, a colored student at St. Cyprian's Catholic School, hearing the screams of Mrs. Rose Thomas and three children, who were imprisoned on the second floor of their home amid falling brick and lumber, broke into the house and rescued the family, bringing them safely to shelter after removing debris which had closed entrances behind him.

Application of scouting to public service was demonstrated before a large audience, which was welcomed by Assistant Superintendent of Public Schools E. A. Clark. Linn C. Drake, scout executive, responded. Participating in the candle-lighting ceremony were Albert Poindexter, Leroy Lewis, Mark Daniels, Albert Scurlock, Albert Brown, William Gross, Arthur Grant, Washington Hamilton, Oscar Piper, William Hunter, Harold Randolph, Leonard Randolph, G. O. N. Curtis, Joseph Short and Richard Leach.

Commodore W. E. Longfellow, of the American Red Cross, gave a demonstration with neckerchief and blanket, of improvised first-aid methods. Scout signaling was exemplified, together with conventional first-aid methods, and scoutcraft training that can be utilized when disaster comes. Addresses illustrating these methods and the value of training involved were made by Dr. Paul Bartsch and Col. E. L. Mattice.

Deputy Commissioner L. W. Tancil awarded an eagle badge to Robert Best, of Troop 501, and star badges to James Holloway and Cyprian Haithman, of Troop 505. A swimming plaque was awarded Sea Scout Troom 500, H. K. Howerton, skipper, by J. W. Talley, assistant executive. Special patriotic exercises will be held by the scouts Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Lincoln Memorial.

COL. LATROBE NAMED COOLIDGE'S CHIEF AID

Appointment of Cavalryman to Winship Post Announced at White House.

Appointment of Col. Osmun Latrobe, cavalry, as chief military aid to President Coolidge, succeeding Col. Blanton Winship, who has gone to the Philippines as legal adviser to Gov. Gen Henry L. Stimson, was announced yesterday at the White House. The announcement confirmed earlier rumors that Col. Latrobe would succeed Col. Winship because of the favorable impression he had made on President Coolidge at the Summer White House in the Black Hills, near where Col. Latrobe commanded the Fourth Cavalry at Fort Meade, S. Dak.

Col. Latrobe was born in Baltimore in 1874, took a special course in architecture at the University of Pennsylvania, and served as a captain of artillery in the Cuban insurgent army under Gen. Calixto Garcia from 1896 until the Spanish-American War, when he was commissioned a captain of volunteer infantry.

He later was commissioned a first lieutenant of regular cavalry. He went to France with the Eighty-second Division in the World War. Since January he has been on duty in the office of the chief of cavalry at the War Department.

11 TENTATIVE JURYMEN PICKED FOR GOVERNOR

State, in Ed Jackson's Trial, Accepts Only Four; None Assured of Seat.

JUDGE EXTENDS RULES

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Prosecution and defense took turns today at emptying chairs in the jury box as they sought to agree on twelve men to try Ed Jackson, Indiana's governor, on a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony in an attempt to bribe. The result was that when the day ended conditions were about as they were at the outset.

Eleven men had been passed twice by the defense, while the State had accepted tentatively only four. Not one appeared certain of holding his place. However, as each side had left six of its ten peremptory challenges, Special Judge Charles M. McCabe ruled that peremptory challenges might be exercised up to the acceptance of the jury twice in its entirety by each side.

A ripple of interest was evoked when defense counsel directed their attention to learning the feelings of prospective jurors toward the Ku Klux Klan. Those interrogated asserted the fact that Robert I. Marsh, indicted with Jackson, was mentioned in the true bill as a former attorney for the klan would have no bearing on their verdict. They also said the fact that the name of D. C. Stephenson, former klan dragon, who is serving a life sentence for murder, had been associated with that of the governor would not influence them. Stephenson is expected to be the first witness for the State.

Church and political affiliations again were stressed by the defense. Jackson's attorneys also indicated that it would attempt to prove that Jackson did not place former Gov. Warren T. McCray in a state of fear to prevent him from exposing the alleged attempted bribe. Jackson and the two codefendants are charged with attempting to bribe McCray to name their choice as Marion County (Indianapolis) prosecutor in 1913.

John T. Adams Urges Hoover Nomination

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—John T. Adams, former chairman of the Republican national committee, has announced his support of Herbert Hoover for the Presidency.

"He is a native son of my home State of Iowa, born of sturdy American pioneer stock which supported the Republican party from the year of its organization," Mr. Adams said in a statement issued here. "Mr. Hoover has never departed from the political faith of his fathers. He has never politically affiliated with any other party. He joined the National Republican Club, to which I also belong, 19 years ago, and has been a member in good standing ever since."

AL SMITH OPPONENTS BIGOTS, SAYS BAPTIST

Boone, N. C., Minister Assails Those Who Stand on Religious Issue.

Protestants opposing the nomination of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency were taken to task as "bigots" by the Rev. J. G. Pulliman, a Baptist minister, of Boone, N. C., who was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Al Smith Democratic Club in the Ebbitt Hotel last night.

Dr. Pulliman said he had been a strong supporter of Gov. Smith for the last five years. He declared if Smith is defeated "nothing but gold will defeat him."

Mrs. Margaret Hillman, of Alabama, said her State is for Gov. Smith, while similar sentiments were expressed for their States by members from California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland. Mrs. Lester J. Pollock, fourth vice president of the club, announced that the women of the organization will meet at 2 o'clock today at the clubrooms in the Southern Building.

SANDINO DARES MARINES TO MEET HIM IN HILLS

Rebel General, Interviewed at San Rafael, Has Small, Well-Armed Group.

ANGERED BY AIR RAIDERS

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Confirmation of the presence of Augustino Sandino with his band of rebels in the State of Matagalpa came from two sources today. Carleton Seals, representing the Nation, a weekly magazine published in New York, arrived here today with the statement that he had spent five hours with Sandino last Saturday in a camp at San Rafael Del Norte, a short distance northwest of Matagalpa.

Harold Patterson, British charge d'affaires, announced today that he had been informed by telephone that Sandino had been seen in that vicinity as late as yesterday morning.

Beals said that Sandino had about 100 well armed and mounted followers and that the rebel leader claimed to have 30 machine guns. Sandino, he said, furnished him with a guard of 30 men on the last half of his journey to San Rafael. Beals, coming from Honduras, had crossed the State of Nueva Segovia, which had been Sandino's stronghold until United States Marines captured his headquarters recently. The journey was made on horseback under the guidance of Indian sympathizers with Sandino.

Mr. Patterson announced that his information concerning the rebel leader's movements came from Charles Potter, brother of the British vice consul at Matagalpa. Mr. Potter told him that Sandino, with 150 disciplined soldiers, had spent Tuesday night on his plantation called La Fundadora. During Sandino's stay there he wrote a defiant note to the chief Nicaraguan authority of the district, saying that he would be delighted to meet the marines in the hills around Matagalpa and complaining of "the cowardly actions of the marines" in Neuva Segovia. His criticism of the marines was thought to be objection to their extensive bombing operations from airplanes which had made several of his previously taken positions untenable and which had cost him severe losses.

Although official circles believe there is no fear that Sandino will attack the town of Matagalpa many residents have sought safety. Marine reinforcements have been sent to Matagalpa.

Community Institute Hears Art Lecture

Art must go hand in hand with science and the workaday world, Gerrit A. Beneker, known for his paintings of American working men, declared last night before the Community Institute of Washington, in the auditorium of the Central Community Center. Mr Beneker illustrated his talk with slides.

"Art must not be a tool in the hands of any one class," he said. "It is a synthetic force and will pull together both sides in any controversy, showing to mankind work in its relative values." Mr. Beneker believes every person who gives the best creative work of which he is capable is essentially an artist.

8 Coast Guardsmen On Trial in 2 Killings

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Trial of eight Coast Guardsmen, charged with two killings, was called for hearing in Federal court here today.

Two weeks ago, when the cases were called for trial, postponement was granted on defense claim that jurymen from this division of the district were not qualified to sit because of prejudice against the Coast Guard. A special venire was granted, composed of one-third each from the Tampa, Miami and Jacksonville districts, with men excluded for residence in Dade, Monroe and Broward counties, allegedly the center of antiguard prejudice.

W. H. THOMPSON DEAD; WAS KANSAS SENATOR

PRACTICED LAW IN CITY

William Howard Thompson, 56 years old, former member of the United States Senate from Kansas, died yesterday in his apartment at 3701 Massachusetts avenue northwest. Heart disease was the cause of death.

After the expiration of his senatorial term in 1919, Mr. Thompson became engaged in the practice of law in this city. While at his office in the National Press Building, Fourteenth and F streets northwest, on Tuesday, he was stricken with a heart attack. Removed to his home, he lapsed into unconsciousness and never recovered from the coma.

Mr. Thompson served his State as senator from 1913 until 1919. He held the distinction of polling the largest vote ever given a Democrat in Kansas and defeated former Gov. Stubbs, of Kansas, for the office.

Born in Crawfordsville, Ind., October 14, 1871, his family moved to Nemaha County, Kans., when he was a boy of 9. He became active in affairs of the State in his young manhood, while engaged in the practice of law. He was the author of legal articles on judicial reform.

At the age of 34, Mr. Thompson was accorded the distinction of being the only Democrat elected to a district judgeship in the district embracing Nemaha County. He held the judicial office until 1913, when he was the State's choice for senator, receiving votes from Republicans and Socialists as well as Democrats.

On August 29, 1894, he married Miss Bertha Felt, the daughter of former Lieut. Gov. Andrew J. Felt, of Kansas.

Besides his wife, Mr. Thompson is survived by two sons, Wilbur F. Thompson, an attorney of Tulsa, Okla., and William H. Thompson, jr., a high school student, of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Thelma Winkemeier, of New York City. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

SMITH, REAPPOINTED, WILL RUN ONCE MORE

"It is because I believe a great principle is involved that I have resigned and am seeking reelection. Either a majority of the Senate has a terrible power, which it has never before exercised, or it hasn't that power. The people of Illinois thought they were within their rights when they elected me. The Senate majority says they were not. It is now up to the voters of Illinois to stand steadfast in defense of their action or to yield to the dictation of a majority in the Senate."

C. J. Doyle, Smith's attorney, said Mr. Smith has not announced when he will go to Washington.

In his statement, Mr. Smith said he had been advised that the right of the Senate to take its action could be taken before the United States Supreme Court by of any of several methods, but that as it was an issue between the "people of Illinois and a majority of the Senate it seems the only proper way to determine it is to report it back to the voters of Illinois."

Mr. Smith said the Illinois attorney general had informed him the Senate usurped its power in declaring his seat vacant and therefore the action was void. He also said Gov. Small maintains the opinion that no vacancy exists which he can fill in any legal way. As a result, Smith said, he determined to create such a vacancy by resigning, and make it a clean-cut issue by entering the race for renomination and reelection, accepting appointment by the governor until the election.

New Rejection Foreseen.

(Associated Press.)

Should Frank L. Smith present his credentials to the Senate as senator-designate from Illinois, those who had a large part in the fight to seat him on the two former occasions he has knocked at the Senate door, predicted last night that he again would be refused admittance.

While stating that they had not been advised of Smith's plans, some of his friends here said they did not believe he would seek a seat as senator-designate and that he resigned so that he might against present his case to the people of his State in the April primaries and the November election.

If Smith were renominated and reelected, the contest then would resolve itself into one between the Senate and the voters of Illinois. That would not be an unprecedented situation. In most of such contests the voters have won in the long run.

The most recent of such contests was that involving Victor L. Berger, Socialist representative from Wisconsin, who twice was denied a seat by the House after the World War, only to be accepted finally after the voters of the district—and the City of Milwaukee—had reelected him by a large majority.

Smith already has been denied the oath of office as a senator-designate. He was appointed by Gov. Small after his election in 1926 to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator William B. McKinley, but the Senate voted, 48 to 33, to refuse him admission pending a hearing before the elections committee. This had not been concluded when the Sixty-ninth Congress adjourned.

At the beginning of this session, Smith presented himself as senator-elect, but was promptly denied the oath of office, 50 to 32. His case was referred to the Reed slush fund committee, but he declined to submit himself to the jurisdiction of that body. Thereupon the Senate declared his seat vacant by a vote of 61 to 23.

J. S. KELLY, BALTIMORE PARTY LEADER, 69, DIES

Picturesque Democratic Chief Succumbs 29 Days After "Peace" Meeting.

HELD POWER 30 YEARS

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 9.—While a score of lesser leaders waited silently in a basement of his home in West Baltimore today for news from the sickroom, John S. (Frank) Kelly, one of Baltimore's most picturesque and powerful Democratic leaders in two generations, died.

For more than 30 years Frank Kelly, together with John J. Mahon, himself now critically ill, figuratively held the destinies of the Democratic party, not only of Baltimore, but of the entire State of Maryland, in his hands. Men high and low in the party's ranks consulted him with regard to candidates and "jobs" and few, if any, ever dared make a political move of any importance without first having received the assent of "The" Kelly, as he was known to many.

The political leader's death came 29 days after the evening when, sitting in the dining room of the Rennert Hotel surrounded by 400-odd Democrats at a "peace" gathering, he heard himself proclaimed "the leader of the Democratic party of Baltimore." Mahon, his senior in years and his senior in leadership, was desperately ill in a room above him at the time.

Mr. Kelly was a bachelor. While it has been generally believed that he was born in Philadelphia and brought to Baltimore as an orphan, there are many old residents of West Baltimore who say he was born here in Little Rock street and that early in life he evinced natural leadership among the gangs of boys in the battles they fought.

Mrs. Ruth Bell Branham, 54 years old, a teacher of history at Central High School for the past ten years, died of pneumonia yesterday at her home, 2827 Fifteenth street northwest, following a short illness.

A native of Kentucky, Mrs. Branham came to Washington in 1918 to accept an appointment in the local school system. Mrs. Branham conducted her classes at Central all last week and was apparently in good health. She was active in the National Council for the Social Studies, the High School Teachers Association, the History Teachers Round Table and the History Teachers Association of the Middle States and Maryland.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. N. Peake, of Glasgow, Va., and Miss Katherine Branham, a senior at Mount Holyoke College; her mother, Mrs. I. H. Bell, and a sister, Miss Katherine Bell, of this city, and a brother, Howard K. Bell, of Lexington, Ky. The body will be sent to Georgetown, Ky., her former home, for interment tomorrow.

ARGENTINA WRECKS HOPES OF PAN-AMERICAN UNION PACT

Complete agreement on all other points in the preamble had been reached. Declarations of the equality and independence of all nations, both in form and substance, were readily agreed to.

Hughes Pleads Vainly.

Mr. Hughes, during today's discussions, was reported to have earnestly invited Dr. Pueyrredon to agree to the preamble which the majority found agreeable in the name of solidarity and to avoid producing a situation which might imperil the result of the whole conference.

He even suggested, it was said, that Argentina might agree to the convention proposed with the reservation that it found the absence of economic clauses harmful to the cause of Pan-Americanism.

Dr. Pueyrredon was reported as replying that he could only conceive of useful Pan-Americanism in terms of concrete achievements and ideals and that the time had come to establish a new trend in Pan-American efforts.

The news of the failure of the Pan-American subcommittee to reach an agreement disheartened many delegates. They pointed out that another subcommittee, debating the fundamental rights and duties of nations, appears also on the verge of a deadlock. They questioned the future of this congress under two blows of such magnitude.

Opposed by Brazil.

Dr. Pueyrredon was also opposed by Dr. Raul Fernandes, Brazilian member of the subcommittee, who, it was understood, pointed out the importance which revenues from customs play in many American countries. Brazil, itself, he said, finds its income from export and import taxes vital to its existence.

Dr. Pueyrredon remained intransigent to the end and afterward explained his stand by asserting that he could not agree to continue the present form of the Pan-American Union when the road lay clear to what Pan-Americanism should accomplish. Furthermore, he felt that this congress was the only place where the matter could properly be taken up, because if his government were to propose measures tending toward economic union to single American states, the matter would not receive the wide attention necessary for a movement to gain headway.

Rather, he thought, a Pan-American congress should consider such matters, even if it had the knowledge that the different parliaments it represented would oppose such measures when brought before them for ratification.

"It is the duty of the Pan-American Congress to point out to governments," he declared, "the mistakes which they make by paying too much attention to selfish interests and by ignoring the spirit of Pan-Americanism."

It was recalled by some delegates that a similar situation arose from different causes at the fifth congress at Santiago in 1923 when essential alterations in the structure of the union were found impossible of approval.

Deadlock on Duties.

Three hours' intense discussion today in the subcommittee of the Pan-American Conference's committee on public international law failed to harmonize the conflicting views regarding the rights and duties of states. The subject at issue was on the right of one country to intervene in the internal affairs of another, and it was found impossible to discover a formula which should appear to all countries to protect their independence and territorial integrity.

The United States and Argentina again were reported as taking opposing positions in the discussion, which was behind closed doors. Charles E. Hughes, of the American delegation, favored the text of the Maurtua report on this important question, in which, although the sacredness of the independence of every country was emphasized, it was subordinated to the observance of the rights of other states.

Honorio Pueyrredon, of Argentina, insisted, it is understood, upon the formula proposed last Saturday in his speech opposing the Maurtua report, in which he condemned all intervention in the affairs of other states, "whether diplomatic, by force, permanent or temporary."

Dr. Pueyrredon Unmoved.

Argentina's position was dictated, Dr. Pueyrredon said after the meeting, by "the traditional national policy which all our governments, no matter of what party, have adhered to since the day of our independence."

"I wish to emphasize," said Dr. Pueyrredon, "that Argentina, in upholding this policy, has no ulterior motives, since Argentina is probably the most impartial state in the Pan-American Conference on questions of intervention. We are neither subject to the danger of intervention from some other state, nor are we threatening others with the same measure.

"I must insist, however, that Argentina's traditional policy in the matter not be abandoned or encroached upon by other theories."

Efforts were made in the committee meeting to convince the Argentine delegate that the Maurtua formula was wider than his own, and even embraced his own, but it is understood the ambassador not only disagreed with this, but holds the belief that the difference between the two projects is so wide that the Argentine position can not be met by merely minor changes in the Maurtua report.

U. S. Opposition Ignored.

Disregarding the silent disapproval of the United States, the economic committee of the Pan-American Congress approved today a resolution setting forth the general principles which should control immigration in this hemisphere.

The resolution specifically provides that "The American states reserve for themselves the right to examine the advantages deriving from the flow of immigration from other continents into their countries, determining their course of action in reference to their economic, political and social interests.

Agreement of the Argentine delegation was obtained on the express understanding that this article should not be interpreted as preventing the same freedom of action in the case of immigrants from American states. The resolution said that it merely would formulate general principles and regulations in view of the forthcoming international conference on emigration and immigration to be held here at the conclusion of the present congress.

Delegations of the United States and Venezuela abstained from the discussions on the ground that immigration is a purely domestic problem.

Propagandists Hurt U. S. at Havana, Claim

Propagandists are hampering the work of the Pan-American Conference at Havana, Dr. Harry E. Woolever, editor of the National Methodist Press, declared last night at a meeting of the International Relations Club of the American University. Dr. Woolever recently returned from Havana.

These propagandists, he said, are spreading mistrust of the purposes of the United States among the delegates.

The PRESSURE GAUGE

MANUFACTURERS of Automobiles are careful to lay great stress upon the importance of oil pressure as indicated by the pressure gauge upon the dash. It should always register maximum, else trouble begins. Proper register is obtained and maintained by the use of proper oil of required grade. As the oil is diluted by passage of unburnt fuel past the piston rings, the pressure becomes weaker and nearer the danger point. The sealing of piston rings with the oil from the crank case against this unburnt fuel prolongs the quality of the oil. Many good motor oils will provide the proper seal and if the motorist knows what brand will accomplish this requirement, he is safe in his purchase.

That New Improved Supreme Motor Oil is manufactured for the express purpose of efficiently lubricating internal combustion motors. It possesses the body or viscosity for oil pressure—it provides a tough lubricating film on cylinder walls and bearings and sustains a more impenetrable seal around piston rings.

SENATORS AS CANDIDATES.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, has appointed a campaign manager, and it is expected that he will soon announce his candidacy for the Presidency. That he will have the support of the Indiana delegation at Kansas City is a foregone conclusion.

Senatorial courtesy forbids an attempt on the part of Senator Willis to capture the Indiana delegates, and Senator Watson is of course debarred by the same Draconian law from attempting to capture Ohio delegates. Both will keep out of Senator Curtis' Kansas preserves, and he will stay out of Ohio and Indiana.

But what about the candidates at large? If Secretary Hoover is to fight for Ohio delegates he should not overlook Indiana and Kansas; and he has a right to cast covetous eyes upon Idaho, in spite of the suspiciously active epistolary maneuvers of Senator Borah. Of course, favorite sons of Ohio, Indiana, Kansas and Idaho have equal right to enter the California primary against Mr. Hoover.

Senator Watson has made no concealment of his admiration for Vice President Dawes, and Senator Willis has intimated that if by some miracle he himself should not be nominated, he would rather see Dawes nominated than a certain statistical genius from the Far West. But both Watson and Willis expect to be nominated, so that their kind expression in regard to Mr. Dawes are not necessarily a pledge of support. They favor him "in principle," much as M. Briand favors the renunciation of war.

Only three Republican senators have thus far declared themselves in favor of themselves for President. Come, come, senators! Why this delay? There are great States yearning to hail favorite sons. Look at Massachusetts—there she stands! Why does not Senator Gillett throw off this accursed modesty and come out for himself, on a world court platform? Then there are Pennsylvania, Michigan, West Virginia, Connecticut, and a dozen other States with senators who are qualified to be Presidents.

The American people do not relish the idea of a man stealing up to the nomination and throwing a net over it. They admire a man like Senator Willis or Senator Watson or Senator Curtis, who boldly announces that he is a candidate. They admire fighting men. Let us have plenty of favorite sons and candidates at large, and let them fight to a finish.

VETERANS WANT LEGISLATION.

Sixty-three veterans of the World War serving in the Seventieth Congress are understood to be preparing to form an organization within the House for the purpose of looking after the interests of their comrades in arms. The national legislative committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has a program laid out which will keep their congressional comrades on the jump if the nine points in that program are to be incorporated into law. These points are a service pension for all disabled men who served during the late war, without reference to the origin of the disability; adequate medical care for veterans in hospitals and as outpatients; consolidation of all Federal relief agencies under one head; abolition of time limit on applications for bonus; easier means for obtaining employment in the civil service; retirement of disabled volunteer officers on same basis with regular officers; omnibus bills on pensions; a separate department for the air service, and the punishment of seditious acts against the Government.

Thus far no suggestion is heard of a demand for a general service pension law for the veterans of the World War. That is a matter for the future, but it is not likely that as many years will be allowed to elapse before a movement is started for pensions as was the case after previous wars. It was not until January, 1887, that service pensions for veterans of the Mexican War were granted by Congress. The Civil War ended in 1865, and service pensions were authorized for veterans of that conflict in June, 1890, 25 years later. In 1898 Toral surrendered at Santiago and thereby brought to a close the Spanish-American War and service pensions were allowed 22 years later, in June, 1920.

Perhaps ten years from now Congress may enact legislation that will assure a pension to every man who wore the uniform of the United States in the World War.

A VAIN SEARCH FOR PSYCHE.

A report from a well-known summer colony for artists, poets and others of similar temperaments indicates a very even and placid life lived by the sojourners, who go there for rest and an opportunity to carry on some particular piece of work which engages them. Early to bed and early to rise is the custom, 6:30 being the rising time and 9 the retiring hour. Of course, there is no obligation of early retirement; but it has become the rule. A sober, serious gathering of folk they are who exhibit no Bohemian indiosyncrasies; quite different from the way persons of the Greenwich Village type are commonly pictured. Indeed, Greenwich Village itself has been recently combed over by a corps of Salvation Army workers, in an effort to discover the "devotees of the pagan Psyche." After a thorough visitation of the homes of the aspiring art colonists, the report is given out that the sophisticated wickedness that is staged in vaudeville and musical comedy portrayals does not exist.

Every doorbell was rung in the "moral raid," and in practically every instance the visitors were welcomed by men and women living normal, married lives and who are actuated by precisely the same ideals of conduct as are found among other persons mainly bent upon one thing—the use of their talents for the obtaining of a livelihood. The moral raider is becoming less and less a personage in these modern times, when vice is usually obvious enough for the police to attend to it, and virtue does not care to flaunt itself to the public view. The imputing of evil where it does not exist usually comes from persons for whom a kind of life not familiar to them is superficially dubbed a wrong kind of life.

THE GEORGE AMENDMENT.

Senator George, of Georgia, has made the astounding suggestion that the Senate forego the luxury of making an investigation. He has offered an amendment to the resolution providing for an investigation of public utilities, which would require the Federal Trade Commission to do this work instead of a Senate committee.

The Federal Trade Commission was created for the purpose of inquiring into interstate trade conditions and putting a stop to abuses with as little resort to the courts as possible. It is well qualified to inquire into the public utility situation, and it can furnish all the information necessary to Congress in framing legislation if any should be needed.

Senator George's amendment is so sensible and logical, however, that it will meet opposition in the Senate. This is a political year and senators are anxious to make and hold the first page. The Federal Trade Commission is not skilled in the art of publicity. It misses many opportunities for developing sensations that could be utilized for political purposes. Besides, several senators are not yet loaded up with inquisitorial duties, and it is hardly fair to deprive them of their equal right to the limelight. Thus far only public utilities, telephone companies, radio, Federal Reserve Board, Nicaragua, Navy Department, industrial espionage, foreign loans, foreign concessions, cotton reports, submarine accidents, and a few dozen other activities have been chosen as fit subjects of investigation. The session is young, and there is much to investigate. If Senator George's amendment should be adopted, the Senate might be gradually restricted to its regular duties.

Thus it will be seen that the amendment offered by the senator from Georgia is reactionary, atavistic, obstructive, archaic and obnoxious to the speedy development of the grand jury powers of the Senate.

RETAIL STORES.

A gentleman well known in merchandising circles took occasion during the convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association held recently in New York to tell the delegates that the retail store, if it is to survive, must become a "goods and service expert" to its customers. When people buy from a chain store, he said, with a low-priced simplified trade-brand stock, they expect little in the way of expert knowledge and advice in respect to the selection of goods. In this case, he continued, "the retailer's shop is a kind of animated slot machine which, indeed, is the ideal and final form of retailing of nationally advertised and conveniently packaged articles, a trend that has been favorably commented upon more than once by the advertisers themselves."

The growth of the American chain store has been phenomenal. Gradually it has been cutting into the business of old-established retail stores, leading naturally to the heaping of abuse and criticism on its head. Other retail stores, however, have prospered notwithstanding the new competition. Despite the fact that prices in the old-type store frequently are higher than those in stores under chain management, the public has not transferred its patronage. The explanation lies in the fact that the old-type store can offer something better than the chain store can offer.

There is ample room in the American merchandising structure for stores of both types. The chain store can continue to make its appeal on price alone. The ordinary retail store can offer a friendly nod, personal advice and a plethora of service. Both stores will obtain their proper share of the community's business.

RAILROAD LANDS.

In 1864, or 64 years ago, Congress granted certain lands to a corporation known as the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. to aid in the building of a railroad from Lake Superior to Puget Sound. Six years later another grant was made. Altogether the total amount of such grants was approximately 44,000,000 acres.

The golden spike which marked the completion of the great railroad enterprise was driven in the days of President Arthur, but the question of the final location of the last acres to be patented to the railroad company is not yet settled. Judging from the manner in which disputed questions between the company and the Government have been allowed to drag along it will be about the time that the centennial of the completion of the railroad is celebrated that the end of the litigation may be expected.

The terms of the original grant provided that if for any reason the company was not able to make its selections of lands within the limits originally specified, the right to make choice of other lands should vest in the corporation. The Northern Pacific claims that a deficiency of approximately 3,750,000 acres still exists. In partial settlement of this claim for "lieu lands" the Interior Department issued patents for 5,681 acres in Montana. After the issuance of these patents it was discovered that the lands thus patented are within the limit of a forest reserve. Therefore there began the game of passing the buck from the executive to the judicial branches of the Government, then back to the legislative branch, and thence back again to the executive. And now, as a number of legal question are raised, owing to conflicting court decisions, the Department of Justice suggests that suit for an equitable adjustment of the whole controversy be instituted, to the end that a way be cleared "for a judicial determination of the whole matter, just to both the United States and the railroad company."

TO REGULATE SELLING A PIG.

The bill which proposes to place all direct marketing of live stock under control of the Secretary of Agriculture needs careful attention before it is pressed for enactment. Senator Capper's object in offering this bill, and Secretary Jardine's aim in supporting its main purpose, are to force shipments of live stock into central public markets for the purpose of helping to establish and stabilize prices. But when it is proposed to establish Federal control over every private transaction in live stock it is evident that the bill encounters constitutional objections, which even Secretary Jardine recognizes.

If a farmer wishes to deliver his live stock direct to a packer or wholesaler, thus saving a middleman's commission, handling charges, &c., why should he not have the right to do so, without asking the consent of the Government? Or if a packer can arrange to buy his raw material direct from a stock raiser, why should he be required to take out a license from the Secretary of Agriculture?

Apparently the Capper bill as now drawn seeks to set up Federal interference between the buyer and seller in ordinary transactions, running into hundreds of thousands annually, in all parts of the country. Even if this could be done constitutionally, the resulting benefits of concentrated public marketing, if any, would not offset the nuisance and expense of governmental interference in private business. There is too much of this interference already. When it is proposed that a farmer can not sell a load of hogs except under the supervision of Washington the penultimate absurdity of bureaucracy would seem to have been reached. All that would remain would be a law to regulate the farm boy's transactions in hen's eggs.

MODERN CRIME PENALTIES.

Only one justifiable criticism can be levied against the so-called Baumes law: That it does not grant to judges any discretionary power whatsoever in the case of repeated offenders. There have arisen in New York several instances in which a defendant was sentenced to life imprisonment despite extenuating circumstances that were brought out in his case. The judge had no choice in the matter. The Baumes law provides that a fourth-time convicted felon must be sentenced to life imprisonment, no matter what the circumstances in the case may be.

Senator Capper's bill, introduced some time ago, providing a similar law for Washington, passed into the hands of the Commissioners who, in turn, transmitted it to the corporation counsel for his opinion. Mr. Bride now points out that Ohio, Massachusetts and several other States have refused to enact such laws, and that Wisconsin, Tennessee, Minnesota and Iowa considered modifications of the Baumes law and refused to enact it. "Personally," he says, "I have always believed that great latitude should be allowed the trial justice in the imposition of sentences for crime, in order that he might take into consideration any mitigating circumstances which are frequently present." Therefore the corporation counsel opposes the Capper bill.

The Baumes law is still in the experimental stage. It can not be denied that in some cases it has seemed to be too severe. Nevertheless, it has lessened crime in New York City.

Means should be devised to enable justice to take into account the mitigating circumstances in a case. The New York State Crime Commission now is at work along this line. In the meantime, however, legislation that can reduce crime is desirable. The Capper bill deserves further consideration. Washington needs modern legislation to deal with modern methods of crime.

ROCKING THE RACE CRADLE.

Once in a while some one tilts the presumed cradle of the race to make it careen toward one or another land or latitude. Some have contended that man first appeared at what is now the North Pole; others have contended for parts of Asia, Africa and America as the place of man's origin. Thus far the anthropologists have not been willing to ascribe to fossil remains unearthed upon this hemisphere a preglacial age. Still, the rate at which ancient American human societies are being disclosed by the archeologist is shoving ever further back the date of the known presence of men in America. It is claimed by eminent authorities that the early races of American men developed an indigenous civilization even if they may have originated in Asia.

Leaving America quite out of the question of origins, recent research swings from the steppes of Asia to the Nile Valley. The Prehistoric Survey sent out by University of Chicago has done painstaking work in this region, the geologists becoming convinced that man's occupancy goes back hundreds of thousands of years. Dr. Sandford and Dr. Arkell, both of Oxford University, stand in the lead of scientists of their order. Studying the terraces formed by the flooding of the Nile through infinite reaches of time, these men have come to look upon them as steps down which they may readily discern the races of men receding in time with each lower level explored.

Heretofore the poet has had a monopoly of the ooze and slime of the Nile in his rhapsodies concerning the cradle of the race, but whether there was one or more cradle, the investigators are beginning to agree that in Egypt man first developed organized society.

People are still curious about a family skeleton. They want to know what she did to reduce.

This is the season when a man begins kidding himself about the length of time a ton of coal will last.

Men may not have a greater sense of propriety, but you never see one taking out a compact to get the shine off his bald head.

The Simple Way.

Atchison Globe: The Lord made the earth alone, probably because one can't depend on committees.

Detroit News: The Democrats are taking no chances on repeating the spectacle of four years ago, as no convention could hold together that long in Houston in June.

Houston Post-Dispatch: Scientists have now developed a beverage which has the effect of making a man see yellow. San Francisco Chronicle: You just can't have children. The way apartments are built now there is scarcely room for the police dog.

Synthetic Soup.

Ohio State Journal: The time may come, says that eminent scientist, Prof. Firman E. A Simple Thought.

Topeka Capital: It is now proposed to carry on an educational campaign to convince people that wherever there is a railroad track a train may be approaching, something that it seems never occurred to a good many drivers of automobiles.

Give Praise.

Evansville Journal: Praise is something every one likes, yet the most of us give little of it. Praise will cause men to work much faster and harder than scolding or criticism. Criticism helps in a constructive way. Praise makes the world a happier sphere on which to live and helps keep it going around. Praise is something the husband should have for his wife's cooking and the wife for her husband's workaday efforts. It is something the employer should give his employes occasionally. Employes might startle the boss some day by praising him.

Mind Over Patter.

Kansas City Star: The great American sport of President making is now in full swing. In addition to the men whose records entitle them to public consideration, the country is full of more or less unknown aspirants whose friends are now engaged in demonstrating to a world that never heard of them that they are amply qualified for the highest office in the land.

We should say, borrowing the words from another application, that what this Nation needs in making its selection of candidates is the triumph of mind over patter.

Nothing New.

Baltimore Sun: Suspicion as to the existence of a cotton-eating bacterium has caused the Bureau of Standards to send a representative to Massachusetts to look into the matter. To be sure, it may be sulphuric acid that is somehow guilty, but anyway the matter is of interest to laundries and housewives alike who report the sudden disintegration of cotton fabrics beyond all reason. The statement that some goods survive and some disappear is not, however, an added mystery. The unexplainable debility of laundered clothes was noticed even in those days when they came home in a clothes basket on an express wagon of one boy-power.

Winning Friends

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE was a certain young lady named Jane who was a typical flapper. She used a patent hicky to curl her bobbed hair; she used a lip stick and rouge; she exhibited her knees. In all particulars she was like all the girls she knew, but she wasn't satisfied.

She longed to be popular. This longing brought her at last to the home of a Sage who had whiskers and a twinkle in his eye and a vast understanding of mankind.

"It's this way," said Jane; "I'm no neglected step-child, and I've got no halitosis to keep 'em away; but I want 'em lined up to ask for dates, and I want nice boys to ask me to marry 'em, and I want all the girls to love me in spite of me being a wow, and I even want the old has-beens to like me."

"It's a large order," said the Sage, "but it can be done. You'll have to peel, of course."

"What do you mean—peel?" asked Jane.

"Well," said the Sage, "it's this way. If you were to ask me to dress you correctly, it would be necessary for you to take off what you now have on. The place to begin is at the beginning. You are asking me, in effect, to make you over. Before I begin, you must undo what is done—reduce yourself to raw material."

"I almost get the idea," said Jane.

"It's very simple," said the Sage. "You have a smile borrowed from one movie star, a walk borrowed from another, a tone of voice that mimics some stage success, and about two dozen other characteristics or mannerisms that you have snitched from somebody. These things conceal the real Jane. They are like borrowed garments. Now you peel these off and get down to the raw so I can begin at the bottom, and I'll see what I can do for you."

So Jane went away and "peeled." A month later she came back.

"Fine," said the Sage. "And now you want me to make everybody like you?"

"Well," said Jane, "that was what I came here for a month ago, but something has happened. I don't know why, but everybody seems to like me now."

The Sage chuckled. "I thought they would," said he. "There's nothing else so rare or so lovely as a home-made girl."

Living room: That part of the house the family passes through on its way from the car to the dining room.

Correct this sentence: "He visited New York," said the other villager, "and didn't say he wouldn't live there on a bet."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

He Stands by McAdoo.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your issue of last Sunday contained a letter from E. P. S. Newman and R. J. Taggart, the first part of which claims that Al Smith has outclassed William G. McAdoo in the admiration of his fellowmen and in the latter part they claim the latter has lost popularity with the American people.

Both statements are incorrect. Mr. McAdoo is just as popular as ever and can come nearer to leading the Democratic party to victory than any other man in it. He went into the last convention with more delegates than any candidate ever did, but they were worn out by the treatment of Al Smith's hoodlums and John W. Davis was accepted as a compromise, but could not carry Clarksburg, his home town.

Al Smith could not do that well, for every one of sound mind knows that Smith's running would split the party wide open and we have no splits to spare.

In have never heard of McAdoo losing any friends; and all the knocks he gets are from old enemies.

Tilden and Cleveland carried New York State in spite of Tammany and Wilson was elected the last time without New York. FRED Y. MILLS.

Protests Abolition of Western Market.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The abolishment of the Western Market at Twenty-first and K streets, sounds like "inside politics." Last year the superintendent of markets recommended an appropriation of $30,000 for repairs for the building. He has made that same recommendation for the last several years. The building is in as good a condition today as it has been for ten years.

The West End has always needed the market. It has always patronized it. The market, under all the disadvantages, has paid its own way. With Center Market gone, the Western Market would be needed more than ever by the 100,000 people in the West End. The Western Market would supply the needs of the people living within the boundries of Sixteenth west to the eastern side of Georgetown, and from Florida avenue on the north to Potomac Park on the south.

Thirty to fifty real dirt farmers sell from their wagons at Western Market every market day. With just a little better facilities a hundred would make that market their headquarters.

The market merchants are not complaining about business done by them. Most of them wish to continue. Only four stalls out of about 100 are vacant even now.

Fifty or more large apartment houses have been built within ten blocks of the Western Market in the last five years, and three large hotels. About fifteen chain stores have opened up in the same neighborhood in the same period of time. Still the Western Market is doing an increasing business.

Why is the Western Market to be abolished?

Promises.

Hartford City News: A promise made to a child should be kept as faithfully as one made to a grown-up. Never deceive yourself about a child forgetting a promise. What can you expect of your children if you make them promises and never regard them seriously enough to fulfill them? Nothing more vicious could be inculcated in the child than deception and this is what broken promises amount to. Can you wonder in after years if your progeny is so unreliable that people point to them and remark: "You never can believe anything they say."

Adventuring with Ann

There isn't, I dare say, a woman who reads this column who doesn't know the havoc that radiator heat can play with her skin and hair. It dries her skin It splits the ends of her hair and makes both look dull and lifeless. Also I think there's little doubt that a great many of us have radiator heat to thank for the colds we struggle with during the winter.

It's all so unnecessary. Have you seen the radiator inclosures which the Trico Radiator Cover Co., 1715 Connecticut Avenue, is showing? In the top of these inclosures is a water pan which keeps the air moist and the room as warm at a temperature of 68 degrees as it would be ordinarily at 75 or 78. You'll be amazed at the difference they make in your personal comfort. Also, and this is no small consideration, they will reduce your heat bill 10 per cent.

It is often difficult to find in the shops exactly the frock you want. Mme. Christine, formerly of Paris-Nice, now at 1522 Connecticut Avenue, will copy charmingly the very latest French models in exactly the shade and color you desire.

Do go in to Ferruccio Pini's, 1365 Connecticut Avenue, and see the exquisite pair of topaz earrings which he showed me yesterday. With the care of an artist, he has set them in dull, handwrought gold—the setting is alone a thing to marvel at.

You and I know that the smartest costume can not overshadow a threadbare complexion, but that the loveliness of youth imprisoned in a well-groomed skin more than repays a woman given to personal care.

Lollie Marsden, formerly with Elizabeth Arden, has opened a most restful and attractive place at 1702 Connecticut Avenue, where she will teach you how to care for your skin at home and where she offers advice freely. Winter, as I have said elsewhere, plays havoc with everyone's skin. Phone her for an appointment today. North 6709.

It is not often that one finds any place to dine and dance which is as thoroughly delightful as Wardman Park Hotel. Nor do I know of any more popular.

And why not? With Meyer Davis' Orchestra to dance to, deliciously cooked food and a very good cabaret, one can hardly ask for more.

In addition to the weekly supper dances, there is always the Saturday night dinner dance for which, if you are wise, you will make reservations ahead, as there are any number of people who long ago discovered that these dances offer the best opportunity in the word to have an unusually good time.

The Berta Frey Weaving Studios, 1635 Connecticut Avenue at R Street are making to order those very smart, two-piece suits of handwoven materials (in any weight or color that you wish) for $50. This, as you probably know, is exceedingly reasonable. Why not stop in and talk to Miss Frey about it? She is always glad to show you her samples and discuss possible color combinations with you.

Have you noticed the perfect procession of delightful looking youngsters going into Underwood & Underwood's, 1230 Connecticut Avenue, these last few days? All dressed up in their prettiest clothes—their little faces wreathed in smiles—or looking solemnly important? A children's party, you would have said. Only it wasn't.

It was a far more important occasion. They were going to have their pictures taken, as I found out when my curiosity took me into 1230 Connecticut Avenue, to inquire. For Underwood & Underwood is offering until February 25 a remarkable value in a picture for children. I can't tell you the price because it is not being advertised, but only divulged to those who are interested enough to stop in and inquire. I can tell you, however, that it is an almost unbelievable value.

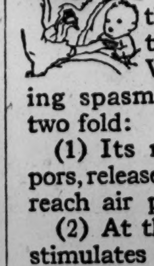
OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY



THE SPOTLIGHT

By JOHN J. DALY

For fear it happened to slip your memory, Saturday is the beginning of Drama Week.

* * * *

Everything must have its week, before the year gets away from us. T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, suggests that during Drama Week there should be a renewed interest in the theater. And, just as luck would have it, Mr. Bonneville has no drama to offer during the forthcoming week; nor any musical comedy either; nor a revue.

* * * *

In fact, Drama Week finds Washington with only one play on its hands—and that a hold-over. "Broadway" will occupy the boards at the Belasco; but, along with Poli's, the National Theater will be "dark." This marks the first break in continuous business there the past four years.

* * * *

While on the outside things will look pretty dead at the National, on the inside the place will be bustling with activity; for unless the heralds are exceedingly wrong, Mr. Flo Ziegfeld will take command of the theater, rehearsing his mammoth company for the latest production to strike his fancy—a musical version of Dumas' "Three Musketeers."

* * * *

Knowing the methods of Mr. Ziegfeld, there will be a veritable encampment next week on the stage and in the aisles of the National. Three hundred men, women and children will flock around the old stage door at the call to arms. Rehearsals will begin at 9 each day and continue through until long after press time the next morning. Hot coffee and sandwiches will be brought in, on trays, to prevent the principals and chorus from wasting time at one-arm Miques. Intensive drilling, cussing, swearing, sweating, and then, on the night of February 20, "The Three Musketeers" will open to a packed house, with all the lords and ladies present, and not a soul will know—other than by the overtime—that "The Three Musketeers" was slammed together in less days and nights than it takes to write a best seller.

* * * *

Some day, somebody should write a play, the scene in a newspaper office, with a character who, every time he comes in, says: "I used to be a newspaper man once myself." Every press agent who comes in here says it. Every person who calls to collect a bill utters the pronouncement. Every seeker after publicity knows the lyric by heart until one wonders if every man jack in the world, no matter what his avocation, started out in life as a first class failure in the most romantic business in the world, with the possible exception of the theater. Next time a fellow comes here and declaims, "I'm an old newspaper man, too," out the fifth-story window he goes—to land down on the bricks, where most of that tribe belong. As Nelson Bell says, "I'm only a young fellow—unless you know me by sight."

* * * *

Revivals being what they are, profound successes, as witness the work of Mr. George Tyler, who thus far has to his everlasting credit, "The Rivals," "School for Scandals," "Trelawny of the Wells," and "Diplomacy," this last flourishing at the National, it is inevitable that other producers should follow the flag. They are getting ready to sing George Kelly's play, "The Torch Bearers." Grace George may do "Everywoman." Louis Calhern is to be the Dr. Watson in the revival of "Sherlock Holmes," a play that all theaterdom has been hoping would come back to the boards.

Strange, just the other night, after witnessing the work of William Faversham as Henry Beauclerc, in "Diplomacy," a first nighter remarked: "What a splendid Dr. Watson that man would make."

Since so many have asked how many plays William Faversham has appeared in during his career as an actor this department takes pleasure in ressurecting a list made out by the actor himself and handed here, upon his last visit to Washington, when he was at Keith's in a one-act sketch: Here 'tis:

"The Wife," by Belasco and De Mille; "Sweet Lavender" (English); "She," by Rider Haggard; "Settled Out of Court," by William Gillette; 'Aristocracy," by Bronson Howard; "The Younger Son," by Belasco and De Mille; "Sowing the Wind," by Grundy; "The Masqueraders," by H. H. Jones; "Bohemia," by Clyde Fitch; "The Councilor's Wife," by Jerome K. Jerome and Eden Phillpot; "The Importance of Being Ernest," Oscar Wilde; "Under the Red Robe," by Stanley Weyman; "John-o-Dreams," by Haddon Chambers; "Phroso," by Anthony Hope; "My Lady's Lord," by H. V Esmond; "Richard Brindsley Sheridan," by Gladys Unger; "Man and Wife," by Gladys Unger; "Brother Officers," by Leo Trevor; "Lord and Lady Algy," by R. C. Carton; "The Conquerors," by Paul Potter; "Letty," by A. W. Pinero; "Diplomacy," by Sardou; "Romeo and Juliet," by Shakespeare; "A Royal Rival," by Edward Rose; "The Benefit of the Doubt," by A. W. Pinero; "Marriage," by Gladys Unger; "The Squaw Man," by Milton Royal; "Geoffery Middleton Gentlemen," by Martha Morton; 'A Modern Match," by Clyde Fitch; "Her Release," by Sardou; "Leah Kleshna," by Sardou; "Foot-Loose," by Zoe Akins; "Pygmalion and Galatea," by Gilbert; Jesus of Nazareth, "The Passion Play;" "The World and His Wife," by C. F. CAPITAL TRACTION CO. AGREES TO PLAN FOR CAR LINE MERGER choosing, a just and reasonable wage, a basic eight-hour day and arbitration of disputes failing of settlement by negotiation.

John H. Hanna, president of the company, stated the results of the board meeting in almost the identical words used Wednesday by William F. Ham president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., in reporting the action of his committee after it had ratified the agreement.

Statement by Hanna.

"The board has adopted a resolution accepting the merger agreement in principle," said Hanna. "There are two or three details which still require straightening out, some of them first suggested today. We anticipate no difficulty in obtaining agreement as to those. Because of agreement of all concerned to let the public utilities commission make the merger plan public, I can not say anything more about the contents of the plan."

Hanna did, however, make public the draft of the letter he sent to W. Jett Lauck and Arthur Sturgis, economists representing the street car men's union The letter said:

"The agreement, as approved, does not provide for any definite plan of operation of the combined properties, but merely the means whereby the properties themselves may be combined We believe that the directors of the Capital Traction Co. have no obligation or right to impose upon the management of the new company, which it is proposed to form, any commitments as to the policy to be followed by that company. Those policies must be determined by the directors of the new company after its formation.

"The Capital Traction Co. has, as you know, had harmonious relations with its employes, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, for nearly twelve years. As a result of those relations the Amalgamated Association is thoroughly conversant with the policies affecting its employes which the management of the Capital Traction Co. has followed."

Contest Before Commission.

This action by the two street car companies insures that the union's representatives will place before the Public Utilities Commission the question of incorporation into the charter of the merged company of the guarantees requested of the companies and refused by them.

The commission, at its semiweekly meeting yesterday, discussed questions concerning reception of the merger plan by that body. The first question raised was whether 10 or 30 days' notice would have to be given of a public hearing on the merger under the law.

If questions of changes in rates of fare are involved the law requires 30 days' notice. Otherwise only ten days are required.

The question of fare is said not to be involved directly. But it is also said that the question of an agreed valuation is dealt with in the merger agreement and that indirectly that involves possible increase of fare at an early date.

The other question is whether the stockholders of each company are required under the merger act to pass on the agreement before the commission considers it. Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride was asked for a ruling on both points.

Stockholders Called.

The Capital Traction Co. has anticipated the latter contingency. Its board of directors yesterday set March 15 as the date on which a meeting of stockholders is to be called to consider the agreement whether or not the commission rules that such consideration must precede a public hearing.

In response to questions Hanna said that the merger agreement consists of eight legal size pages typewritten single spaced, or about 4,500 words. He said much of it was in language that could only be understood by lawyers and that he faced the task of translating it into "English" to be understood by all concerned. He said that the stockholders of his company number 2,300, and that he thought most of them were women. Several of them are trustees for estates.

"I hope we can get a vote of the stockholders for the merger," said Hanna, "but I would not bet either way."

Fleharty Says Loop Buses Must Take 5-Cent Fare

Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, yesterday notified the Capital Traction Co. that he had received complaints from patrons of the Chevy Chase loop motor bus line that drivers had been refusing to accept 5-cent cash fares. Fleharty's letter to the company continued as follows:

"I find that under date of December 10, 1925, the Public Utilities Commission passed an order to the effect that upon consideration of your application the rate of fare on the Chevy Chase bus line was reduced to '5 cents, 20 tickets for $1, with no transfer privileges to the users of this ticket.'

"It would seem that under this order you are not justified in refusing to accept 5-cent cash fares; and my purpose in writing is to ascertain if you would be willing to issue instructions to your operators to accept tender of 5-cent cash fares. Otherwise I feel that I should apply to the commission for a definite order in this respect."

Film Magnate Warns That Industry Must Fight Inroads of Radio.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hollywood, Calif. Feb. 9.—Joseph M. Schenck, magnate in chief of the United Artists, who returned from New York after conferences with Eastern leaders of the financial end in films, arrived home in time to see Will Hays before the movie czar left for the East.

Schenck brought back with him a warning to film men that radio is making serious inroads into the public entertainment field. After announcing that his next supermovie, "The Miracle Woman," will be converted into screen form by Max Reinhardt, with Lillian Gish as star, and with a new kind of brilliant lighting effect, Schenck declared, "We've got to do something to contest the hold that radio is taking on the American people."

Schenck predicted that picture producers will "find they have to look to their laurels and give the people the finest in entertainment, or they can not get the people to leave their homes and turn off the radios, which are providing constantly improving artistic entertainment."

Will Hays also recorded some sentiment about the future of films. More emphasis should be placed on the good things movies are doing, instead of the harmful things or the exceptions taken to screen entertainment, he said. Hays added, "Let's stress what's right in motion pictures instead of harping on 'what's wrong with the movies?' all the time."

Saturday night is to be one of benefits. There will be a night performance at El Capitan Theater for the widow and three children of the late Earl Metcalfe, an original star in the movies, who fell 1,000 feet out of an airplane.

Other proceeds will go to the mother of Maj. Wallace McCutcheon, former British army flier and New York bon vivant, whose funeral was held in New York last week, after his suicide here. Charlie Murray, Milton Sills and Lew Cody are to be masters of ceremonies at the benefit.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, guest of honor here yesterday at a breakfast club gathering of 600 persons, confessed that she has an ambition to play in the movies, which, alas has until now been balked because "I haven't the figure for it." Her son, Ferdinand Schumann-Heink was one of the German officers in "Four Sons," which opened here the other day, and Archduke Leopold, of Austria, was another.

Study of Concrete Lamp-Posts Planned

Use in the District of concrete poles upon which to mount street lamps are under consideration, according to announcement yesterday of Maj. W. E. R. Covell, assistant to the Engineer Commissioner.

Covell says that concrete lamp-posts have been used with satisfaction in several cities and he proposed to investigate their advantages, cost and general availability for use in the street lighting extension program of the Capital.

Game-Going Suit-Bids.

IN previous articles of this series we have considered the strength requisite for suit-bids of one, two and three; but we have not discussed the strength required for original game-going suit-bids. In this connection it should be remembered that while there is a difference between the strength required for bids of one, depending upon the location of the player at the table—it requiring greater strength to open the bidding Fourth Hand than Third, and Third Hand than either Second or First—there is no difference in the strength required for original bids of two or more, regardless of the place at the table occupied by the bidder; and, of course, this doctrine applies to game-going suit-bids. These bids should be made with a hand so strong that it would be dangerous to bid one less than game for fear the partner might pass with a holding too weak to justify a jump and yet strong enough to produce game with the aid of the unusual strength of the bidder's hand.

Of course, in making game-going suit-bids the only requirement is the total strength of the hand. It may be all in the trump suit, in the trump suit and one other suit, or in the trump suit and two other suits. It is not apt to be in the trump suit and three other suits because, under the circumstances, the bid generally would be No Trump.

Of course, to make the game-going bid it is not essential that the player naming it have the amount of the bid beyond peradventure in his own hand; all that is required is that with something less than an Ace in high-card strength in his partner's hand, and a favorable break of the adverse cards he will make game.

Suppose, for example, the bidder should hold seven cards of a suit headed by Ace-King-Jack, or six cards of a suit headed by Ace-King-Queen. In neither case would it be a certainty that he would make every trick in that suit. The chances would be distinctly in favor of his so doing, but in the first case the Queen and two others might be in the adverse hand on his left, the two other hands holding only a total of three cards of the suit between them; and in the second case either of the adverse hands might have four cards of the suit headed by Jack, once again only three cards of it being in the two other hands.

When such unfortunate breaks occur, the game-going bid may be set and a smaller bid might easily obtain the contract and fulfill it; but the partner is not expected to jump a suit-bid of three (either Major or Minor) to game unless holding a Ace, King or Queen of the trump suit, or a side Ace, or a combination of face cards which suggests the probability of a trick, or a singleton and trumps which can be used for ruffing purposes.

Tomorrow this subject will be continued and illustrations will be given.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

The Parent Counselor.

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

Caring for and Building Good Teeth.

COULD girls but look ahead and see themselves at 18 with poor teeth due to youthful neglect they would carry toothbrushes instead of compacts. In fact, some of us had rather see girls cleaning their teeth at a restaurant than painting their faces. There would be more excuse for it.

If boys could picture themselves, when they object to exercising a toothbrush, paying out good money for bridges, crowns and stone teeth at an age in life when baby needs a child specialist, 6-year-old requires tonsils removed and wifey is searching the pockets for the last nickel—but what's the use of wishing!

For a girl clear skin, bright eyes and good teeth go a long way to win and to hold. A mouthful of fine teeth, an engaging smile and persuasive words sell bonds, real estate and automobiles. But to get children to see it is another matter. If reformed drunkards make great evangelists, the conductor of this column ought to have the greatest influence in the world in helping youth to take care of its teeth.

My dad's pocketbook may have squealed when it was punched by the dentist. I heard it not. I saw only the torture chamber of a painless dentistry which gave no pain to the dentist. Now that I have encountered age, I feel like Don Quixote, who, after he had his disastrous encounter with the shepherds, said to his squire:

"Reach hither thy hand, and feel how many teeth are wanting on the right side of my upper jaw, for there I feel the pain." Sancho put his finger into Don Quixote's mouth and, feeling about, said: "How many teeth had your worship on this side?" "Four," answered Don Quixote, "beside the eye tooth, all perfect and sound." "Think well what you say, sir," answered Sancho. "I say four, if not five," answered Don Quixote, "for in my whole life I never had a tooth drawn, nor have I lost one by rheum or decay." "Well, then," said Sancho, "on this upper side your worship has but two teeth and a half, and, in the lower, neither half nor whole; all is as smooth and even as the palm of my hand." "Unfortunate that I am!" said Don Quixote, hearing these sad tidings from his squire; "I had rather they had torn off an arm, provided it were not the sword arm, for thou must know, Sancho, that a mouth without teeth is like a mill without a stone, and that a diamond is not so precious as a tooth."

This is not a health column, nor am I a dentist. We discuss many health topics from the habit standpoint only For young children it is foolish to talk now about big dental bills later. For older ones, when the pride age comes along, it is too late. Right habits help immensely. Habits of eating, right diets, regularity of brushing, the habit of going to the dentist regularly and not waiting until a tooth aches. A diagnostic scheme for recording the daily fulfilling of simple personal habits and of personal hygiene interest little people. Appealing to pride hits the older ones. Expecting that the still older will use some of their allowance or earnings for paying the dental bills strikes closer than lightning. More about it if you ask for Helplet on "Care of the Teeth."

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Television.

Do you think there is any harm in a girl answering the door bell and talking for five or even ten minutes to a fellow with whom she is well acquainted when the hall is well lit up and a big corner light is outside?

A DAUGHTER.

Answer—It is my opinion that there is no harm in this. It will be long, parents, before you will be able to turn a switch and see all that's going on without even rising from your chairs. Meanwhile prying parents might install front entry amplifiers to strengthen the sound of the little nothings so dear to youthful hearts.

Snobs.

All my life I have gone with some girls in this town who are the daughters of the society leaders. Now, all of these girls are going to private schools and this has a tendency to make them snobbish. The few girls who remain in the public high school, including yours truly, have been dropped from this group. Now do you think I am right in paying no attention to these girls besides being ordinarily polite and only speaking to them when it is necessary and being content with my other friends whom I think are sincere.

FIFTEEN.

Answer—These girls simply have a temporary fit of "snobbishness." They think a private school "is something"—that's all. I should ignore a temporary situation. They will get over it. Just a piece of youthful foolishness. But I should not snub them. You high school girls should give a vacation party to the "out of town" crowd. See what happens.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

GAINING AND REDUCING.

DEAR Viola Paris:

1. What can I do to reduce and harden my bust?

2. I am very thin from my hips to my ankles. What can I do to add flesh or muscles in these places?

CURLY.

ANSWER.

1. Every day take the following arm-swinging exercises, doing them vigorously.

Describe a large, complete circle before you, with your right arm. Do this at least ten times, and then rest that arm. Repeat the exercise with the left arm. Then, start the right arm in the same circular movement, with the left arm following immediately. Both arms are then in motion at the same time, but going in different directions. Stretch both arms as far in back of you as you can; then, with the arms held straight at the elbows, quickly raise them to the highest point you can reach above your head. Repeat about ten times, but do not exhaust yourself.

Let a cold spray run over the breasts each day during your morning bath.

2. Any of the squatting exercises are excellent, especially the one in which the legs are extended forward, as in a Russian dance. Lie on your back and pedal an imaginary bicycle in the air. Stand erect and bend the knees, bringing the thighs as close to the upper part of the body as possible. Swing both legs, alternately like a pendulum, forward and back. Kicking, walking, running and rope skipping are all excellent.

D. S.: Since they tend to normalize in either direction, the same exercises are good for gaining or losing, so if you will follow my advice to "Curly" about arm-swinging exercises, I think that your breasts will develop. I advise you not to massage the bust with cocoa butter or with anything else, because massage can do this delicate part more harm than good.

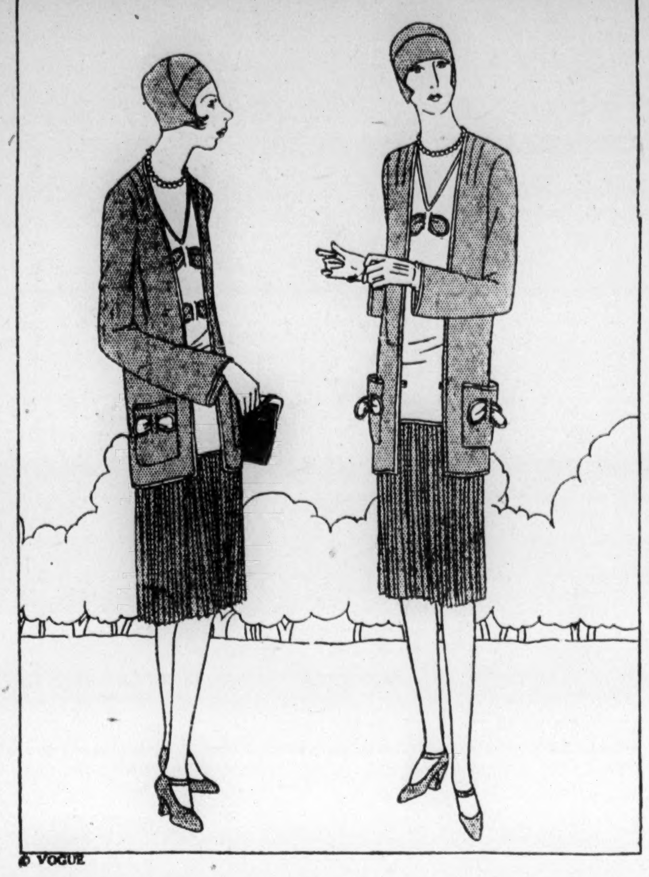
Right and Wrong of Poise and Pose



AS Elizabeth Dutton was walking down Fifth avenue in the vicinity of Central Park, she pondered on many things pertaining to the "reasons why" of chic.

It is not only the actual clothes that we wear that make some of us always appear well dressed and others of us seem always to be in bad taste. "I wonder what it is," she thought

Just at that moment she saw two young women dressed exactly alike even to their hats and shoes and she got at once the answer to her question.

One young woman, whom I have sketched on the right, stood straight with her shoulders back and her feet well placed. She had placed her hat on her head at the angle it was made for and the result was the impression of a well poised smart young woman.

Alas, her costume twin did not realize the value of poise and pose and I have sketched on the left the picture that Elizabeth saw. This young woman stood negligently on one foot with the other crossed over it in front. Her shoulders were hunched forward and in putting on her hat she had thought to improve upon the milliner's art by pushing it off her forehead at a rakish angle, with the sad result that the crown was entirly displaced and the whole chic of the hat was lost.

The costume itself was a smart three-piece suit of light navy blue kasha with a white blouse worn with a felt hat to match. But on one woman it was smart, while on the other it was merely a suit.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

NOW then, Madame F., you become involved with a question when you so lightly speak with a tremendous scope about "what does one do to tough and to tender meats—cooking them I mean."

Briefly speaking, you should roast the more tender cuts, and steam, or boil, or pressure cook the tougher ones. Long slow cooking is necessary when meat has resisting tendencies—and quick, intensive cooking is necessary in cases of the expensive, tender cuts. For instance, a pot roast, which may be rump or round of beef, is cooked long and slowly. And by the same token may I suggest, apropos your letter, that when you do remove the bones of the meat to have it rolled you remove a bit, quite a bit of the flavor and deliciousness of the roast. A standing roast may not look as delectable as a rolled one, but it will taste more so.

I hope this takes care of your doubt, and that you realize why the difference in cooking time and temperature is stressed. It is not strange then, is it, that we can not cook all cuts of meat by one process.

Now for a dinner for tonight, which is, we know in advance, to be a fish dinner, in this instance oysters, fried in the usual mouth-watering manner.

MENU.

Escalloped Potatoes
Stringbeans
Pineapple Jelly
Nut Cakes
Coffee

Fried Oysters

Drain and dry the oysters. For frying the large oyster will prove more satisfactory than the smaller variety. Season them with salt and pepper and dip in beaten egg; then in ground cracker crumbs; and fry either in deep fat, after the fashion of doughnuts, or in a smaller amount of fat in an ordinary frying pan. Serve with pieces of lemon and the following sauce:

Sauce Tartare

Escalloped Potatoes.

In a buttered baking dish arrange a layer of potatoes, peeled and thinly sliced. Sprinkle with flour, dot with butter, add salt and peper and a bit of grated cheese. Repeat this operation until the dish is filled and then pour milk into the dish until it may be seen through the top layer of potatoes.

Pineapple Jelly.

1 pint of cream.
1 cupful of pineapple juice.

Chop the pineapple fine (if it is the sliced variety) and put it on the stove with the sugar and juice. Simmer for twenty minutes and then add the gelatin mixed with cold water and strain the whole, removing the gratings of pineapple. Set aside the strained liquid and, when it begins to thicken, stir in the cream, which has been whipped stiff. The quantities given above may be halved, thus making this dessert less expensive.

WHY HEELS ON SHOES?

BOB BECKER tells us that, in the far North, no one wears shoes with heels. This applies to visiting hunters and other visitors, as well as to the natives. This raises the question: "Why should any one wear heels on shoes?" or "Why should shoes have heels?"

The reason for high heels is recognized as being the vanity of man. The masculine is used advisedly, since high heels were invented by a vain, but abbreviated king. The invention was vain in the case of the king, since the fashion he set ultimately led to the apparent elongation of all the socially inclined, and short kings are as short as ever, relatively speaking.

But the history of the shoe heel itself is more obscure and there is no agreement as to the reason for it. One contention is that a heel makes walking more secure. However, it does not. Heels cause slipping, and that's why the people in the far North wear heelless boots.

Another contention is that they lessen the shock to the spinal column, but the rubber heel was invented to overcome the shock to the spinal column from the solid heel.

It is easier to find reasons for not wearing heels. One is that they cause the weight to be pitched forward on the front of the foot and the front part of the member is not built right for that method of load-carrying.

The human animal, at least on the American continent, is improving yearly. Reports from all parts of the country are agreed that young women and men are better built than their parents were. The Jewish children of the East are finer physical specimens than their immigrant forbears. The descendants of Asiatics on the Pacific slope are taller than their parents. The same improvement is noted in reports on some other racial stocks in other parts of the country.

The same improvement is noted in reports on different parts of the body except the foot. There is no question that the human foot is not improving. On the other hand, it is growing less perfect. The question is: How much of this decadence of the foot is due to the custom of wearing heeled shoes?

HARM IN FUR.

E. E. H. writes: 1. Every winter I get ringworms on either my face or my neck. I am 16. Some people say it is because I wear a coat with fur and that there is something in the fur which causes it. Is this true?

2. Is sulphur ointment good as a treatment.

3. Will you send me a diet for a supper, as I have terrible nightmares and I talk in my sleep.

REPLY.

1. Could be true. My guess is that the dye in that fur is poison to you.

2. No. Either have the fur bleached and redyed or discard it. When you quit the fur as it now is you will get well.

Until you do, sulphur will be useless.

3. My advice is that you eat no supper. If you feel you must eat, limit yourself to a glass of buttermilk.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BILL KNEW HIS FRIENDS.

Bill knew his friends before he died,
 The crowd that gathers now
 And touch his icy brow
Finds him unmoved. Not one can speak
A word to stir that placid cheek.

His lips today are cold and dumb,
 To love he can't reply.
He waited long for friends to come,
 And oft he wondered why
So few there were to stop awhile

From time to time some roses came,
 And then his eyes grew bright;
He called his every friend by name,
 Who sat with him at night.
Today a crowd is here, but oh,
Just who they are he'll never know.

Surrounded by the flowers he lies
 Unmoved by all the tears;
For death has sealed his tender eyes,
 No word of love he hears.
What matters now the crowd outside?

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Dreams.

DEAR Miss McDonald—I am a girl 15 years of age. I work as a food-checker, and receive $10 per week. I give my pay to my father, and he doesn't give me any carfare. He's drunk almost every day. Should I give him my pay or not? There is a boy that I love. He enlisted in the Marines a year ago. I love him very much, and am proud of him. He comes home once in four months. So when he does come I tell him how lonely I am without seeing him. We like each other with all our hearts. The last time he was here we had a talk on our porch. When he was ready to leave he asked me to kiss him, so I did. I was told that I'd have my head blown off if I'd do it again. He's coming down for Easter. Should I talk to him? I love him deeply. Do I have to quit him? I can only see him once in four months. I'm 15 and he's a little older. Can you answer this letter for my sake? Yours truly,

"DREAMS."

Keep your boy, and keep your dreams, dear. Dreams have a way of coming true, and boys have a way of loving girls who can make dreams come true.

You know there are two sides to life. The side we see all about us, and the side we are able to vision. Some people see only the actualities—the meals they eat, the clothes they wear, the people about them. Others see things that could be, things that can be. And they make those things come to them just by making up their minds to get those things for their own.

You have a job where you can learn much. Some day you and the boy may own your own little business. Just make up your mind that all the things that are happening to you now are just necessary steps upward to your dream. The boy, you know, is living through many trying hours also, but when his training is over he will be a man. So cheer him up when you see him. That's even more your job than food checking.

As to your father. Try to forget that he exists. He is one of nature's ghastly mistakes. He has no claim whatever upon your earnings. But if you have a mother continue to give her your money less car fare. If you have no mother keep all of your earnings and if your father protests do not hesitate to report him to the police.

But the chief thing is to keep your dreams, for the day that is coming—that day when dreams come true.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

WHAT MAKES A GOOD HOSTESS.

DEAR Miss Singleton—I went out to dinner the other night and I was surprised to find my hostess did not introduce everybody in the room to me though I was a stranger to most of them. She brought up the gentleman who was to go to dinner with me, and she mentioned the names of two ladies standing near me and that was all till after dinner when she did include me in the group near her till the gentlemen joined us. Her husband then came to talk to me. Should she not have named the whole company to me?

INTERESTED.

She might have done so but this wholesale way of introducing has always seemed to me very confusing. You do not mention the size of the dinner. If it happened to be a large one, your hostess could not very well make you known to every one, like a new teacher to a class of boys and girls. At a small dinner, of course, this is easier, but even then I should find eight or ten names difficult to remember. I think the plan of introducing you at once to the ladies nearest you, and bringing up the man who was to take you into dinner might be regarded as a sufficient attention to your comfort before dinner, unless for any reason, all of these new acquaintances had been obliged to leave you. Then your hostess should have managed to go to you herself or to have found some one else to introduce. After dinner she seems to have, quite properly, kept you beside her, and seen that you were well placed until her husband claimed your attention. I don't think you had anything to complain of.

You see, people assembled under one roof have a sort of social right to talk together even if they do not all know each other's names. We, in America, are more apt to introduce large numbers of people than they do, for instance, in England. A good hostess should see to it that all her guests are pleasantly and happily placed, and, if one of them is a stranger, she should arrange that several people are introduced. But the real test of a hostess is not how many acquaintances you make at her house, but how clever she has been about choosing agreeable companions for you.

"WHOM TO TIP" LIST GIVEN HOTEL PATRONS

Paris, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Whom to tip is being reduced to an exact science by some helpful French hotel keepers. With the bill they give the traveler a list of the servants who presumably "served" the tipper. They thus enable the bewildered foreign patron to pick out his victimizers from the little army that once upon a time lined up and bowed to him as he left, right hand ready for quick extension.

Also, the hotel keeper by this simple method reminds the hotel guest that the selected employes are due for a certain share of the minimum of 10 per cent of the bill which keeps him working at wages they would scorn if there were no tips.

As for the division, that is the problem the traveler must solve for himself, unless he has the courage to tell the clerk to make the proper distribution, which is seldom done except by the older Frenchmen in provincial hotels.

Bride Loses Memory On Way to Wedding

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Eighteen-year-old Lena Demwen fell down the stairs from an elevated railway station while on her way to get married and when she got to the bottom she could not remember the name of her prospective bridegroom or where they were to have met. She had also forgotten where she lived. An ambulance took her to a hospital for examination and hospital employes finally located the waiting bridegroom.

Power Helps on British Farms.

London (A.P.).—Britain has become more active to the need of providing cheap electricity to aid the farmers. Among proposals being considered are the setting up of a rural electricity parliamentary committee, provision of funds for electrification, cheaper overhead lines and the establishment of a typical rural experimental area.

NEW BOOK STREAM FLOWS UNCHECKED

"The phenomenal year of 1926 in the book trade has been equalled if not bettered in 1927," Publishers' Weekly announces. Its figures reveal that 185 publishing houses had a total output last year of 7,450 new books as compared with the 1926 total of 6,380 new titles, representing slightly fewer publishers. New books and new editions together were increased 9 per cent over those issued in 1926. Works of fiction had the most outstanding growth. Increases were reported also in children's books, biography, poetry and drama.

It is noted further, that "in spite of the wide interest in biography today, 95 fewer books in this field were published in 1927 than in 1913 while fiction has increased by 210 titles and by nearly 200 in reprints." The most marked decreases were found in the field of sociology, law, education, science, technology, medicine and agriculture, "in all of which areas there has been a decided lessening of the number of new titles."

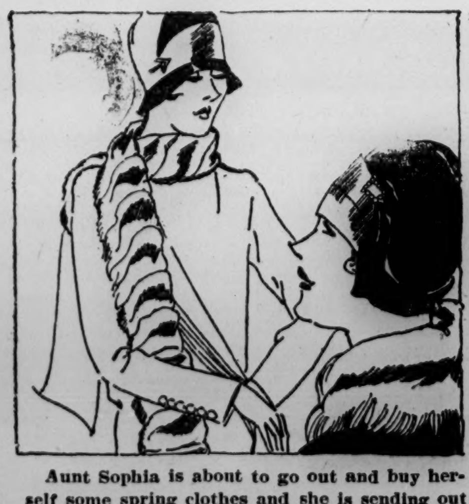
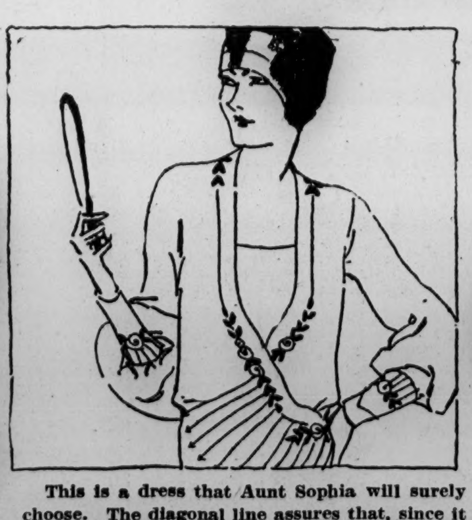
Aunt Sophia in the Search of Style

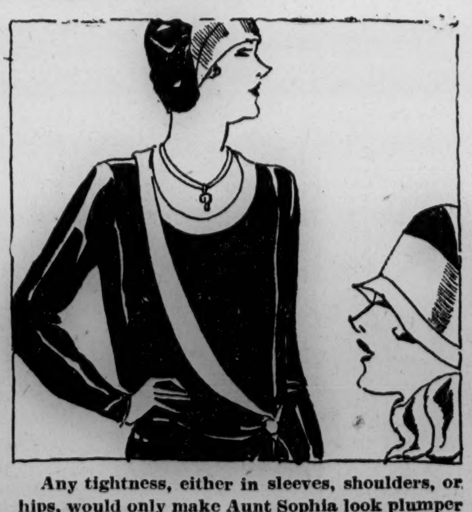
By Jay V. Jay



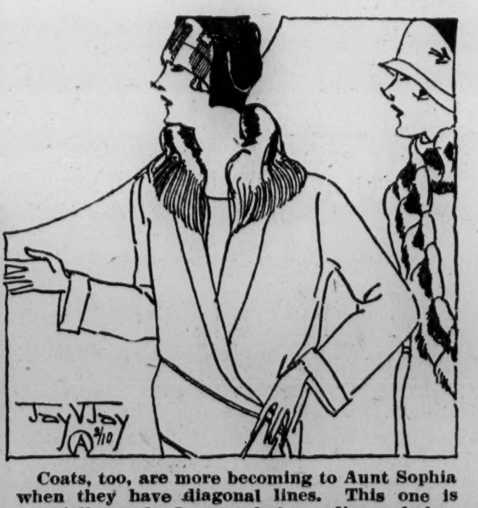
Aunt Sophia is about to go out and buy herself some spring clothes and she is sending out a cry for help. "Do come with me," she says to Mitzi, "or I shall buy the frocks that look so charming on the model and forget that I'm a perfect 42." Mitzi, in a spring coat with the new stole collar, is delighted to be of any such service.



This is a dress that Aunt Sophia will surely choose. The diagonal line assures that, since it makes her look slender. The sunburst of stitching in front also cuts the width. The little touches of flat embroidery enliven it without giving it bulk. The odd sleeves are new and quite permissible for anyone. Tight sleeves would be a mistake.



Any tightness, either in sleeves, shoulders, or hips, would only make Aunt Sophia look plumper than she is. This dress of black flat crepe also shows a diagonal front line with a rather low round neck that is becoming. The diagonal line on the blouse is repeated on the skirt and this is another dress that Mitzi heartily recommends.



Coats, too, are more becoming to Aunt Sophia when they have diagonal lines. This one is especially good. It not only has a diagonal closing line, but is striped with diagonal lines of stitching. The high collar of long-haired but flat fur is also attractive to Aunt Sophia. Mitzi decides she has done a good day's shopping!

AVALANCHE OF BUYING QUICKLY ROUTS BEARS

FEW SHARES DROP BACK

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 9.—Stocks were strong today in an active market in which the turnover came close to the 3,000,000 share mark and 25 issues advanced to record highs for the year or more. Buying was induced largely by an easier trend in money rates, call dropping to 4 per cent, after renewing at 4½ per cent. Traders for the rise also were helped by reports that a big increase in the unfilled tonnage figures of the United States Steel Corporation would be announced tomorrow.

The shorts were thoroughly routed in the early trading when buying was concentrated on a number of the old leaders, including United States Steel, General Motors, American Can, General Electric, American Smelting, Atchison and New York Central, all of which advanced sharply. In a short time these leaders had an extensive following from nearly all divisions of the list. The pace of the recovery was rather taxing on the market, however, and toward the close realizing by those who had bought for a turn, along with some renewed speculative selling, forced values back somewhat from the best levels of the day.

In the first hour the bears made a vigorous attempt to continue the downward movement which they had forced in the two previous sessions, but their efforts met with strong resistance in many quarters, and when the lower money rate was announced they were driven to cover by an avalanche of buying among the pivotal stocks

American Can stood out as a leader among the seasoned industrials, advancing to a new high and gaining 2ffi on a turnover of 138,600 shares. Steel common gained 2 points and General Motors ⅞, the latter in a turnover of 259,000 shares. The movements of the three leaders give a fair example of the action of a large number of the day's market leaders.

Only a few stocks moved definitely against the trend. These included Montgomery Ward, which was hammered for a loss of 3⅜; Atlantic Refining down 3⅛; American Linseed, 2½; Childs Co., 2⅜; General Outdoor Advertising, 2¼; Burns Brothers A and Houston Oil, 1.

Du Pont was hoisted to a new high at 335, but dropped 3 points later and closed up 10 points.

Other active industrials which gained from 1 to 6 points included General Electric, Adams Express, American Express, American Railway Express, Westinghouse Electric, Vick Chemical, Advance Rumely preferred, American International, American Smelting, American Zinc common and preferred, Brooklyn Union, Burroughs, Case Threshing, Christie Brown, Chrysler, Commercial Solvents, Consolidated Gas of New York, Continental Can, Federal Light, Gold Dust, Gillette Razor, Harvester, Lambert, Midland Steel Products preferred, New York Air Brake, Purity Baking A, U. S. Realty, United Cigar Stores, Tobacco Products common and A, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Freeport Texas, Spicer Manufacturing, Shattuck and others.

Some rails scored substantial advances, but as a group made little headway. Some of the rubber shares were unsettled by the sharp break in the crude rubber market, but losses on the day, generally, were unimportant.

It was indicated by the action of many of the recently weak features that selling in the two preceding sessions had gone far toward eliminating the unwholesome technical positions that had resulted from excessive speculation for the rise a fortnight ago. In consequence, a normal rally against shorts was in order, bringing some sharp rebounds in certain of the specialties. But even the most optimistic observers were hardly inclined to look for more than a normal rally, and while advising customers to pick up stocks for a turn, were still cautioning against any tendency to overtrade.

Continued pressure against guilders sent the Dutch foreign exchange rate down 2½ points. This movement was in line with a program to adjust the Dutch figure to the high money rate prevailing in this city. Sterling held firm despite the sharp increase in gold holdings by the Bank of England.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Wheat prices developed independent strength today, and scored a sharp advance based largely on broader domestic milling demand. Corn likewise ran up in value as a result of aggressive new buying on the part of speculators.

Closing quotations for wheat were firm, ⅜ to 1¾ cents net higher, with corn showing ⅝ to ¾ of a cent to 1⅛ cents advance, oats unchanged to ⅛ of a cent off and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 22 cents.

In addition to big purchases of wheat today for United States mills, a late upturn in wheat values at Liverpool did much to bring about a reversal of bearish wheat market conditions that have formed the rule of late. Earlier in the day, wheat and corn in Chicago each showed a tendency to sag, wheat being influenced a good deal by temporary declines of the Liverpool wheat market and by reports of cheaper offerings from Argentina. Subsequently however, sharp notice was taken of relative firmness in the Chicago price of March delivery of wheat, March going to a premium over May on account of removal of hedges against sales of cash wheat to mills. There were also bullish crop advices from the Southwest including mention of green bugs and hessian fly.

Corn prices today rose to a new high point as compared with any net touched since early in December. At first, however, today's market was dominated by heavy profit-taking sales and by favorable weather for the movement of the domestic corn crop. Besides, there was evidence of a pause in corn export demand, with predictions current that the Argentine official corn acreage estimate looked for tonight would be in excess both of last year's figures and those of the year previous. On the other hand, rural offerings of corn to Chicago today proved to be light and consignment advices showed a falling-off.

Oats were bearishly affected by the fact that oats seeding is under way as far north as Oklahoma and is expected to begin shortly in southern Kansas.

Provisions tended upward, sympathizing with the advance of hog values and of corn.

Galileo and the Pendulum

GALILEO GALILEI was fascinated by a swaying lamp high up in the Tower of Pisa. It led him to experiment with weights swinging on a string. And he discovered and formulated the laws of the pendulum. He was nineteen years old then.

The laws of the pendulum are applicable to investments which fluctuate and those persons investing in such securities must be prepared to accept a swing one way or another in their market value.

A saner way to invest, however, is to purchase investments which are not governed by the laws of the pendulum, but which are always steady and are worth par every day in the year. Such securities are the First Mortgage notes issued by Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company, which bear a regular 6% return and do not cause the investor a day's worry concerning their value or security. This is the class of investments which you should seriously consider.

BONDS SLIGHTLY FIRMER; FOREIGN ISUES ACTIVE

FEDERAL GROUP IS HIGHER

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Bond prices were somewhat firmer today, but trading continued to be of average proportions. Foreign issues of relatively high yield and the semispeculative domestic liens attracted the most attention, buying of high-grade issues again being limited by the expanding volume of new offerings and the disposition of traders to await developments in the money market. Time money rates were steady, but bankers acceptances were a shade easier.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $20,000,000 Standard Oil Co. of New York debenture 4½s, priced to yield about 4.05 to 4.60 per cent according to maturity.. The $10,750,000 issue of Paris-Orleans Railroad 5½s offered this morning was reported promptly oversubscribed.

Such convertible mortgages as Liquid Carbonic 6s, Brooklyn Edison 5½s and Cuba Cane Sugar 8s were in demand. New York traction bonds again came into prominence, especially Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s. High-grade railway issues were fractionally higher in the main, but transactions were in small amounts.

St. Paul Railway bonds again sagged, probably because of the approach of the time for assessment payments. Pathe Exchange 7s continued their rapid decline, selling as low as 53½, against a year's high of 81½.

Trading in the foreign group was scattered over a long list. Few individual issues or groups stood out. French, Italian and Japanese obligations were firm.

United States Government securities moved slightly higher, but the volume of sales was comparatively small.

STEEL AND AUTO ACTIVITY IS REPORTED AS GAINING

NEW HIGHS IN MARKET

By F. W. PATTERSON.

So far this year little tangible evidence has appeared of the improvement in business that has been so confidently predicted, with the exception of the steel and motor industries, says the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"In the case of steel, mill operations have been increasing steadily and at the beginning of February average around 90 per cent of practical capacity for the United States Steel Corporation, compared with a low of 60 per cent reached last autumn while the leading independent companies have gone up from 50 to 80 per cent during the period," says the Journal. "New business is coming as usual from a great variety of demands, but especially from the railroads for freight cars, also for rails, and the motor industry for sheets, while structural shapes are still in good demand and indicate a continuance of large construction again this year.

"Perhaps even more noteworthy than the rapid stepping-up of steel mill operations is the recent increase in prices of steel products, amounting on average to approximately $1 per ton or 2.5 per cent. The ability of producers to establish higher prices and apparently to maintain them, at a time when the 1928 business picture is just beginning to unfold itself, has been regarded as a reassuring development. Its importance is by no means limited to the steel industry. That line supplies so many other industries that conditions in the steel manufacturing centers constitute a major influence on general business, as well as a barometer whose value was recognized long ago.

"Conditions in the motor industry appear similar to those of steel, with the entire industry rapidly increasing employment, speeding-up production, launching sales campaigns and looking forward to making this a new record year in history."

The similarity between conditions in the steel and motor industries, however, is not so complete as might appear on the surface, in that while prices are being increased in the former line, they are being reduced in the latter. With the substantial price cuts that have been announced by several leading manufacturers since January 1, and the almost continuous revision of models, it would seem that a stiff competitive year is in prospect and that perhaps profits will not be as satisfactory as volume.

New High for Gas Shares.

Trading in Washington stocks yesterday was featured by conspicuous price movements in several issues. Washington Gas Light, which has been moving upward under fractional gains for some time, continued its advance to reach a new high. Coming out with a ½-point gain, the first lot changed hands at 87½, with sales thereafter showing gains up to the closing transaction at 88. Closing bid was 87¾ with 88 asked.

Capital Traction started unchanged at 114⅝ with 30 shares changing hands, and picking up a fraction two more lots sold at 114¾. Potomac Electric Power 5½ per cent preferred was firm at 108½. Bid price on Washington Railway common was 485, while that for the preferred was 103, with no offering on either stock.

Peoples Drug Stores preferred, which reached a new high on Wednesday, went still further yesterday and a small lot sold at 124⅞. Another miscellaneous listing to move into new high ground was Sanitary Grocery preferred, which sold in a single lot at 107. Washington Loan & Trust Co. sold in a single share at 507, while Lanston Monotype advanced a ½ point with four lots moving at 109½.

Bank Officers Reelected.

Directors of the International Exchange Bank met yesterday for organization for the year and reelected the following officers: Joseph Schiavone, president; Francis L. Neubeck, vice president and attorney; Hugh W. Barr, vice president, and Frank J. Kaufmann, jr., cashier. Walter I. Birch was elected assistant cashier.

Birch, who has been receiving teller of the institution for the last two years, was formerly of the staff of the Columbia National Bank. His election to the new office was a well-earned promotion, according to President Schiavone, who made the announcement of his election.

Following the organization the directors declared the regular semiannual dividend of 3 per cent payable February 16 to stockholders of record January 6.

Consolidated Reserve Statement.

The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on February 8, made public by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday, shows increases of $35,400,000 in holdings of discounted bills, $14,400,000 in cash reserves and $7,200,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation and decreases of $8,100,000 in bills bought in the open market, $32,300,000 in Government securities and $9,600,000 in member bank reserve deposits. Bills and securities were $5,100,000 below the amount held a week ago. The system's holdings of bills bought in the open market decreased $8,100,000; of United States bonds, $5,500,000; of Treasury notes, $22,300,000, and of certificates of indebtedness, $4,500,000.

Federal Reserve note circulation was $7,200,000 more than a week ago, an increase of $10,600,000 reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta and smaller increases by four other banks being partly offset by a total reduction of $5,800,000 reported by the remaining banks. The consolidated statement is printed elsewhere in the financial section of this edition.

Bank Club Has Dance.

The Riggs Bank Club held a dance and card party last night in the Willard room of the Willard Hotel, which was voted one of the most successful features of the year's program of events up to now.

Officers of the club are: Harold S. King, Miss Mildred Archer and B. G. Womersley, vice presidents; Miss Esther Lau, secretary; George Irelan, treasurer; executive committee, Phil M. Garnett, W. H. Taylor, D. E. Wisecarver, Miss Harriet Barrett, Miss Mildred Hoeke, J. Stephen Ramsbaugh, B. J. Mensh, William Hoeke, Bernard Boudren and Joe Keene.

Drug Sales Show Gain.

Peoples Drug Stores report sales for January amounting to $693,426, compared with $584,130 for the corresponding month last year, an increase of $109,296, or 18.71 per cent.

Salesman Files Petition.

Edward J. Lapp, a salesman, formerly in the coal business with George S. Cochran under the name of the Sterling Coal Co., filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy yesterday in Bankruptcy Court. Through Attorney David Riordan the debts were listed at $7,009 and the assets at nothing.

The price trends of three principal necessities for the last ten years are shown by the newest data on the cost of living to be collected by the United States Department of Labor.

The three necessities are food, rent and clothing. By comparison with 1913, clothing prices this winter show an increase of 63 per cent, rents 60 per cent and food prices 56 per cent. Food thus is pictured as being nearest to the prewar level.

The price of food and of clothing touched the highest point of all time in the winter of 1919-20. Clothing then sold to the consumer for 169 per cent more than in 1913, while food brought 97 per cent more. Both food and clothing dropped sharply in price from 1920 to 1927.

Rent, however, in the winter of 1919-20 had only begun to increase. It was then 25 per cent higher than in 1913. It continued to advance until the winter of 1925-26, passing food prices in 1921-22. Rent is now on the down grade along with food and clothing.

The data collected by the Labor Department are based on reports from virtually all large cities of the United States. The reports deal with prices paid by consumers for food and clothing at local stores.

Kansas City Reserve Bank Increases Rate

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City has raised its rediscount rate from 3½ to 4 per cent.

Announcement that the rate had been increased, effective today, was made by the Federal Reserve Board. In raising its rate the Kansas City bank followed similar action by seven other Federal Reserve Banks. Those at Denver, Atlanta, St. Louis and Philadelphia still have a 3½ per cent rediscount rate.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Easier money rates provided the needed stimulant and prices on the curb market soared today, establishing new high records in virtually every group. Much of the buying was believed to be for speculative accounts after the bear raid of yesterday. Recessions among the industrials were few, but several of the utilities and oils were rather weak.

Bancitaly made history by gaining nearly 10 points, touching a new high at 174⅞, which represents an appreciation of about $50 a share this year on revived rumors of a stock split-up. Other new highs were Bohn Aluminum and Brass, up 1 point to 48⅜; Deere & Co., up 9 points to 258; Keystone Steel & Wire, up 3 points to 192; Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Sparks Withington, up 5 points each, and Swift International, up 2½ points to 33. Tubize Art Silk gained 6 points. Mavis Bottling, American Rolling Mills, Atlas Plywood and A. C. Spalding were strong, but declines affected Canadian Marconi and Marconi Wireless of London, New Port, Celanese, and National Sugar.

The chain store and food shares came back to favor with extreme gains. Mercantile Stores, Gobel, Safeway Stores and Sanitary Grocers reached new highs and Bohack gained 10 points.

The 6-point gain of Electric Bond & Share, which reached a new high at 109⅞, was the feature of the utilities, where gains were small and losses numerous. Commonwealth Edison declined 2½ points.

Increased production and the attitude of Congress toward investigations threw a cloud over the oil shares. Gulf sagged 4 points to a new low at 107, Anglo-American lost 1¾ and others were down. The one bright spot was Venezuelan Mexican, speculative buying of which caused an advance of nearly 4 points to a new high at 27¾.

New Mont consistently established its daily new high, but after reaching 173⅛ slumped to 169 and closed at 170, off 2¾ net for the day. Shattuck Denn gained a bit. Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting dropped to a new low.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Advances followed an early decline in the cotton market today which carried May contracts up from 17.71 to 17.94, or 14 points net higher and 88 points above the low level touched early in the month. May closed at 17.87, the general market closing barely steady, at net advances of 7 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points. Active months showed net declines of about 7 to 10 points in early trading under selling promoted by reports of showers or prospects for showers in droughty sections of Texas. March eased off to 17.55 and October to 17.52, but these prices seemed to bring in better demand, including trade and commission house-buying and covering by recent sellers. The relatively steady showing of early Liverpool cables may have encouraged some of this buying, but the chief factors appeared to be reiterated reports of a steady spot situation, indications of a falling off in fertilizer sales and continued talk of a probable smaller increase in acreage than anticipated at the higher price levels of late last year.

March contracts sold up to 17.77 and October to 17.75, net advances of 13 to 16 points, during mid afternoon, but demand tapered off at these figures and the close showed reactions of 7 or 8 points from the best on most positions.

A report on fertilizer tax tag sales for January showed an increase of 18 per cent over last year, but a decrease compared with two years ago and said this would seem to indicate that the larger sales during the fall months of 1927 than for the like period of 1926, were due largely to crops other than cotton.

Private cables said the advance in Liverpool was due to covering with London and Manchester buying, and also reported improved demand for cotton cloths from China. Cables also were received from Manchester stating buyers were not fully convinced that rallies in cotton prices would be maintained, but opinion gained ground that values were on a safer basis.

Exports today 10,949, making 4,856,659 so far this season. Port receipts, 14,022. U. S. port stocks, 2,261,535.

Soviet Oil Production in 1927 was the largest annual output for 25 years, reaching $10,413,000 metric tons. Exports were largest on record, $2,135,000 tons, it is shown in statistics received by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, American representative of the Soviet Naphtha syndicate.

A normal equilibrium must be maintained between income and outgo, if the banking business is to be kept on a sound basis, says Charles E. Mitchell, president, National City bank, discussing factors justifying lower interest rates on bank deposits, in the American Bankers Association Journal. Operating expenses of the banking business in which salaries and taxes are the leading items, have not been declining and are not likely to do so, he asserts, while it is unpleasant to think of disturbing relations with depositors. It is even more so to think of reducing the pay of the bank staff and other expenses are largely beyond control.

Departure of Ball Players South Exposed by Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The baseball industry, or national pastime, as it is euphemistically called at times, is beginning to attract attention again and in a short time there will be flashlight sheets in the rotogravures showing groups of well-dressed young men standing on the back porches of the de luxe trains waving goodby to winter snows, or words to that effect.

Such a group usually consists of from four to six baseball writers, looking as though they dread the beginning of another ordeal of golf interrupted by 500 words a day; two club secretaries, several traveling drummers, who just happened to stroll out onto the observation platform in time to be mistaken for Dazzy Vance, an assistant clerk of the municipal court and friend of the club owner, who has saved his vacation from the preceding summer, and a recruit outfielder from the semipros who is paying his own freight South for a trial on the off-chance that the manager will find him a varsity job in Wichita when the regular season begins.

Along the route, the train may pick up an actual ball player or two to validate the party's designation as a baseball squad on the way to the training camp. But in all likelihood the regular players will be found at the trainer's site, having driven in by buckboard or trolley from their various homes not very far away, all except Ed Roush, who will be holding out if there is anything in tradition.

It would be more formal if all the ball players actually attached to the ball clubs were to gather in the favored city for an official departure, but it would also be very expensive and foolish, so the baseball writers, for once in the season, are allowed to have their

'Grudge' Race By Peltzer And Dodge

No One Will Be Close Enough to Get Bumped, Invader Says.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The second, and perhaps the final, appearance of Dr. Otto Peltzer, noted German runner, in indoor races in this country, developed today into a "grudge affair." Ray Dodge, who meets the doctor over a 1,000-meter distance in tomorrow night's meet of the Illinois Athletic Club, charges Dr. Peltzer elbowed him out of victory at the Millrose games in New York last week.

"There will be no bumping tomorrow night," Dr. Peltzer said today. Somewhat nettled at Dodge's accusation, "unintentional or otherwise, there will be no one close enough to me to get bumped."

The doctor added an indignant denial that he had elbowed Dodge off the track at New York. A wide cinder track will be the scene of the I. A. C. events, while the Millrose races were held on an indoor board track, with which Dr. Peltzer is unfamiliar. Since his return from New York, Dr. Peltzer has been working out daily at Northwestern University, on an indoor cinder track of the same dimensions of the oval at the Chicago Riding Club.

Any one who has ever seen me run knows that I do not follow the orthodox style," said Dr. Peltzer. "With my arms swinging sidewise in my natural style, I may have bumped Dodge, I am not sure, and he accidentally fell off the track, but it was unintentional if I did. No one will get close enough tomorrow night to get bumped."

Dodge has announced this will be the final race of his career as he expects to give up track athletics to devote his time to business.

After his workout in the Northwestern gymnasium today, the German runner expressed a desire to compete in the Olympic games at Los Angeles in 1932. He said he would endeavor to keep in shape so as to win a place on the German team at that competition.

He also said he expected to compete in three events and in the relay at the 1928 Olympic games.

Dr. Peltzer said he saw his first football game on the West Coast and described it as the "greatest sport in the world."

Tech Holds Season's First Baseball Drill

The Tech High School Baseball Team, winner of the high school championship last year, are getting a jump on all the schools this year in the matter of spring training.

Coach Glenn, who called a meeting of his prospective candidates recently, at which 50 men reported, sent his battery men through their first workout yesterday. Ensor and Young, pitchers, and Sorrel, catcher, are veterans. Collins will also try for a mound job.

Hot Springs Tourney Draws Tommy Armour

Some 120 were already entered today with the probability that others would arrive tonight. Tommy Armour, National Open titleholder, will be here for the opening 18-hole round tomorrow.

K. Laffoon, Miami, Ohio, won a special driving contest in the events today, getting 293 yards, one foot and six inches.

Hinkel, U. S. Champ, To Walk in Germany

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Harry Hinkel, national walking champion, has accepted an invitation to compete in the international meet to be held this year by the Charlottenburg Sports Club, of Berlin.

The invitation was extended by Arthur Schwab, member of the club, who finished second to Hinkel in a 3,000-meter walk at the Millrose A. A. meet here a week ago.

Schwab and his teammate, William Schnitt, sailed for Germany last night, declaring they had found themselves unable to get into shape for another competitive start during the 21-day period allowed them under International Amateur Athletic rules.

Professional Hockey May Draw Gorman

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Reports that Charley Gorman, international speed skating champion now abroad with the Canadian Olympic Team, will turn professional and join the Detroit National League Hockey Team came as a surprise today to Jack Adams, manager of the Detroit Club, here to play the New York Americans tonight.

Adams said he was unaware of Gorman's intentions but it was learned the speed star is likely to make the move. Gorman now lives in Detroit but has represented Canada for several years in speed skating, winning numerous titles and setting many records.

If he turns to hockey Gorman will have some precedent. Everett McGowan, former professional champion, now is with the Springfield (Mass.) Club of the Canadian-American Hockey League.

Gehrig Finds 4 Fouls Are Out in Basketball

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Lou Gehrig was ordered out of a basketball game in the first period here last night, but his team of all stars came from behind to beat the Pittsfield Eagles, 34 to 26. Gehrig committed four personal fouls in less than 10 minutes, but the crowd voiced its displeasure and an agreement was reached that he could return to the game in the second half. He did not do this, however, but his substitute, Gilkinson, was the star of the game.

SANGOR PUTS BUD TAYLOR OUT IN 7TH

Taylor at the time fell victim to what appeared to be a foul blow, but was ordered to resume fighting after a 5-minute rest. He was unable to do so, with the result that the judges awarded the verdict to the freckled-face Milwaukee youth.

The bout, the fourth meeting since 1926, was unequaled in the middle West for viciousness and desperate punching since the memorable fight between Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke in Milwaukee 20 years ago.

The pair slugged like a couple of longshoremen for six rounds with little to choose between them. They stool toe to toe in the center of the ring trading punches, first one having the lead and then the other.

Sangor's best showing was in the third round when he forced Taylor into the ropes under a wicked shower of lefts and rights to the head.

When the Terre Haute blond appeared to be sliding off the ropes, perhaps on the verge of a knockout, he suddenly came back and carried the fight to Sangor. Taylor backed up in the fifth, a rare procedure for him, under Sangor's slashing attacks, but it was only momentarily, for he cut loose with a sudden burst of speed that had Sangor bewildered.

The punch that ended the battle appeared to be a low sweeping left hook that appeared to land on the groin. Taylor grabbed himself and sank to the floor apparently in pain. There was a hurried consultation between the two judges, Referee Phil Collins, and members of the Chicago Athletic Commission at the ringside. It was decided to give Taylor a 5-minute rest, with the instruction to him to resume fighting. He was unable, or refused to leave his chair at the end of that time and his handlers then stretched him on the floor of the ring while his seconds worked frantically over him.

Finnegan Outpointed By Flowers at Boston

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9.—Bruce Flowers, negro featherweight of New Rochelle, N. Y., dimmed Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan's aspirations of moving within reach of the lightweight title here tonight when he beat him in a 10-round fight which was supposed to feature the evening's boxing. The fans came in droves and hung on the rafters, but the fighters were far more cautious than that. In spots Finnegan was brilliant and at other times he was clearly out-pointed by the careful Flowers.

The colored boxer went along with the utmost care until the last round, when he cut loose and made a showing which outdid Finnegan's effort to stage a rally. Flowers had two pounds over his rival when they entered the ring. Flowers was clever with a left jab and had a good defense. He was very fast in getting in and getting away again, also, and at times, Finnegan was bewildered. The local fighter couldn't move fast enough on his attacks to get in close to the New York scrapper.

For a few moments in the final round it appeared that Finnegan was wobbling but he held on to the finish.

Canzoneri 9-5 Favorite to Beat Bass

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—That stormy division of the boxing firmament, the featherweight class, is at last to have an undisputed champion again. Tony Canzoneri, the boundng Brooklyn Italian, who once sharpened his punching sights on the levee youths of New Orleans, and Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, the National Boxing Association title holder, will meet tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden to present their claims in a 15-round scuffle that by all rules and regulations should nominate a world's title holder.

Odds on Canzoneri, picked as the outstanding featherweight by the New York Athletic Commission, lengthened today as the boys completed training, with both well under the class weight limit. Bass was the "under dog" at odds of 8 to 5 and 9 to 5. Both expect to scale around 125 pounds at the weighing-in ceremonies at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Canzoneri will have the edge in experience, although he is younger in years, and also will be favored by the distance. Bass has never been asked to travel fifteen rounds before and, although he is confident he can do it, Canzoneri figures to outpoint him.

Incidentally, Bass will be fighting to break a losing streak that has come over the N. B. A. champions. So far two of the boxers invested with crowns by the N. B. A. have gone to bat in defense of their synthetic titles and to date neither has managed to hang up a victory.

Jimmy Slattery was the first of the "champions" to be sheared and the other night one Frenchy Belanger, flyweight, was beaten off by Frankie Genaro.

The last real featherweight title duel was fought in 1925 when Lou ("Kid") Kaplan was crowned after he had stopped Danny Kramer in the old Garden. Paplan, like Johnny Dundee, later surrendered the mythical diadem, because he could no longer make the weight.

For fifteen years the Jews and Italians almost exclusively have held sway on the top rung of the featherweight ladder. Abe Attell defended his title against all comers, until he was beaten by Johnny Kilbane, an Irishman. Kilbane relinquished his laurels to the French gamester, Eugene Criqui, who in two months gave Johnny Dundee a crack at his newly won crown and lost it when Dundee left-handed his way to victory over the Frenchman. Then came Kaplan and since Lou found it was impossible longer to make the weight, the feathers have been without a ruler. But after tomorrow night either an Italian or a Jew will be the king once more.

Two District Golfers Winners in Florida

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—Two out of three was the score of the Washington golfers today in the first round of match play in the annual Miami Biltmore invitation tournament which drew a record field of 150 starters and necessitated play on two courses at Coral Gables. The winners from the Capital City were Robert E. Lewis and P. R. Greenfield. The one to suffer elimination was H. D. Copp, who finished 2 down to W. E. Coe, of Riverton, N. J.

Lewis was a victor in the seventh flight, being forced to go to the last hole to win by 2 up from A. A. Fix, of Tomah, Wis. Greenfield had an easier time in the last division beating Stanley Joyce, the Chicago Millionaire, by 4 up and 3 to play.

Three extra hole matches featured the play in the championship sixteen and R. E. Sappenfield, 21-year-old medalist, defeated George Dockerty, Miami, 4 up and 2 to play.

Possibility of Army-Navy Game Next Year Fading

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—There may be a shock in store for those observers taking it for granted that the Army-Navy athletic break this year is just a passing squall and that everything will be smoothed out for a renewal of relations in 1929.

Present indications are that the split not only is likely to exist next year, but for some years to come unless there is a radical switch in policy on the part of one or the other of the service institutions.

Since congressional activity and peace overtures from other sources failed to shake the point of view of either academy, it has become increasingly evident that neither is inclined to do any yielding.

With a similar situation existing another year there is no more likelihood of a get-together or a compromise in 1929 than there has been in the past few weeks of maneuvering that culminated in each school's filling the date previously assigned for the interservice gridiron clash on November 24.

The Navy, in its demand for a three-year varsity standard of eligibility, feels it has gained public support widespread enough to justify its attitude. The Army, on the other hand, feeling that a contract has been broken regardless of any eligibility issue, is equally as firm in its view that fairness demands retaining its traditional standard of equal-opportunity-for-all. Right now no one in authority appears at Annapolis or West Point will give even the slightest support to the idea that either will retreat from its present attitude.

Nevertheless some observers profess to see the suggestion of a 1929 get-together in the Navy's arrangements to play Princeton on an October date after engaging the Tigers this year as a final opponent on November 24 at Philadelphia.

It is possible that both academies, subject to administrative changes, may be playing safe and leaving a loophole for readjustment of their schedules. The indications are, however, that both are proceeding with arrangements for their 1929 playing slates on the assumption that no interservice game will be included.

The Army already has scheduled Notre Dame for 1929 and would like to make this game the climax clash on the schedule. The rivalry between the Cadets and Hoosiers is keen and long-standing. The game has played to capacity crowds at the Yankee Stadium during the past few years in a setting that has rivaled in color and interest the service game itself.

West Point's relations with prominent Midwestern schools has been developed steadily to a point where four opponents from that area will come East to meet the Cadets next fall. The University of Chicago is being talked of as a possible 1929 opponent for the Soldiers. In addition, to return the compliment of Nebraska's visit here, the Army might consider a journey to Lincoln to meet the Cornhuskers next

Riders Guard Bob Sleds Following Heavy Betting

St. Moritz, Switzerland, Feb. 9 (A.P.)—Guarded like thoroughbreds, sleds entered in the Olympic bob sled competition, February 17, are being locked up overnight in sheds as a result of heavy betting on the international event.

GARDINI WINS MATCH IN 2 FALLS

RENATO GARDINI, the Italian champion wrestler, made short work of Frank Burows, of Boston, Mass., in the feature wrestling bout at the Arcadia last night, winning in two straight falls.

Gardini, weighing 196 pounds, secured the first fall after 12 minutes of grappling with his heavier opponent, pinning his shoulders to the mat with a flying head lock. The second fall came unexpectedly after a bitter struggle. Gardini, securing a scissors hold, threw Burows to the mat in 2½ minutes. Burows substituted for Tom Draak, the Holland champion whom Gardini defeated in New York this week.

The largest crowd of the wrestling season saw Joe Turner defeat Billy Gale, New York State champion, in straight falls. Gale proved a puzzle but Turner's cleverness prevailed over the New Yorker. Turner won the first fall in 31 minutes with a head lock and the second with a flying airplane fall in 11 minutes. There was much rough work on the part of both men.

Dan Koloff, Bulgarian, defeated Tony Flecia, of Italy, after 35 minutes of grappling with a toe hold which hurt Flecia so severely that he announced himself unable to continue.

Last night's bouts were by far the best Promoter Blick has provided for the wrestling fans. W. H. Montgomery was the referee for the preliminary bouts, while Pat O'Connor was the official for the feature event.

Devitt Tankmen Meet Baltimore Team Today

Devitt Prep swimmers, feeling much more advanced than when they met the C. U. Cubs last month, engage in their second match of the year today, when the Baltimore Friends natators will be entertained in the Y. M. C. A. pools.

Among the men Devitt will rely on to bring home the honors are Capt. Jimmie Orme, back stroke man; Merton English, 100 and 220 back stroke dependable; "Speed" Morgan, diving; Brown, 50 and 100 yard dash man, and Shugrue, Russell and Mather, dash men.

Root Signs With Cubs; Gets Bonus, Is Rumor

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Charley Root, the pitching ace of the Chicago Cubs, came to terms on his 1928 contract today after a conference with Manager Joe McCarthy, in Los Angeles, according to word received by President William Veeck. The agreement price was not disclosed, however.

Root returned his contract unsigned when he first received this year's salary offer. He worked in 48 games last summer in a valiant effort to keep the Cubs in the pennant race, winning 26 games while losing 15. It was rumored he wanted some kind of a clause in this year's agreement which would boost his salary if he was called upon to do the same kind of extra hurling.

The Phillies obtained Schulte in a trade with the Carinals several months ago, in which they gave Johnny Mokan, Jim Cooney and Clarence Jonnard, for Jimmy Ring and Schulte. The Cardinals secured Schulte from their Syracuse club last June.

The St. Louis Federals gave Schulte a trial in 1915 and the Browns did the same the following year. The catcher served in the Navy during the World War, rejoined Terre Haute in 1919, and was sent to Mobile via St. Louis two years later.

The Browns turned Schulte over to San Antonio in 1923, then sold him to Toledo a year later. Newark purchased Johnny for 1926, sold him to Buffalo a year ago, and Syracuse purchased him last spring.

Rivals Clash In Crucial Contest

Rival Stars Will Meet; Eastern Five to Play Western.

THE Tech and Central High School basketball teams will reach the parting of the way this afternoon. Tied for the past several weeks for first place in the high school championship series, the two clash today at 3:15 o'clock at the Arcadia. The winning team will practically clinch the championship, while the loser doubtless will finish the race, which comes to an end Tuesday by winning second place.

The first meeting of the Tech and Central teams some weeks ago, which drew the largest crowd of the series, is overshadowed by today's banner attraction. Standing room is expected to be at a premium.

The Central team is in fine shape for the battle. Lemon, regular guard is fully recovered from a recent illness, which assures that Central will be at its best today. The team will line up with Forrest Burgess and William Woodward at forward, Ben Burch at center and Nelson Colley and Duvall Lemon at guard.

The forwards for Tech will be Louis Berger, high scorer of the series with 82 points and Patrick Rooney, with Jack Forney at center and Jacob Goldblatt and Paul Brown at guard.

Tech again will rely upon its zone defense which worked to perfection in its first game with Central which it won by 10 points. Central plays the more modern man-for-man style of defense.

Interesting to watch will be the individual duels between several of the players of each team. Burch and Forney, both centers of the respective teams, are good scorers and both good defensive players.

Berger and Rooney, the Tech forwards, will have a battle on their hands to match Woodward and Burgess, of Central, point for point. Someone has a task on his hands to stop Colley, of Central. In past games Colley has played a mediocre role in the early periods and when the opponent's vigilance slackened has slipped past the guards for 6, 8 and 10 points.

The game will mean much to Central. As the players of the entire first team graduate in June, it will be their last opportunity to meet a Tech opponent and next to their last game of the series.

The Eastern High School Team, which meets Western in the second game today, though it has no chance itself, may have a hand in deciding the winner of the title. Tech must play Eastern next Tuesday. Central meets Business on Tuesday. Eastern defeated Tech, 38-35, in the first round.

Individual Scoring Lead At Stake in Two Games

An interesting race will be staged in the high school basketball series today at the Arcadia, when nine of the ten high scorers swing into action either in the Tech-Central game or in the clash between Eastern and Western.

Theodore Cappelli, of Eastern, who led the scorers until last Tuesday, when Louis Berger, of Tech, scored 12 points to take the lead by 5 points with a total of 82, has a good opportunity to regain his laurels today. Cappelli draws Western as an opponent, while Berger is forced to face Central in a game which promises to be a battle, because the title is at stake.

Bernie Jones, of Business, who holds fifth place with 61 points, is forced to idle. Jones, however, will have an opportunity to boost his total next Tuesday, when Business plays Central. Tech plays Eastern on the same day in the last game of the series.

Algol Outrun In Stretch Drive

Retaliate Wins Fifth; Feu Follet Last, Jockey Booed.

FAIR GROUNDS, New Orleans, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—J. N. Camden's Nor'easter, running in his best form, won the James J. Corbett Trophy Handicap, a 6-furlong sprint, here today. James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion, presented the cup to Jockey Willie Garner, who rode Nor'easter.

Corbett was loudly applauded when he appeared in the stewards' stand to present the cup. The McLean Stable's Algol, favorite, was second, and Kentucky Cardinal third.

Nor'easter, displaying unusual speed, quickly ran into the lead, while Pigeon Wing II laid second, and Algol third. In the stretch, Algol closed fast and appeared as if he would run by the leader, but Garner went to work on Nor'easter and the colt responded gamely, though swerving, and won in a hard drive by a head. Algol took the place by four lengths from Kentucky Cardinal.

The McLean Stable's great colt, Time Maker, added further laurels to his credit when he galloped home lengths in advance of his field in the third event, a 6-furlong sprint.

He stepped the distance in 1:13 1-5, and could have gone much faster had he been pushed.

Time Maker will be nominated for the Louisiana Derby, which will be run at Jefferson Park this spring on March 24, and by his three easy victories he will undoubtedly be favorite for that classic.

Time Maker in his race today was held under stout restraint, being held in third position to the middle of the turn. Just before making the turn into the stretch, Ambrose, who had the mount, let the colt step along. He rushed into an easy lead in a sixteenth of a mile and all through the stretch Ambrose was looking back at the field. Time Maker won by two lengths. Bruno landed second place by a length from Rosinante.

Retaliate won the fifth race, with Rejuvenation second and Serajevo third. Feu Follet, the hot favorite, and ridden by W. Bowden, finished a bad last, and when Bowden returned to the scales after the race a big crowd collected about the judges' stand and gave him a round of booing.

Retaliate jumped away to a long lead and was never let down, winning by two lengths. Rejuvenation took the place by a half length.

Twelve maiden 3-year-olds and up performed in the second race, and it was won by Little Marie, who won by two lengths from Gee Eff Cee, with Light Sweep third, three lengths back The mile and 70 yards was run in 1:46 2-5.

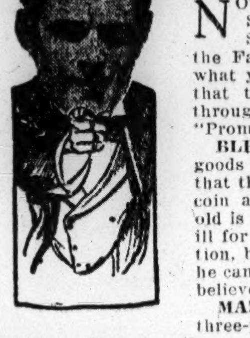
COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER



NOT so good. But as my old cabaret partner, Sophie Glutz, would say, it could be worse. Scan over the list of beetles performing at the Fair Grounds this aft., kiddo, and let's hear what you think about it. One thing I do know is that the boys will not wager any half million through the machines to gladden the heart of "Promising John."

BLESSEFIELD, in the fourth, looks the jammy goods of the day. Even old boy Waltah fancies that the Royal Stable's youngster will grab off the coin and he does not think the imported 3-year-old is worth a suit of clothes—all of which speaks ill for the other eligibles. For your own information, however, Jockey Pool will be in the coop and he can handle this erratic colt. Personally, I don't believe the result will even be close.

MAZZIE, which is my system horse, enjoys a three-point call for the opener and has a good post position. There is a chance, for MISS MOONLIGHT to improve as she had scant chance in the stake feature on Wednesday.

"Little Johnny" Schorr is going to take STORMY PORT from the old brine barrel in the second, but I understand that MANCHU and BLIND CAST will both show improvement over previous efforts.

"SPRING has came," sayeth the poets Well, watch the bird with this monicker come to life in the third. The others run for Mr. Sweeney and his end book.

RUNBANK is also due to awaken He goes in the fifth and will be dusted off. Nuff sed.

For the sixth BILLY WITT is selected even over a fast track because the others are so ordinary.

Read 'em and weep.

C. U. BOXERS MEET TEST IN N. Y. U.

Cardinals Weakened Tonight by Loss of Battler Byrnes.

FOLLOWING a week of spirited practice under the eye of Coach Eddie Lafond, the Catholic University boxing squad will leave at noon today for New York, where the formidable New York University boxers will be met in the Cardinals' second match of the season.

The Catholic University mitmen opened the season in auspicious style for their fine showing over the strong Fordham University Team last Monday night.

Murray Israel, former amateur national lightweight champion and the present title holder of the Metropolitan welterweight division, is again captain of the New York U. boxers, and is the outstanding performer of the team. Leonard Grant, 212-pound football tackler, who made a fine impression in his debut, is heralded as another Dassman, the Violets' great heavyweight star of last year.

Aside from these two members, little is known of the New York team other than it will present virtually an entirely new combination, but the decisive victory of the Violet ringmen over the Western Maryland boxers would indicate that they are as formidable as last year.

The loss of "Battler" Byrnes in the lightweight class will undoubtedly weaken the Cardinals to a great extent, although "Chick" Heiner, who will probably get the assignment in this class, has been displaying exceptional ability. Byrne is at present confining his battles to the classroom.

Kelley Approves Grid Rule Changes, But Urges Halt

Central High School Coach.

THE intercollegiate football rules committee, by its action in making but three important changes in the rules for next season, evidently listened to the pleas of the majority of coaches and enthusiasts of the game to let well enough alone and give everyone connected with the sport an opportunity to get acquainted with the code instead of worrying over interpretations of this rule and that one and continually getting confused.

The new ruling in regard to the screen pass, prohibiting, as it does, offense linemen from interfering in any way with the defensive backs' opportunity to break up or intercept the pass, will cause more than one team to give up this play or abide by the ruling on it.

Many teams last season, in their use of the screened pass, sent out their forward wall practically from tackle to tackle in front of the defensive backs and these linesmen not only screened the pass but they actually took out the defensive backs without regard to the ball being in the hands of the passer or in the air.

Consequently breaking up this pass became quite a problem to the defense and to officials who had to determine whether or not inteference was made before the ball left the passer's hands.

Last year every pass behind the line of scrimmage, except the one from the center, was protected to such an extent that ordinary fumbles by backs caused no damage since they were classed in the category of backward or lateral passes and the ball automatically became dead, giving the defensive side no incentive to break through continually, to recover fumbles.

Hereafter back of the line passes must go two yards or more to have the protection now afforded of the ball becoming dead, regardless of which side recovers it. Thus clean handling of the ball on the part of the backs will be stressed once more, as it always was by coaches previous to last season.

Clarifying the ruling on muffed punts by the safety man will do away with much of the trouble of officials in determining, as they had to do last year, the difference between a fumble and a muff and the question of just when the ball came into the safety man's hands.

A safety man may now go after punts with more abandon than before, knowing that in case he does become butter-fingered the kicking side may not run with the ball in case of recovering it.

Altogether these changes should meet with the approval of coaches and officials, as well as spectators, who have had a very hard job lately wondering what it was all about. Allowing the code of rules to stand for a few seasons should bring out any glaring defects in the game. Let's hope that the rule makers will do so.

Riggs Win Overtime Game on Patton's Goal

Patton's basket decided an overtime game between the Riggs National Bank Team and the Kensington National Guards in which the former quintet won, 27 to 25. The Bankers, after enjoying a 13-to-9 advantage at the half, were pressed in the closing quarters and had it not been for the stellar work of Povich and Shanks and the deciding toss by Patton the game would have gone to the Soldiers, as Chandler and McDermott played brilliantly to bring their team to even terms at the end of regulation play.

MARYLAND U. FIVE PLAYS N.C. STATE

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND'S basketball team, defeated in its last two starts by the strong Naval Academy and University of Pennsylvania quintets, will strive to break into the winning column again tonight, when the formidable North Carolina State Five will be met at 7:15 o'clock in the Ritchie gymnasium, in a Southern Conference game.

The North Carolina State Team will bring here a formidable array of basketers, which looms as a serious threat to the Old Liners' unmarred record of five victories in their conference games. Maryland holds wins over Washington and Lee, twice; Virginia Poly, Virginia Military Institute, Kentucky and Virginia.

Tonight's contest with North Carolina will be the Old Liners last home game with a Southern Conference foe, and their only other conference engagement of the season will be that with Virginia in a return game at Charlottesville on Monday.

Gallaudet to Invade Baltimore Tonight

Gallaudet College's Basketball Team will meet the University of Baltimore Quintet at Baltimore tonight, it was announced last night by Manager John A. Deady.

Coach Krug has been pleased with the showing of the team in the week's practice and will start his regular five against the Baltimore quintet. Tomorrow night the Kendall Greeners will visit Alexandria for a return game with the St. Mary's Celtics in the Armory.

Arcadia Club Revises Program for Carnival

The Arcadia Sporting Club has announced a revision in its program of events to be held indoors on February 22, when a modified marathon and track carnival will be staged in the Arcadia.

There have been two events added to the program for girls and the marathon cut from 15 miles to 10 miles distance. The mile run as was first planned will be reduced to 880 yards.

Under the new arrangement the list of events includes the 10-mile marathon, the 880-yard run and the 440-yard run for girls. The added events for women include a 40-yard dash and a 440-yard relay for the fair sex.

Interest is to be revived in Washington track athletics and every effort will be made for the running of similar events in the near future.

SOUTH ATLANTIC COURT TOURNEY TO OPEN MARCH 9

Capital Teams To Defend 2 Titles

Officials Set March 3 As Closing Date For Entries.

GAMES on March 9 will mark the opening of the South Atlantic basketball championship tournament in Washington and Baltimore, it was announced yesterday by Paul Menton, chairman of the South Atlantic Association's basketball committee. Entries for the tournament, which are expected to set a record for the association, will close on March 3 with the weighing of players in the four limited classes scheduled for March 4 and 5.

It had been planned to start the tournament late in February this year to insure an earlier date for the finals than that of last season. The committee, however, decided for the later date to insure the maximum of entries. The tournament has been scheduled to start after the close of the many leagues in Washington and Baltimore.

Winners of the tournament staged in Washington will be pitted against the Baltimore champions in the finals for the gold medals presented by the South Atlantic Association. Baltimore teams now hold three of the titles and two are held by Washington teams.

Bond's Whirlwinds last year captured the unlimited championship and the Arrows won the 145-pound class crown. Washington champions in the 130, 115 and 100 pound classes were beaten by Baltimore winners in these divisions.

Arrangements have been made to hold at least two of the final games in Washington, as was done last year.

Entries have been pouring into The Post Sports Department daily and it is assured that all teams with title claims will participate. It is expected that the Washington entries in the tournament will exceed by far the number of Baltimore teams entered.

The teams in the tournament here will be asked to meet opponents of many types. Besides the scores of independent quintets which have entered many church teams will participate, as well as teams from nearby Virginia and Maryland towns and the military posts in this vicinity.

D. C. Boxers in Main Bout at Centreville

Centreville, Md., Feb. 9.—In the first series of boxing bouts staged by the newly organized Centreville Athletic Club since the recent snowstorm on the Eastern Shore, Willie Ptomey, of Washington, middleweight champion of the United States Army, Navy and Marines, will meet Tex Stovall, also of the Capital City and well-known middleweight fist-flinger, tomorrow night in the Maryland National Guard Armory here. The bout is scheduled for ten rounds. Both boys have met before in Eastern Shore squared circles, and on each occasion they have left the ring after a drawn decision had been given.

Shoremen from all parts of the upper nine-county territory as well as many Delawarians probably will be present to see the long-drawn-out rivalry fought to a finish. Ptomey recently knocked out K. O. Lister, Shore pugilist, and demonstrated his ability not only to absorb punches but to administer a real finishing touch to a dangerous opponent.

In the semiwindup, Sammy Hogan, of Washington, will meet Smiling Bob Cosden, of Cordova, Md., in a six-round affair. Battling Brown, of Lebanon, Pa., will oppose Kelly Green, of Easton, Md., in the main preliminary, a six-round fight, while Joe Black, of Washington, will meet Kid Cosden, brother of Smiling Bob, in the four-round first preliminary. These lads are popular fighters in this section. The bouts, scheduled for last week, were postponed because of the snowstorm.

DEVITT BOWS BY 32-30 TO EMERSON

DEVITT PREP had Abramson and Jenkins to contend with yesterday in its game with Emerson and its inability to stop these two performers cost them a 32 to 30 verdict at the American University Gymnasium.

Abramson, at forward, and Jenkins, at center, proved to be the shining light for the Emerson yesterday, as their play virtually saved the day due to the fact that Alvin Buscher, high scorer, was closely guarded by Devitt back court men. Abramson's share in the spoils was six field goals, while Jenkins accounted for a like number with the addition of a foul toss. Buscher was held to a lone two-pointer and a brace of free throws.

Although Devitt failed to check the determined attack of Emerson, it gave the latter team one of its hardest fights of the season. Capt. Bastable, at center, caged four baskets and a 15-foot throw, while Maxwell, leading with two doubledeckers and a foul toss, and Blanchard, Vincent, Bakshian and Kennedy all figured in the scrimmage.

At no time was one team far out in front of the other, in fact, just three points separated them until shortly before the final whistle. Emerson's total of 32 came when Jenkins slipped his sixth basket of the afternoon through the rims, this advantage being held until the whistle.

Heated Ice Men Cool Off Quickly

HOW'S THE WIFE AND KIDS, EDDIE?
FINE, BOB! HOW'S YOUR FAMILY?
THE SAME TWO BIRDS IN THE PENALTY BOX A MINUTE LATER

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, New York Giants.)

Ice hockey, that famous game of cutting figures—all over your opponents' anatomies—had two perpetually quarrelsome gents in Bob Trapp, of the Black Hawks, and Eddie Shore, of the Bostons.

These two lads are belligerents of long standing. They are always in a jam on the ice, and they are always being shunted off to the penalty pen.

I slipped around by the penalty box one night to try to get a story from what these two had to say to each other after they were put off the ice for scrapping. Naturally I supposed that they would continue their feud during the couple of minutes they were barred from competition.

This is what I heard:

"How's the wife, Eddie?" asked Trapp.

"Fine, Bob," Eddie replied. "How's your wife and family?"

The way the boys cooled off, after getting away from the public, reminded me of a lot of ball players and managers who will make a great fuss and rumpus before the umpire, waving their hands and pawing the earth, when what they are saying is: "What horse do you like in the third?" or "Any good fishing around here?"

K. of C. Five Opposes Whirlwinds Sunday

In what promises to be a real battle, full of speed and action, the Knights of Columbus and Bond's Whirlwind Quintets will clash at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the K. of C. gymnasium.

The line-ups of the rival teams are sprinkled with local scholastic and college stars, and several individual battles are in prospect. The manager of the Clovers is requested to get in touch with Jack Coyle of the Caseys at Franklin 2792 after 6 o'clock.

ENTRIES for the Washington contests of the World Free Throw Tournament have already been received from 42 organizations representing every athletic group in the city.

From the college group, entries have been made for the University of Maryland and George Washington University. The Y. W. C. A. will conduct a contest for its members, as will the Girls Friendly Association and the Epiphany Young Peoples Club. The Fifth Baptist Church Basketball Team has entered the tournament and clubs which also have received permission to conduct contests are the Eagles, Strayers Business College, the American Security & Trust Co. and the Eaglets. Playground tournaments are being scheduled on the 30 municipal grounds, and dates will be arranged this week.

Entry blanks have been requested by the local high and junior high schools, and it is probable that tournaments will be conducted by approximately 70 schools and clubs in Washington.

Address the Washington Committee of the World Free Throw Tournament, care of The Washington Post, for information and for permission to conduct free throw tournaments in your school.

WINS RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Margaret Mitchell, of the University of Maryland, won the individual intercollegiate rifle championship, according to an announcement made yesterday by the National Rifle Association. College Park markswomen won first, third and fifth places in the matches, which were conducted for the first time this year.

Helen Taylor, of George Washington University, was runner-up with 591 points out of a total of 600, and girls from her team won fourth and sixth places. Miss Mitchell scored 593 points, using an Army Springfield 22-caliber rifle with 60 shots from the prone position.

The first seventeen places were won by markswomen from the Eastern coast, and Martha V. Hopper, of the University of Missouri, finished in eighteenth place, with 574 points.

(1) Margaret Mitchell, University of Maryland, 593; (2) Helen Taylor, George Washington, 591; (3) Mildred Hislop, University of Maryland, 591; (4) Betty Clark, George Washington, 588; (5) Marjorie Folsom, George Washington, 586; (6) Alma Essex, University of Maryland, 586; (7) Roberta White, George Washington, 586; (8) Arlene Spencer, George Washington, 586.

TO PLAY AT BARRACKS.

The Washington Recreation League match scheduled between the Eaglets and Southern Athletic Club will be played tonight at 8 o'clock at the Washington Barracks, instead of at Business High School, as previously announced.

Two Important Soccer Games Listed Sunday

Capital City Soccer League teams will meet in two important matches Sunday. Rosedale will play the Arcadians at Rosedale Playground and British Uniteds will play Rockville on Monument Grounds No. 3.

All of the contestants, excepting British United, are battling for third place in the league standing. The Uniteds appear to have cinched second place. At present the Arcadians are in third place with 14 points and Rosedale and Rockville follow in order with 12 and 10, respectively. Each has two more games to play, and unless the unforeseen happens it will be a race down to the final day for the coveted third place.

Maryland Cubs Down Business High, 32-26

Trailing on the short end of the score for three quarters and being started on the winning path by Forward Johnny Logan, the Maryland Freshmen Quintet defeated the Business High School Tossers yesterday, 32 to 26, in a well-played game in the College Park gymnasium.

Logan's entrance into the fracas shortly before the end of the third quarter proved disastrous for Business and a lifesaver for the Yearlings, for his four field goals and two foul shots not only came with rapidity and force but instilled the needed fight into the Yearlings that enabled them to take the Stenographers off their feet during play in the final period.

The game was hotly waged throughout with the Business Team finding the going a little to its advantage during the early stages. At half time a scant 14 to 13 margin was held and this was increased to 20 to 16 at the third quarter whistle.

New Orleans Officials Suspend W. Bowden

Fair Grounds, New Orleans, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The stewards here are alert and are watching the jockeys closely in their endeavor to keep racing clean. After his unsatisfactory ride on Feu Follet, favorite in the fifth race, the stewards instructed Jockey W. Bowden, who had the mount, not to accept any more mounts until further notice. Feu Follet ran last in his race.

Miss Richards Wins In Pinehurst Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Miss Dorothy Richards, of Cleveland, Ohio, won the St. Valentine's Golf Tournament here today by defeating Mrs. Emmet French, of Southern Pines and Youngstown, Ohio, 2 and 1.

Miss Richards was out in 43, although at the turn she was only 2 up, Mrs. French being out in 47 and halving five holes. The tenth went to Miss Richards, but Mrs. French got it back on the short eleventh. Miss Richards won the twelfth and the others to the sixteenth were halved. Mrs. French won the sixteenth, but could do no better than halve the seventeenth and lost the match.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

By ABE G. ESPINOSA,
One of America's Leading Professionals.

The angularity of the face of the irons often confuses the player when addressing the ball. The player is apt to face the club with toe turned in instead of keeping the open face. By this I mean that the bottom edge of the club should be placed at right angles to the proper flight of the ball instead of the upper edge of the club which slopes back. The wooden clubs are not so confusing in this regard, as the faces are not lofted at such an angle from the shaft.

TO TALK BASEBALL.

After successful seasons in football and basketball circles, the Columbia Heights A. C. will turn its attention to baseball at a meeting to be held tonight at the home of Manager Elmer Mayer at 7:30 o'clock. All players and any new candidates are asked to be present.

REMSENS WIN AGAIN.

Remsen Basketers won their eighth straight game when the Hamline Church tossers were beaten, 30 to 22. Bennett starred for the winners with six baskets. Games are wanted with leading teams, the Boys' Club Standards and Aztecs preferred. Call Manager Williams at Georgia 1892 after 6 o'clock.

REX NINE TO MEET.

Rex Athletic Club Nine will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow morning at the home of the manager at 10:30 o'clock. The following players are requested to be present: D. McKenna, J. McKenna, Tolley, Miller, Weidman, Ofenstein, Tobin, Parkman, Beckley, L. Mauer, G. Mauer and Crane.

GETTYSBURG PLAYS G. U. TONIGHT

JUST how the Georgetown University Basketball Team shapes up for its coming game with the Naval Academy Quintet Tuesday afternoon will be more clearly known after its showing in the games over the week-end.

The Hilltoppers face the strong Gettysburg College Team, of Gettysburg, Pa., tonight at the Arcadia, and the Lebanon Valley Five tomorrow night also on their home court.

In Gettysburg the Georgetown Five will be meeting its strongest foe since the Mount St. Mary's Team. The visitors boast a good record for the season, and number among their victims the American University Quintet, which they decisively defeated earlier in the year.

The Hilltoppers have flashed an improved brand of passing and shooting in its more recent appearances, easily defeating the Bucknell and Roanoke College Quintets, but whether they maintain their winning pace against a team of the caliber of New York University or Navy remains to be seen.

In the practices during the past week, Coach Elmer Ripley has particularly laid emphasis on foul shooting, as he realizes that in closely contested games the margin of victory often rests on the ability of the players at the 15-foot mark.

Undoubtedly, Georgetown will take the floor against the Gettysburg Quintet with the same regular five, consisting of Mesmer and Nork at forwards, Dutton at center and McCarthy and Meehan at guards. Griffin and Dunne, capable reserve players, will very likely get into the game also.

The undefeated Georgetown Freshman Team, which has run wild over the local scholastic quintets, will meet the Devitt Prep Quintet in the preliminary attraction, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Corinthians to Meet For Baseball Tonight

The Corinthian A. C. will hold a special baseball meeting tonight in the Immaculate Conception Hall, Seventh and N streets northwest, at 7:30 o'clock.

Diamond plans for the Insect, Midget and Junior Nines will be discussed. Players and candidates for all three of the teams are asked to be present.

Anacostia Eagle Five Winner at Frederick

Frederick, Md., Feb. 9.—Trailing, 13 to 10, at half time, the Anacostia Eagle Basketball Team, of Washington, launched a sensational scoring attack in the final period to win over the Cresaps' Rifles Quintet in decisive fashion 39 to 29, in the Armory Hall last night.

Jack Faber, Sweeney and Streeks were prominent in the Eagles' second-half spurt, while Jack Smith, a Washington boy, starred for the locals, playing a brilliant game against his former teammates. The Eagles will play the Company F Team, of Hyattsville, on their home court Sunday.

It seems that a major portion of the ball players are Southern men, but why there are so many more major leaguers in the you-all territory than there are in the North, I can not say. Statistics may even prove that there aren't, but I got the impression that the Southern boys outnumber the Northerns by hearing so much about Cobb and Speaker and Hornsby, Travis Jackson, Bill Terry, Ike Boone, Earl Coombs, the Sewell boys of Alabama and a lot of others from down yonder way.

However, that is something that will keep and I am getting at the misleading character of this term, "Training Camp," which is applied to quite proper hotels in Southern cities with dotted palms in the lobbies and fiddle-and-drum orchestras playing from 12 to 1:30 and from 6 until 9 in the mezzanine balconies.

I have been in quite a number of these training headquarters and I find the camp life to be so different from the sort of camp life you would find in the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York, except in two cases. One of those cases was that of the Indians when Mr. Speaker was handling them and quartered them in a strange wooden building in the city of Lakeland, Fla., which actually was something like what you might expect a hunting camp to be, except that it was not farther from the movies and the traffic lights than you could shoot a marble with a sprained thumb.

Yet, they had no camp table in Mr. Speaker's place and I was considerably taken aback when I discovered that instead of hauling up chairs to a general mess the ball players, or most of them, were shopping for their meals at a modest sandwich and soft drink establishment, down the block which was known by a name that shall not be repeated in a breakfast table newspaper.

I learned that by the exercise of frugality in this place, one might get by for as little as $1.25 a day and that the ball players were receiving a ration allowance of $3.50 each, cash money, for their subsistence.

The other training camp that I discovered was that of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the frugal regime of the late Mr. Charlie Ebbets. The unmarried athletes of the ball club were quartered in a place called a hotel and when I arrived there late one evening and asked for a room with a bath the young man at the desk laughed scornfully and said:

"Yes, and I suppose you are one of those guys who wants a napkin with your dinner. We haven't got no rooms with bath and furthermore, we haven't got no rooms, but you can sleep in the broom locker."

I discovered the next day that the married athletes of the Brooklyn firm had found other quarters around the town, insisting that the hotel was no place to take a lady. I also discovered that Mr. Ebbets himself did not live at the hotel either, so he apparently knew that it was not any place for a gentleman.

SCHOOL MUSIC PROGRAM ON RED NETWORK TODAY

MARIA MONTANA AT WMAL

The second of a series of experimental programs designed to further appreciation of music in the schools will be presented by Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra at 10 o'clock this morning through the red network, including WRC.

Selections in this program, while they are of serious musical content, have been chosen for their suitability for explanation and demonstration to children between the ages of 6 and 14. The first selection will be the overture to Rossini's opera, "Semiramide," a lyrical tragedy in two acts based on Voltaire's "Semiramis." The overture itself is of a type which can be used by Mr. Damrosch in explaining the work of the percussion instruments in the orchestra.

"Romanza" from Schumann's Symphony No. 4 in D Minor, another selection, is of a sort likely to appeal to the imaginations of young listeners while "Entrance of the Little Fauns," by Gabriel Pierne, is a descriptive work in which the themes can be clearly brought out.

Rimsky-Korsakoff's "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" illustrates by means of the wood-winds and low flutes the flight of the busy insect. Schubert's "Military March" which closes this demonstrative program, is a stirring bit of music whose spirit will be easily recognized.

As a feature of the hour broadcast of the Cities Service Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Rosario Bourdon, Nevin's "Rosary" will be played by four cellos. This program begins at 8 o'clock from station WRC. The orchestra will play selections from the musical comedy "A Connecticut Yankee," which contains many good numbers and is now a success on Broadway.

The Anglo-Persians will be on the air at 9 o'clock, playing six typical numbers, including Poldini's "Poupee Valsante" (Waltzing Doll) and Ketelby's "In a Monastery Garden."

The Marine Band Orchestra, under the direction of Capt. Taylor Branson will be heard from 3:30 to 4:45 o'clock this afternoon through station WRC.

Maria Montana, soprano, will be the guest artist tonight in the Arthur Jordan Music Forum, conducted each Friday evening by Frank Kimmel through station WMAL at 9:15 o'clock. With Peggy Albion, Miss Montana will present the high spots of the English opera "Hugh the Drover," to be sung here by the Washington Opera Company shortly.

The Brunswick Panatrope "Pop" concert at 12 o'clock noon will be followed by the Friday Luncheon Forum from the City Club, presenting Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Parks, who will speak on "The Economic Value and Utility of City Planning and Zoning." There will be music by the McWilliams City Club Syncopators.

BOBBY SPENT A RESTLESS NIGHT ON A BENCH IN THE ABANDONED STATION AT BLACK ROCK

I BELIEVE THREE OF THEM IS ALL I CAN EAT—I DONT CARE FOR THEM AS MUCH AS I DID—

COOLIDGE GREETS LEBRIX AND COSTES ACES FROM FRANCE

PLANS FOR FUTURE NOT YET OUTLINED

Tentative Arrangements Include Flight Across Continent to San Francisco.

Congratulations of President Coolidge, and the homage of officials, were bestowed on Lieut. Comdr. Joseph Lebrix and Lieut. Dieudonne Costes, French fliers, who rested in Washington yesterday after their long and hazardous hop from France and southern climes.

The daring Frenchmen, who, in reaching Washington by air achieved for France the goal for which Nungesser and Coli gave their lives, were received and congratulated by President Coolidge at noon, and at 1 o'clock were entertained at luncheon by the Assistant Secretaries for Aeronautics of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments.

A continued round of entertainment will follow today, and at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning the fliers will leave for New York after which they will decide further plans, dependent largely, they explained, on instructions from Paris.

Other Plans in Doubt.

Their tentative plan is to make a cross-continent flight to San Francisco, stopping en route at the principal cities—taking their time. But they really do not know, they explained, just what they will do after they reach New York, and to make an honest confession for them, they are not worrying a great deal.

If they make the hop to San Francisco, and if nothing happens, their next plan is to return to Paris by ship and the Pacific. However, they will not fly back, either across the Atlantic or Pacific, they explained. Lindbergh made the flight across the Atlantic so "chic," they said, that they have no desire whatever to try to emulate his feat by an easterly return flight.

White House Lunch Today.

The fliers will have luncheon at 1 o'clock today with President Coolidge, following a reception given them at 12:30 o'clock by the National Press Club in its new building.

They have nothing on program this morning. This afternoon they will visit the Naval Air Station and inspect the aerial equipment which the Navy has on the river side of the field where they landed. Tonight they will dine with Maj. Georges Thenault, Assistant Military Attache for Aeronautics of the French Embassy. After that they have nothing scheduled. They will probably rest for the trip to New York.

The bronzed travelers last night attended the Empire Ball given by Ambassador and Mme. Claudel at the French Embassy, and since the ball was held at 10:30 o'clock, they retired late, after a rather arduous day—a day that was a relaxation in some degree, but after all did not contain a great deal of rest for them.

Nevertheless, Costes and Lebrix did not worry a great deal about these matters. They were in the best of spirits all day, happy, jolly and carefree. This was the spirit in which they greeted everything and everybody. Neither did they worry a great deal about what was on schedule or what had passed.

Pine for French Food.

There was one thing, however, which by about 6 o'clock yesterday was causing them some concern, and that was the monotony of "ice water." In addition, they pined for "some good old French food." However, they had an especial antipathy to the domination of "ice water" in their drink diet.

Maj. Thenault promised them that they would "get some good old French food" tonight, and there was indication too that the thirst for something besides "ice water" would be satisfied.

Maj. Thenault asked if they would like to see a show. But with a characteristic French gesture they refused.

"We will see a show in New York; that will be time enough," they said.

Lebrix and Costes rose at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning—they are early risers. At 9 o'clock they journeyed to Bolling Field, accompanied by Maj. Thenault. Thence they visited Arlington, where both placed wreaths on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Ambassador Claudel presented them to the President.

Costes and Lebrix motored around the Speedway yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Maj. Thenault. The remainder of the time they spent in preparing a record of their flight. They are proud of the fact that their 24,000-mile journey has been at the rate of 107 miles an hour—30 miles an hour more than Lindbergh has made in his recent travels.

$5,000 Suit Based on Note.

J. H. Yost, 1416 F street northwest, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against Theo. Greiss, a nonresident, and George H. Thomas, of East Clifton Terrace apartments, to recover $5,000 and interest alleged to be due the plaintiff on a promissory note dated December 31, 1924. Attorney R. B. Dickey appeared for the plaintiff.

Tribute to Lincoln At Kiwanis Meeting

Scoffed at as being a "huckster politician," irreligious and lacking statesmanship, the life of Abraham Lincoln belied all of his critics, W. W. Wheeler, statistician of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday told guests at the "Lincoln Day" luncheon of the Washington Kiwanis Club in the Washington Hotel.

Wheeler paid tribute to Lincoln as a model to all those who raise principles above aspirations, to all those who worship truth and the fundamentals of religion, and to all those who believe in constitutional statesmanship. Tribute was paid to Lee as another "whose enemies learned to love him." There were songs by W. F. Raymond. Guests at the luncheon included Capt. Tsuneyoshi Sakano, Naval Attache of the Japanese Embassy; Ambrose Hineman, of New York; Carl M. Friden, of Oakland, Calif., and O. J. Lay, of St. Paul, Minn.

MART ABANDONMENT PROTESTS ARE HEARD

District Heads to Make Cost Survey at Western Market at Citizens' Request.

The District Commissioners yesterday heard protests from representatives of the Dupont Citizens' Association and others against abandonment June 30 of the Western Market at Twenty-first and K streets northwest.

Due to the large expense of repairing the market building, appropriations for its maintenance were omitted this year from the 1929 budget. Rear Admiral W. L. Rogers headed the delegation that called on the Commissioners. He asked that a deficiency estimate be submitted for repair and maintenance of the market.

The Commissioners said that they would cause investigation of the usefulness of the mart and another survey of the cost of necessary repairs, following which they would take the request of the citizens association committee under advisement.

POOR BRICK GOING INTO SCHOOLHOUSES, STRINGER CLAIMS

CHARGES UNFAIRNESS BY ARCHITECT HARRIS

Others Got Contracts He Says His Company Ought to Have. Graves Case Up Again.

Two men appeared before the Gibson subcommittee of the House District committee yesterday, one to charge that the District government was discriminating against his brick manufacturing company, and the other to tell how he had been "fired" because he exposed stealing at Gallinger Hospital.

The witnesses were Henry E. Stringer, vice president of the Hydraulic Press Brick Co., which has its plant in nearby Virginia, and Edwin Graves, 57 years old, of 1015 Twelfth street southeast, a former engineer at Gallinger Hospital.

In answer to a question by Representative Hammer, of North Carolina, Stringer declared that some of the bricks that were going into the construction of schools here are of such poor quality that they should never be used.

Representative Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the subcommittee, declared that his reason for calling Graves was to assure Government employes who give information to the subcommittee that they will be "protected."

Stringer Tells of Trouble.

Mr. Stringer told the subcommittee that he had been having "trouble" with Municipal Architect Harris for the last four years, and he recited several instances in which, in his opinion, other firms were awarded school contracts which, by right, should have gone to his firm.

"We think that we have been discriminated against," said Stringer. "We claim that certain other brick interests seem to be favored."

Most of the brick contracts, he said, had been awarded to the United Clay Products Co. The men behind this firm, he said, were not really brick manufacturers, but "brick brokers," who bought bricks and resold them.

Representative Bowman, of West Virginia, asked Stringer how far he could go in showing that there was an "intimate relationship" between Municipal Architect Harris and other brick manufacturers.

"Oh, I make no charges of graft," said Stringer. "I am merely presenting the record, so that you can draw your own conclusions."

Graves, the former Gallinger engineer, appeared before the Gibson subcommittee last year to accuse his superior, Joseph Dobeck, then chief engineer at Gallinger, of stealing paint, lumber and other materials from the hospital.

As a result of his revelations and the testimony of five other employes of the hospital, Graves said, Dobeck lost his position as chief engineer.

Work for Graves Sought.

When Graves appeared before the subcommittee yesterday he charged that he himself was subsequently discharged because of what he had told about Dobeck. His dismissal, he said, was brought about by persons friendly to Dobeck, after Dobeck had threatened to "get" him and had reduced his efficiency rating.

The other five men who had told what they knew about Dobeck's alleged stealing also were "fired," Graves said.

Representative Gibson said that he was doing everything possible to obtain work for Graves. At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced that Stringer would be given a further hearing at a later date.

E. D. Shaw Attends Retail Convention

Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, returned to the city yesterday after attending the two-day convention of the National Association of Retail Secretaries, held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City. The session was held in connection with the convention of the National Dry Goods Associations, composed of heads of department and specialty stores, which will continue throughout the week.

Various problems affecting the work of the secretaries of the trade organizations were discussed, according to Mr. Shaw, who was named a member of the committee on resolutions.

Annulment Decree Awarded Husband

Rudolph Hemans, a jeweler, Kresge Building, has been awarded a final decree by Justice Hitz, in Equity Court, annulling his marriage of April 11, 1915, at Hoboken, N. J., to Mrs. Bessie F. Hemans. The latter began the action herself by suing for an absolute divorce. Hemans filed a cross bill and challenged her right to have a marriage, which he considered illegal, dissolved.

According to the cross bill, Mrs. Hemans, under the name of Florence Bessie Rote, was married to Ridgely D. Wright on March 21, 1904. She subsequently sued Wright for divorce in the California courts and was awarded an interlocutory decree against Wright on February 18, 1915. She did not secure a final decree against Wright until February 18, 1916, but during the interval between the signing of the interlocutory and the final decrees she became the wife of Hemans, the records show. Attorneys Wheatley and Donovan appeared for Hemans.

Fire Chief Arranges Alarm Instructions

Instruction in the use of fire alarm devices will be given managers and tenants of apartment houses by fire department inspectors, Fire Chief George F. Watson said yesterday. He said that apparatus has been late in arriving at several fires in apartment buildings due to failure to ring the alarms, those undertaking to send alarms contenting themselves with merely breaking the glass in the alarm boxes and not going so far as to pull the box.

Breaking the glass merely sets off gongs to arouse residents. The alarm is not transmitted to headquarters unless the lever is pulled down after the glass is broken.

Wife Charges Cruelty.

Cruelty and drunkenness are charged against Ellwood W. Taylor, employe of the Government Printing Office, in a petition for limited divorce filed yesterday in Equity Court by Mrs. Ann V. OVER HERE—OVER THERE— Death of Raoul Lufbery By Ernest Henderson

MAJOR RAOUL LUFBERY, AMERICA'S LEADING ACE, WATCHED THE STRANGE FIGHT BETWEEN THE GERMAN PLANE AND THE AMERICANS, AND DECIDED TO TAKE A HAND. LUFBERY HAD BEEN A MEMBER OF THE LAFAYETTE ESCADRILLE BEFORE THE AMERICAN FORCES CAME OVER, AND WAS THE HERO OF A SCORE OF AIR BATTLES.
SHOOTING OFF THE GROUND LIKE AN ARROW IN HIS SINGLE-SEATER, LUFBERY MOUNTED ABOVE THE GERMAN PLANE. SUDDENLY HE DOVE HEAD FIRST INTO THE GIANT CRUISER.
WITHIN A FEW FEET OF THE ENEMY HE SWERVED OF, SUPPOSEDLY BECAUSE HIS MACHINE GUN JAMMED. BUT IN A FEW MOMENTS HE WAS BACK AT THE GERMAN—DASHING BY WITH HIS MACHINE GUN BLAZING AWAY.
TURNING, HE STARTED UP AT THE ENEMY AGAIN—WHEN SUDDENLY HE WAVERED. A THIN LINE OF FLAME SHOT FROM HIS MACHINE. IT HUNG STILL FOR A MOMENT—THEN PLUNGED EARTHWARD. ENEMY BULLETS HAD FOUND HIS FUEL TANK.
WHEN HIS PLANE HAD FALLEN TO AN ALTITUDE OF ABOUT 1500 FEET HE LEAPED—DRIVEN TO IT BY THE DEVOURING FLAMES. HIS BODY DROPPED LIKE A PLUMMET, LANDING IN A FLOWER GARDEN IN MARON. HIS LOSS WAS A SEVERE BLOW TO THE YANKS.
